BRITISH ARREST GANDHI; RUSH HIM TO PRISON

India on Brink of New Rebellion.

BULLETIN.

POONA, India, Jan. 4 (Monday).—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi, who was arrested at Bombay earlier in the day, arrived at Poona this morning. He will be imprisoned here.

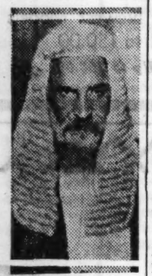
BOMBAY, Jan. 4 [Monday].—Mahatma Gandhi was arrested early today for the second time within a year and a half and Nationalist India once more girded itself for "nonviolent" war on Great Britain.



VALLABHAI PATEL

President Vallabhai Patel of the All-India Nationalist congress also was taken into custody. Both were arrested under a Bombay regulation of 1827 and the warrant stated that they were being removed to Yerawda jail at Poona for "good and sufficient reasons."

Compromise Efforts Fail.

Viceroy Lord Willingdon's drastic move was made after eleventh hour attempts of moderate Nationalist leaders to bring about a compromise had failed. Gandhi postponed a scheduled trip to the shrine at Ahmedabad in the hope that he could come to an agreement with the viceroy over the new ordinances against agitation and save the nation from a revival of last year's civil disobedience campaign.

Gandhi was arrested as he was sleeping peacefully on the stone floor of his tattered tent atop one of Bombay's tenements. He received the warrant from the head of the Bombay police with perfect serenity and smilingly handed it to his son Davidas without comment, this being his day of silence.

Forty minutes later the little loincladrebel was whisked through Bombay's darkened streets toward Poona, where he will be lodged in the same prison he left less than a year ago.

Whisked Away in Auto.

As he emerged from his tent, flanked by Mrs. Gandhi and Miss Madeline Slade, his British hand servant, he spotted a newspaper correspondent through the darkness and gave him a resounding whack on the back. He put his slender arm around him and handed him a hurriedly penciled note. Then he entered a swift American automobile which the police had waiting for him.

Vallabhai Patel, shortly after his arrest, appointed Babu Rejendra Prasad, of Behar, to succeed him as president of the congress.

"Even as America won its independence through suffering, valor and sacrifice," said the mahatma's note, "so shall India, in God's good time, achieve her freedom by suffering, sacrifice and non-violence."

"British Are Coming."

"They are coming, they are coming," cried disciples of Gandhi, standing on a balcony, as the police arrived at the mahatma's house. The cry was taken up by Miss Slade, who rushed to the side of the sleeping leader.

"Bapoo, bapoo," she said softly as she shook her "master."

"The police are here."

"Usher them in," said Gandhi, rubbing his half opened eyes, "they are welcome."

It was 3:05 a. m. when Police Commissioner Gerald Wilson served the mahatma with the warrant for his arrest. One policeman rushed to the telephone to prevent its use, while another stood guard at the gate to Gandhi's house.

Gandhi bowed, smiled broadly at the police commissioner, who said, "Mr. Gandhi, you have half an hour to dress and pack."

Takes Spinning Wheel.

The mahatma, however, who sleeps in his loincloth, did not have to dress, and Miss Slade already had packed his few simple belongings, including his spinning wheel.

Gandhi then wrote a few farewell messages, including one to Vallabhai Patel, of whose arrest he had not yet heard.

"Dear Vallabhai," he wrote, "infinite is God's mercy. Please tell the people of India never to swerve from truth and non-violence, never to flinch and to give their lives and all to win swaraj [independence]."

After one of Gandhi's woman disci-

ASK $5,197,000 SAVING IN PAY OF TEACHERS

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Superintendent of Schools Bogan, it was learned yesterday, will recommend to the school board this morning a cut in salary for hundreds of teachers and principals. The number whose pay is to be reduced is expected to reach 2,200, with a total reduction of $547,400. Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, a trustee, may endeavor to limit the number to 400, but certain other trusees would make it above 2,200. The instructors affected are those who now receive the misnamed "bonus."

MRS. W. S. HEFFERAN.

The superintendent will also recommend the elimination of a mininum of 287 teachers from the force at an estimated saving of $729,500 a year. Some of the trustees have said the number should be two or three times as many. This reduction is attained by increasing the number of pupils per teacher. There are more than 14,000 teachers in all branches of the public schools.

Asks 10 Per Cent Cut.

The superintendent will further recommend a ten per cent cut in the annual income of all of the remaining teachers. This is to be accomplished by giving them nine school months' work of four weeks each instead of ten, as at present. The resultant saving will be $3,820,000.

Altogether the recommended reduction in teachers' pay is an estimated $5,197,000. This is approximately 13.2 per cent of the total $39,485,473 budget allowance for teachers' salaries. Such a slash in teachers' income has not been tried since 1904.

The trustees, however, recognize that they cannot adopt such a cut unless they trim the $8,507,089 pay roll of civil service employés for a like or larger percentage. The same percentage would give a saving of $1,139,900. Some of the trustees claimed yesterday they have already agreed to save that much on civil service employés' compensation, but it has not been presented in a form which permits a direct comparison to be made.

Told to Seek Reductions.

Superintendent Bogan's recommendations will not be made voluntarily. He was ordered to suggest reductions in the educational fund, where the least injury would be done, so that an aggregate saving of $8,512,865 would be made. The board's subcommittee on budget, Trustees Savage, Brandenberg, McJunkin and President Myers who is a member ex officio, have already eliminated $1,122,435 from the educational fund budget, so the superintendent's job is to cut out $7,390,430 additional.

The superintendent's complete plan of saving is scheduled for formal presentation when the subcommittee meets this morning.

It is understood that the superintendent will not recommend the elimination of any of the so-called "fads and fancies" in the school system, although, if pressed, it is said that he will acquiesce in curbing somewhat their sphere of influence.

Wants System Unchanged.

Superintendent Bogan has clearly indicated he believes the Chicago public school system, as now constructed and operated, should not be materially disturbed. In this he has the support of Dr. Charles H. Judd of the University of Chicago and the opposition of Dr. Henry Morrison of the same university.

The proposed saving in salaries is probably the most objectionable feature, to the teachers, of superintendent's recommendations. The teachers had

MINERS MAKE BIG GOLD ORE STRIKE IN PHILIPPINES

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

MANILA, P. I., Jan. 3.—The Big Wedge Mining company, operating at Antinok, near Baguio, reported today one of the most sensational gold strikes in the history of the Philippines. Samples of ore brought to Manila show a remarkable assay value, straight commercial ore assaying at least $2,000 a ton, while several specimens rate actually as high as $3,000 a ton.

The discovery was made by Arthur Doe, a mining engineer of San Francisco, while inspecting the company's properties.

Major importance attaches to the find because the Baguio district is already the third largest gold producer in the world. The Antinok properties are adjacent, inducing the belief that it is possible the present discovery is the actual mother lode of the entire district.

Army Officer a Negro, His Death Reveals

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The almost unbelievable story of a Negro who masqueraded as a white man for 18 years of brilliant service in the United States army, 13 years of which were as a commissioned officer in charge of white troops, was unfolded tonight here and in Los Angeles.

The masquerading of Lieut. William J. French was uncovered with his death from a bullet through the head beside a lonely road near Gilroy, 50 miles south of here.

How the lieutenant, who is said to have distinguished himself in France in the world war, came to his death may never be known, but Mrs. Gertrude McEnroe, the last person to see him alive, is convinced that he committed suicide.

Feared Exposure for Years.

Expressing the belief that years in fear of exposure had undermined his sanity, Mrs. McEnroe told how he tried to kill her and himself after leaving San Francisco this morning by car for Los Angeles. Near Gilroy, she said, he wrecked the car by driving it into a tree. A passing truck took her to Gilroy. Police went out and found French dead with his pistol nearby.

Lieut. French was on leave from Fort Devens, Mass. After his death it was revealed that his race and army position were known to not only his 70 year old mother, Mrs. E. F. French of Pasadena, Cal., whom he visited at Christmas, but also to scores of other Negroes in that city.

Mrs. French admitted her son's Negro blood, but refused to tell anything about his life. Friends said that he was one-eighth Negro. He was dark visaged and his hair was inclined to curl tightly, but among his brother officers he had no difficulty in passing as white.

Warned by Relatives.

French's relatives said that they had warned him against attempting to carry his pose to the point of commanding white troops.

A Negro, who said he was a Chicago lawyer and a friend of the family, arrived at the French home and assumed charge of the household. The lawyer said that Lieut. French went to school in Chicago, but where or when he ceased to be known as a Negro and became accepted as a white man no member of the family would discuss.

At the Presidio of San Francisco the news of the masquerade created a sensation. The lieutenants, captains, and colonels who had shared mess with Lieut. French were amazed.

Woman Companion Flees.

Gilroy, Cal., Jan. 3.—(AP)—The body of Lieut. William J. French, U. S. A., on leave from Fort Devens, Mass., was found near his automobile in a field four miles south of here today with a bullet wound in the head. A pistol from which the shot was fired was on the running board of the automobile.

Mrs. Gertrude McEnroe, who said her home was at Butte, Mont., directed officers to the scene. She said she left San Francisco with French at 5 a. m. to drive to Los Angeles, and that apparently he had become insane and sought to take her life and his own.

Mrs. McEnroe said she was struck a severe blow on the head. Fearful the officer was demented, she said, she suggested they stop at San Jose. Lieut. French drove around San Jose and continued through Gilroy. Then, she said, Lieut. French headed his car off the road and into an oak tree, caromed off, knocked down a fence and hurtled 30 yards into a field

She ran to the highway, where she stopped a truck and was taken to Gilroy.

Mrs. McEnroe said Lieut. French's wife died two years ago, and that at his invitation she had come to San Francisco from Kansas City to visit him.

BRITISH SHUN SPECIAL CRISIS PRAYERS OF TWO ARCHBISHOPS

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York News.]

LONDON, Jan. 3.—Special prayers authorized by the archbishops of Canterbury and York were ignored today when churchgoers in all parts of the British isles observed a day of national intercession and prayer.

The archbishops had approved for "optional use" an elaborate list of prayers asking for divine guidance in the world crisis. Many of them aroused such antagonism, however, that in hundreds of churches only ordinary prayers were used. The prayer which aroused the bitterest hostility was this:

"Because we have indulged in national arrogance, finding satisfaction in our power over others, rather than in our ability to serve them, forgive us our trespasses."

Patriotic vicars objected that nobody in their congregations believed the prayer to be true and therefore declined to include it in their services.

Police Radio Call Balks Effort to Jump in Lake

Having lost his job, his savings—in a closed bank—and his home, Michael Petrizak, 46 years old, 8108 Muskegon avenue, told his wife last night he was going out to drown himself in the lake. Mrs. Petrizak telephoned the police. A radio call reached a motor squad, which hurried to the 79th street pier and seized Petrizak just as he was about to jump in the lake. He was locked up for the night.

Queen of Mafia Seized; Reign of Terror Ends

PALERMO, Sicily, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The hard handed manner in which a bandit queen ruled over a large section of Sicily is described by Cesare Mori in a report he is writing on how after a three year campaign he recently freed this southern island from the grip of the Mafia terrorist society.

Mori retired after the fight to pen his story. Mussolini made him a senator in recognition of his victory.

His report will tell how the little city of Gangi, honeycombed with caves, was the headquarters of a strong section of the Mafia, headed by the notorious brigands, Candino Melchiorre and Gaetano Ferrarello, who had been fugitives for more than 30 years.

Brigand Leaps to Death.

When Mori decided to move on the city, he sent a telegram to the mayor ordering him to call for the surrender of all fugitives within 12 hours. He vowed that if any refused he would fight them "until the last breath."

Ferrarello surrendered at once. A few days later he killed himself by leaping from a prison wall.

The others defied Mori, who gathered a force of several thousand men, sent them to vantage points around the city by truck, and began a midnight siege of Gangi.

The unswerving prefect captured the city and 160 bandits. Among them was the Mafia queen, Giuseppa Salvo, mother of a bandit chieftain, and her four princesses.

Live in Barbaric Splendor.

They were living in barbaric splendor. The queen dressed in masculine garb and rode horse back as well as any man as she went from town to town collecting tribute. She forced the pretty girls in her district to marry the desperadoes of her little army, and gave them elaborate weddings.

She had a crew of false witnesses who were prepared to swear to anything when they were sent, at her orders, into courts to influence the decision in civil and criminal cases.

She held a form of judicial court of her own and her decisions were not subject to appeal.

Becomes Humble Woman.

The queen resisted the attack of Prefect Mori's force, along with her men. But when she was captured and taken into court, her mantle of royalty frayed. She appeared at the trial handcuffed, humble and dressed in black with a shawl over her head.

Another of the captives was the bandit leader Melchiorre, who was 77 years old. A few days after his imprisonment he died.

Mori tells that 1,250 persons were arrested and 1,000 sentenced to a total of 10,000 years behind bars for 350 murders and incalculable other crimes.

$10,000 TABLE SET IS STOLEN FROM SOUTH SIDE HOME

Washington Porter II., wealthy real estate man and art collector, reported to police yesterday that a Russian table set, valued at $10,000, had been stolen from his home at 4043 Lake Park avenue.

The set consisted of more than 100 pieces, including platter, cups and chalices, all of silver ornamented with enamel. Mr. Porter collected the pieces himself on his European trips.

The theft occurred some time between Aug. 1, when the set was last used, and Dec. 26, when Mr. Porter opened a metal cabinet in which the silver was kept and found the pieces missing. The thief evidently had obtained a duplicate key to the cabinet, Mr. Porter said, for the lock showed no sign of having been forced.

MISSOURI GANG SIGHTED TWICE, BUT GET AWAY

Kin of 3 Fugitives Are Arrested.

Springfield, Mo., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Thousands of possemen, aided by airplanes and bloodhounds, engaged today in Missouri's most intensive man hunt, searching for three sharpshooting desperadoes who yesterday killed six peace officers and wounded two others on a farm near here, but their efforts were futile.

Twice the bandits were sighted, early this morning when they demanded food at a suburban home, and late in the afternoon when they asked permission to store an automobile at a gasoline service station in Kansas City. Both times fresh posses took the trail, but the fugitives eluded them.

May Be in Stolen Auto.

A posse of several hundred citizens, headed by officers and armed with weapons ranging from pistols to machine guns, raced toward Joplin tonight on federal highway 66 in pursuit of two men in a stolen car, believed to be two of the fugitives.

Jesse Moore, a farmer living near the Young farm, notified the sheriff's office that two men resembling Harry Young and one of his brothers stole his sedan and fled westward.

The sheriff's office at Joplin, 77 miles away, was notified, and a posse from there headed for Springfield. Officers in towns along the way also were notified and took the trail.

Brothers Are Ex-Convicts.

Harry Young, 27, and his brother Jennings, 29, ex-convicts, whisky runners, and automobile thieves, are two of the fugitives. Whether the third is their brother Paul or Charles Floyd, an accused killer and escaped convict, has not been definitely established.

Six members of the Young family have been arrested. They are Oscar Young, a brother, known to have been on the murder farm yesterday, but probably before the killings, and his wife; Mrs. Willie Young, mother of the fugitives and owner of the farm; two sisters of the desperadoes, Vinita Young and Mrs. Albert Conley, and the latter's husband, an unemployed printer.

It was through the arrest yesterday of Vinita Young and her sister on charges of attempting to dispose of a stolen car that officers learned of the presence of Harry Young, wanted for murder, on his mother's farm.

Say Mother Warned Them.

Officers today said they learned that after the mother heard of the arrest of the girls she telephoned Harry at the farm and advised him: "You had better be prepared."

The toll of dead and injured shows how well prepared were Harry Young and his gunman companions when officers from here sought to capture them.

Sheriff Marcell Hendrix, his chief deputy, Chief of Detectives Tony Oliver, and three other policemen were slain, and two others wounded when the officers charged the farmhouse.

Demand Food From Woman

Sheriffs, deputies, special deputies, detectives, policemen, National Guard troops, Legionnaires, and thousands of private citizens, volunteers from virtually all of the forty-four Missouri counties in the Ozarks foothills, searched the country from dawn until darkness, but a woman at home alone, and a gas station owner were the only ones to see the fugitives.

Harry Young appeared at the home of E. T. Page, a grocer, in a suburb here and demanded food of Mrs. Page. He was accompanied by another man and asked for food for three, lending support to the belief of officers that at least one of the bandits was wounded. Mrs. Page refused them and promptly telephoned officers.

Bloody Bandage on Head.

From Kansas City came further information tending to show that one of the officers' bullets had found a mark. R. S. Champ, service station owner, said a man who asked permission to leave a car with him had a bloody bandage about his head. He later identified this man from photographs as Harry Young. He identified Young's companion as Charles Floyd, escaped convict. Champ refused to take the car and the pair drove away.

Possemen, unable to do little more in the darkness, tonight were realigning their forces for a still more intensive hunt tomorrow. They are prepared for a battle to the finish if they sight the desperadoes. This whole section of the state is aroused by the murders and there have been many threats of lynching if the fugitives are captured alive.

Harry Young shot and killed a night

marshall in Republic, Mo., two years ago while the officer was marching him along the street to jail. Young escaped and not a trace of him had been found until the attempt to arrest him on his mother's farm.

It developed that he had been arrested at Fort Worth, Tex., on a charge of stealing a car, but was freed on bond. He served a term in the Missouri penitentiary for grand larceny.

SURVIVOR'S STORY

[Here is the first comprehensive eye witness story of the massacre of six peace officers, told by one of the survivors, Frank Pike, 31 year old Springfield city detective, who himself was wounded by two gunshot charges, fired from an embattled farmhouse, that killed two officers standing beside him. Pike engaged in a gunfight with desperadoes sought for murder for about half an hour Saturday and gave up the siege only when his ammunition was exhausted and help arrived.]

BY FRANK PIKE.
[Springfield city detective, as told to the Associated Press.]

Springfield, Mo., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Sheriff Marcell Hendrix and two deputies came to the police station yesterday afternoon and told us he suspected Harry Young, fugitive murderer, was in his mother's farmhouse, about seven miles west of Springfield. The sheriff asked for several police officers and detectives to go with him to the place.

In his car he took Tony Oliver, detective chief; Sid Meadows, Charles Houser, Ollie Crosswhite, Virgil Johnson, and Ben Bilyeau, detectives; Charles Houser, patrol driver, and Wiley Mashburn, deputy. Oren Brown, a detective, and I went together in a police car. There were ten of us altogether, eight in the sheriff's car, which led the way out there.

We all arrived together and left the cars right out in front of the house, close to the barbed wire fence. When we got out Virgil Johnson took a tear gas gun and fired it through an upstairs front window.

Break Into Deadly Fire.

That didn't bring them out like we figured it would, so the sheriff said: "Let's kick the back door open." Me and Wiley Mashburn and the sheriff all ran against the door and burst it open.

Two shotgun charges were fired from the kitchen.

Down came the sheriff, dead, and they hit me in the arm. Mashburn dropped down dead on the other side of me.

Their blood spattered on my hat and clothes. The doctor later took a handful of shot out of my left arm and I picked out two or three more. The arm of my overcoat here is all cut up with buckshot.

Then we decided to send Johnson and Bilyeau back to town for help. Shots from the house tore away the windshield of their car as they backed out of the driveway and Johnson was wounded in the leg as he went. They dragged the sheriff's body into the house and took his guns, a rifle and a pistol. They took the guns off all six bodies that lay around in the house and yard, it was found when help arrived and the men inside had fled.

I ran in front where Tony Oliver and Sid Meadows were and told them I was shot in the arm.

More Fall Before Fire.

Oliver said, "They're going to get us all." Then they began blazing away again. They'd run upstairs and fire from every window. I shot back at them fifteen times myself.

Charlie Houser walked right up to the house, out in the open. A shotgun charge just tore the top of his head off. Sid Meadows then told us they killed Crosswhite behind the storm cellar in back. I hollered to Oren Brown in the rear and said, "Get behind a tree; they're going to get you out there." He came up about fifteen feet behind me, and about the time he was stationed good behind one of the several trees he was shot through the forehead and pitched over backwards.

Tony and Brown and I, the only three left then after the other two went back to town, were shooting as fast as we could. When we had shot fifteen or twenty shells apiece, Tony said, "They got me."

But he stood up and was still shooting. That left Brown and me alive out of eight. I guess there were three or four in the house. When Tony fell over backwards I'd shot my last shell, and so had Brown.

The fellows in the house shouted, "Throw down your guns, you so-and-sos, and come in the house or we'll kill you.

Retreat Under Fire.

Brown said we better take from there as we had no more shells. He starts to run and I took right after him, both of us running zig-zag, away from the house and towards the two barns where the officers found three stolen motor cars.

Every step bullets hit on every side of us. The bullets were still awhizzin' when we were 100 yards from the house. We ran straight past the barn into a meadow. We stopped at the road and kept the rest of them from going right to the house, where they would have been killed.

I guess we were there under fire about a half to three-quarters of an hour.

I am positive the men in the house did not get away in a car. They must have got out through the back way and took out across the cornfield. I went into town to get my wounds dressed.

Lee Jones, detective, and Lon Scorr, former newspaper man, who came back in the party with Johnson, crawled up through the cornfield to the left of the house and found Mashburn.

When relief arrived, one tear gas shell set the house afire. Several persons who inspected the shot raked house attempted to set it afire, officers said.

Officer McBride believes he wounded one of the escaping men. McBride, the only officer to report he saw the occupants of the house escaping, says the man was hit in the shoulder and spun around.

The motor numbers on the automobiles found in the barns had been mutilated.

SINGS AS GALLOWS LOOMS, WEEPS AS FATHER IS KILLED

La Grande, Ore., Jan. 3.—(AP)—A youth who whistled when informed of the death of a policeman he was accused of shooting, who sang defiantly when the gallows threatened, broke down today when he learned his father, himself a policeman in Missouri, was one of six officers killed by desperadoes.

Keith Crosswhite, 19, held with John Owens, 28, for shooting Policeman Amos Helms, was informed by Sheriff Jesse Breashears of the death of the father, Ollie Crosswhite, Springfield, Mo., detective, in attempting to capture Harry Young, murder suspect.

"When I told them Helms was dead, they just whistled," Sheriff Breashears said. "And they just sang when I told them they'd probably face murder charges. But it got Keith when he heard his father had been killed."

A county physician was called to treat him.

Policeman Helms died Dec. 30 after weeks of desperate effort failed to save him. He was shot when he attempted to question the Missouri suspects last October.

STATE NEARING END OF BRIDLE PATH EVIDENCE

Other Disclosures in Canal Trial Seen.

First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup announced yesterday that he expects to take up two more court sessions in the sanitary district graft conspiracy trial to complete the evidence on the $1,068,000 cinder bridle path along the North Shore Channel road. Timothy J. Crowe, who was president of the sanitary district board during the wild spending days of 1927-1928, and seven of his former associates are on trial. The trial will be resumed this morning before Chief Justice Harry Fisher in the criminal court after an adjournment since Wednesday because of the holidays.

The time yet to be taken up with the bridle path testimony depends, however, on how far the prosecution is allowed to go with its evidence under the ruling of Judge Fisher and his associates, Judges James J. Kelly and John Prystalski, that the state will be allowed to "prove the cost of projects to the district and what the state claims to be a reasonable cost."

What State Hopes to Prove.

Prosecutor Northup expects, he said, to show that the district paid for thousands of cubic yards of cinders which never went into the cinder path. It is charged that the district paid for three times more cinders than were actually used.

The state also has evidence to show that the district shipped cinders from some of its own pumping plants at its own expense to the vicinity of the bridle path. These same cinders were then resold to the district by favored contractors, who did nothing more than haul them from the freight cars to the scene of activity, according to the evidence. The bills show that the district not only bought its own cinders, it is said, but paid from 75 cents to $1 more per cubic yard than the reasonable price at the time.

Evidence on Dummy Companies.

After winding up the cinder path testimony the prosecution expects to make revelations that sanitary district employés formed dummy companies in order to sell supplies at a high rate to the district. This was accomplished by the district evading the law and purchasing needed articles in small lots just under the $500 mark, it is charged. Under the law all purchases involving a sum of more than $500 must be let by competitive bidding.

Prosecutor Northup said that had the district purchased these articles in wholesale lots under competitive bidding large sums could have been saved to the taxpayers.

DRUGGAN-LAKE FATE WILL BE DECIDED TODAY

Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake, the former beer barons, are to appear again before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson today for sentencing on their pleas of guilty to income tax dodging. The cases have been continued several times, but Judge Wilkerson announced at the last hearing that he would dispose of them today.

Druggan has tried to show that he agreed to the plea of guilty with the understanding that he would receive leniency, both on his criminal and civil liability, but the defense declined to put these charges in affidavit form. The court ruled that nothing remains for the defense except to introduce evidence in mitigation of punishment.

Druggan and Lake have combined liabilities of more than half a million dollars and are subject to possible maximum sentences of 32 and 27 years' imprisonment and fines of $60,000 and $50,000 respectively.

MAID'S INSANITY IS EXPLAINED IN KILLING 2 BABES

A peculiar association of affection and fear, in the opinion of investigators yesterday, caused a demented maid in the home of John H. Heindel, 934 Clinton place, River Forest, to kill two little children left in her charge and then to commit suicide by hanging herself.

Mr. and Mrs. Heindel, on their return home from a visit to friends, found their sons, John H. Jr., 4 years old, and George, 15 months old, hanged in their room on the second floor. The body of the maid, Mary Roth, 23 years old, was hanging in a basement closet.

Medical authorities, including Dr. Francis J. Gerty of the Psychopathic hospital, advanced the theory that the maid's affection for the children had developed into a form of insanity. Such aberrations, according to Dr. Gerty, are not unusual in childless women, and often cause kidnapings.

Blame Fear of Separation.

It is believed that in this case the maid had been burdened by an unwarranted fear she would lose her job, causing a homicidal mania. The desire to be with the youngsters in death would have furnished an insane motive for the tragic deed, it was said.

"It is obvious," said Dr. Gerty, "that Mary Roth was unbalanced. It is true that she had shown no symptoms of this, but such symptoms could easily be concealed. Nor does the fact that her fear of being discharged was unfounded do away with the theory. It was just as real to her, or could have been, as if she had been told she was to go. Such a hallucination—that she was to be discharged—could easily have been a part of her insanity."

Mr. and Mrs. Heindel said they had no intention of forcing Mary to leave and had regarded her devotion to the children a point in her favor.

Overcome by Gas First.

It was apparent that the children had been overcome by gas in the kitchen of the house before they were hanged upstairs. Sheets and blankets had been tied over the windows and burners in the cookstove were turned on when the parents returned.

Chief of Police Soderlin of River Forest was attempting to learn something of the maid's life and relatives on the remote possibility that some one not connected with the household may have been involved. He said, however, that he had found no evidence to support or suggest such a theory.

Employed at Home 7 Months.

"We would like to find out something about Mary's earlier life," he added. "So far we have not learned even the names of her parents. During the seven months she was employed at the Heindel home she had received no callers and apparently had had no communication with relatives."

Frank Gresman, 2030 Sedgwick street, in whose rooming house the woman lived for several weeks last June, said that she had told him she was an orphan who had been reared by an uncle and that she had to go to work when this relative died after losing a small fortune.

No letters or other documents to show anything of her antecedents were found in her belongings. Whether she had destroyed clews to her identity was uncertain. She had told Gresman that she worked as a nursemaid for a south side family while living in his house.

The boys were grandsons of B. S. Pearsall, wealthy president of a butter company in Elgin. Mr. Heindel is secretary of the Leonard Construction company, 37 South Wabash avenue.

VITAMIN D AGAIN FOUND; THIS TIME BY BRITISH SCIENTISTS

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Dr. Robert Bourdillion announced today that after months of experimenting at the National Institute for Medical Research he and a group of five London scientists had isolated a substance they believed to be pure vitamin D.

"We have isolated a pure white crystalline substance which we have named calciferol and which we have every reason to believe is pure vitamin D," he said. "It is certainly vitamin D in a purer state than has ever existed before."

Recalling the fact that vitamin D has long been known as a cure for rickets, Dr. Bourdillon said the importance of the discovery, apart from its scientific merit, was that the vitamin could now be administered in correct doses. He added that their success came almost simultaneously with that of Prof. Windaus and other German scientists who produced the same substance recently.

LEADERS COOL TO 388 MILLION TAX BOND IDEA

Mayor Declares Plan Is Clouding Main Issue.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Coolness marked the public attitude yesterday toward the proposal of Cook county legislators on Saturday that as much as $388,000,000 in bonds be issued to meet the crisis in the local tax situation. The legislators' plan involves not only the funding of the 1930 taxes, except the state's share, but also the issuing of bonds for the unpaid taxes of 1928 and 1929.

MELVIN A. TRAYLOR. [A. P. Photo.]

One of the most significant expressions on the subject came from Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank. While refusing to appear as the spokesman for the banks—he has said repeatedly that his utterances are merely his individual views—and reluctant to create any impression that the bankers do not appreciate the emergency, Mr. Traylor referred an interviewer to his speech before the general assembly on Dec. 1. In that talk he said that even the proposal to fund the 1930 taxes alone on a twenty year basis did not have "a Chinaman's chance."

Can't Succeed, Mayor Told.

Mayor Cermak, preparing to address the assembly tomorrow, also said that his advisers without exception have told him the wholesale funding plan cannot succeed. He said he would fight against the danger that the funding idea might sidetrack the bill for the reconstruction of the county taxing system.

Joseph K. Brittain, chairman of the executive committee of Gov. Emmerson's tax conference, was asked if he would call a meeting of his associates to determine whether the committee would change its position on the funding proposal. He said he thought such a meeting unnecessary, implying that the committee already had gone into the funding idea so thoroughly that there is no likelihood of a change of attitude.

Plan Discarded by Conference.

In its report, which was approved by the plenary conference of fifty men, including leaders in the financial, industrial, commercial and civic life of the community, the executive committee said it had discarded even the 1930 funding plan "as illegal, impractical and contrary to sound financing methods." As a counter proposal it recommended the six year installment plan for the 1930 levy except for that part due the state.

That part of Mr. Traylor's speech before a joint session of the two houses of the general assembly, to which he referred yesterday, was as follows:

"You have heard a great deal, and some of my friends have quoted me as saying that I favored the funding of the 1930 taxes, $280,000,000, in toto.

"Certainly I favor it if it could be done, but there isn't a Chinaman's chance.

It Can't Be Done—Traylor.

"When you cannot sell $1,250,000 of bonds to pay interest and sinking funds anywhere, when the sanitary district, with a program that calls for $150,000,000 in the next six years, cannot sell $1,250,000 to pay interest and sinking fund, when it cannot get contractors to take 4½ per cent bonds at 90 cents on the dollar, how in the name of heaven and under what circumstances could you sell $280,000,000 worth of bonds to take care of the 1930 taxes and at the same time sell anticipation warrants to pay 1931 operating expenses?

"A $500,000,000 operation of a funding character when the total obligations outstanding of all the municipalities over the last fifty years is only a little more than $500,000,000!

"It just can't be done. There isn't any use talking about it. Certainly it would be a beautiful thing if we could take the burden off the backs of the taxpayers now and extend over a period of 20 years the payment of 1930 taxes. I do not think it could be done legally, and practically it is utterly impossible. So why waste our time on that?"

Mayor Cermak's belief that the big bonding idea might tend to sidetrack what he considers the first step toward the restoration of public credit, the revision of the taxing system, was based on the manner in which the Cook county delegation stampeded when the funding plan was proposed at their caucus on Saturday.

"There may be a feeling among some of the members of the assembly," he said, "that the easy way out of the difficulties they face on the eve of this year's election is to vote bonds, bonds, and more bonds. But where will they be if there is no market for the bonds and they see the voters going to the polls in the midst of a breakdown of local government traceable at least partly to the general assembly?

"The Thing That Must Be Done."

"We have been told over and over again that the first thing that must be done if our bonds and our tax warrants are to be marketable—a thing that is vital now since Judge Jarecki's decision—is the establishment of a new taxing system for the defective one that permitted us to get into our present difficulties.

"We must not be led into chasing a will-o'-the-wisp in the form of voting an almost unlimited amount of bonds. We might persuade the legislature to vote them, but where could we sell them? Who would buy them? They would lie unissued as have other bonds that have been authorized but for which there is no market.

"We have been told by Mr. Traylor and the biggest bankers in Chicago that the municipal bond market will not improve until public confidence is restored in the taxing system through a reorganization.

"The reorganization idea now generally considered as the one that has a chance to pass the assembly is not my idea. It is the result of serious consideration of the political and other obstacles in the way of a plan of this sort. It is not ideal. It is not a question of what we want but what we can get."

MOTHER AND CHILD SLAIN

MARGARET GIBSON.

MRS. FLORENCE GIBSON.

CHEMIST'S WIFE AND CHILD DEAD IN GARY TRAGEDY

Found Shot to Death in Home.

William R. Gibson, chief chemist of the American Sheet and Tin Plate company, was held for questioning in the Gary police station yesterday while Lake county authorities investigated the slaying of his wife, Florence, 36 years old, and daughter, Margaret, 7 years old.

Although officials are convinced Mrs. Gibson had slain her daughter and then taken her own life in a fit of despondency, Coroner D. S. D. Taylor ordered Gibson held for the inquest, which probably will be held today. The coroner said he would be formally released after the inquest.

Finds Family Dead.

Gibson said he returned home from Hammond shortly after 2 a. m. yesterday and found his daughter dead on the floor of a second story bedroom in their home at 550 Lincoln street. She had been shot four times in the back and once in the left arm. On the bed was Mrs. Gibson, still alive but unconscious, with two bullet wounds in her heart.

Gibson summoned Dr. Leo K. Ryan, the family physician, who called the police and coroner. Mrs. Gibson died without regaining consciousness a few minutes after being taken to Mercy hospital.

Directly under the center of the bed was the .38 caliber revolver used in the slaying, and this circumstance at first led authorities to doubt the suicide theory, believing Mrs. Gibson could not have dropped it so it would have fallen there, with two bullet wounds in her heart.

Threatened to End Life.

Neighbors said Mrs. Gibson had complained of being so nervous that she could not sleep and had threatened to end her life. The mother also was said to have worried over the health of the child, who had missed a year's schooling because of an attack of pneumonia.

Gibson did not accuse his wife directly of murder and suicide, but protested his innocence. He said the weapon had been in the home 10 years.

Fire Destroys Store and 5 Homes at English, Ind.

English, Ind., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Fire fanned by a strong wind threatened to destroy this entire town early today. A hardware store and five residences were consumed by the flames before the fire was brought under control by fire departments from French Lick and Paoli. The loss is expected to reach $100,000.

GLENCOE STARTS TAX COLLECTING ON ITS OWN HOOK

Revenue Received Will Go Only to Village.

Citizens of Glencoe, wealthy north shore suburb, last night launched a plan to collect their local taxes independently of the Cook county tax officials. The schools of the community will remain closed today as a result of the failure of the village to receive its taxes through the regular collecting offices.

James A. Russell, village president, announced the details of the plan. It was drawn up at a conference of 25 citizens of the suburb, including the village trustees and members of the school board. The meeting organized the Glencoe fiscal committee, a group of eight citizens headed by Elmer F. Wieboldt, Chicago department store executive.

Other members of the committee are: Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, Gen. Abel Davis, Edward Johnston, Maurice H. Karker, Edwin C. Austin, Clarence MacNeill, and Forest D. Siefkin.

How Plan Will Work.

The committee will approach each of the 1,100 property holders of the village and ask him to pay that portion of his taxes, about 60 per cent, which goes to the support of the village government and schools. No effort will be made to collect taxes for the county, state, or other governments outside the village limits.

A receipt will be issued to each property owner who pays and tax warrants equal in amount to his payment will be placed to his credit in a trust fund. When the present assessment difficulties are cleared up and the county treasurer starts collecting 1930 and 1931 taxes, those warrants will be turned over to the treasurer in payment of that portion of the property owner's taxes due the village and schools.

The schools will not be opened until enough cash is obtained under the new plan to pay salaries, Mr. Russell said. Glencoe teachers have been paid to Jan. 1, and the village school authorities will not ask them to work without regular pay days, it has been announced.

Brookfield Vacation Extended.

One other Cook county community, Western Springs, will let its schools remain closed today, the normal end of the Christmas vacation period. In another town, Brookfield, the vacation period has been extended a week. Whether the Brookfield schools will be opened next Monday depends on the success of village authorities in selling tax warrants, State Senator Arthur A. Huebsch, village attorney, said.

In a score of other Chicago suburbs schools will open, although school officials expressed fear that they will have to close again within a month or two. George Meyer, president of the Lyons school board, denied that community would close its schools. Its teachers, paid in tax warrants, now hold $60,000 worth of the securities in place of cash.

$1,000,000 Fire Sweeps Dover, N. H.; Rages 12 Hrs.

Dover, N. H., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Fire raging for 12 hours in a gale driven blizzard destroyed the Morrill block with a loss of $1,000,000 and threatened the heart of this city today before the combined efforts of firemen from nine cities and towns in three states could check the flames.

CONFERENCE ON JOBS HEARS LEWIS PLEAD FOR CO-OPERATION

Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, speaking at the opening session of the Illinois Conference on Unemployment at the Congress hotel last night before 20 persons, declared there should be closer coöperation between the federal and state governments and organizations of that character, which he described as non-partisan and solely interested in the welfare of the people.

Senator Lewis was introduced at the close of the meeting by Prof. Robert Morss Lovett of the University of Chicago, who presided. The conference will end this afternoon.

James Mullenbach, chairman of the commission on church and industry of the Chicago Federation of Churches, assailed the business and political leaders of the nation for not foreseeing, in 1928 and 1929, the true trend. John Walker, president of the Illinois Miners, declared their condition "deplorable." Prof. Paul H. Douglas, of the University of Chicago, just returned from a study of European conditions, advocated the adoption of unemployment insurance.

Bandits Menace Three in Hotel Office, Seize Cash

Three bandits, one armed with a shotgun, entered the offices of the Dearborn Plaza hotel at 1032 North Dearborn street last night. They menaced Harry Cashatt, the manager; Miss Pauline Cooper, the switchboard operator, and a Filipino attendant, and stole $550 from the cash drawer. They also took $7 from the Filipino and escaped, driving away in a car.

LETTER DEMANDS $1,500 FROM RICH MANUFACTURER

Gresham police attempted yesterday to trap an extortionist who demanded $1,500 of Irving K. Hutchinson, 45 years old, of 8922 South Hoyne avenue, Beverly Hills, father of eight children and wealthy official of the Continental Scale works, 5701 South Claremont avenue. His brother, A. H. Hutchinson, 8944 South Hoyne avenue, is president of the concern.

Last Thursday Irving Hutchinson received a letter in the morning mail demanding $1,500, but containing no direct threat except "trouble" if he ignored the demand. The note, well written, instructed him to place the money in bills of small denomination under a birdhouse in the Dan Ryan tract of the forest preserve at 91st street and Longwood drive yesterday. The afternoon mail of last Thursday brought a follow-up card repeating the instructions.

Hutchinson notified police, and yesterday carried a decoy package, wrapped in brown paper, to the designated spot. Detectives watched the place for several hours, but no one claimed the package. Hutchinson said early this morning he was not unduly alarmed over the incident.

BOGAN TO ASK $5,197,000 CUT IN TEACHER PAY

Plan Hits "Bonuses"; To Be Presented Today.

hoped to maintain their salary schedule and the basic part of it will remain.

In the schools there are 2,501 teachers and principals who receive the so-called "bonus" pay of $10 to $120 a month each more than the so-called basic schedule. This added compensation has been given for teaching special subjects, difficult pupils, supervisory duties, and extended working hours.

"Bonus" Salaries Illustrated.

The continuation schools are illustrative of such "bonus" salaries. These schools have 84 teachers and instead of teaching five hours, as in the elementary schools, or six hours as in the high schools, they work eight hours a day. Instead of having a year of ten school months, they have a year of 12½ school months of four weeks each. Twelve and a half school months make a total of 50 weeks, leaving them two weeks of vacation in the calendar year.

For the 12½ months work, at the extended hours, the 84 continuation school teachers receive from $187.50 to $950 a year each, or an aggregate of $70,568. The hours of these teachers are to be reduced to six per day and their year cut to 10 months, and probably all of the bonus money eliminated.

Most in Elementary Schools.

The great majority of the "bonus teachers" are in the elementary schools. In that branch of the service they total 2,006 for a total "bonus" compensation of $387,993. The extra compensation is paid for teaching manual training, household arts, physical education, the crippled, deaf, blind, epileptic, subnormal, tubercular, and anaemic children and for teaching adults, eighth grade pupils, teaching in the homes, hospitals, jails and teaching the truants. In addition to the 16 physio-therapists, certain principals, assistant principals, heads of branch schools and a few others are given the added compensation.

In this group are 411 teachers of the eighth grade, 208 instructors of the subnormal pupils, 238 teachers in household arts, 232 teachers of manual training, and 226 teachers of physical education.

13 in Parental Schools.

In the parental school there are 13 teachers who receive a total of $1,755 extra compensation per month. The prevocational schools have 107 "bonus" teachers who collect—when the board is paying regularly—$38,398 per month above the basic schedule. The Junior high schools have 48 teachers, who get $12,250 over basic schedule; the senior high schools have 225 who earn $97,050 extra per month and the Crane and Normal colleges have 26 who get $14,100 extra per month.

The reduction in the number of teachers contemplates the elimination of 170 teachers in the elementary schools, 503 in the senior high schools, 23 in the junior high schools and eight in the Normal school for an estimated saving of $697,500. This is not as large as President Myers has recommended, and the number of shelved teachers may be increased.

Provides for Normal College.

This program provides for the continued operation of the Chicago Normal college, which provides teachers for the public school system. There are now about 2,200 teachers on the waiting list, which will be further augmented by the reduction of the number now working. This is sufficient to fill regular vacancies for four years; and some of the trustees see no good reason why the normal school should not be closed for a year and thereby eliminate an appropriation of $425,000.

"Why continue to train teachers when we have no work for them" commented Mr. Myers yesterday.

Close Evening Schools.

In addition to all of these reductions in compensation paid teachers, the superintendent has been ordered to close all of the evening schools which are not on the accredited list. This will eliminate two-thirds of them.

The plan to give nine school month's work of four weeks each to the teachers, instead of ten, which is said to have the support of the teachers. They prefer that to a general cut in salaries. They are hoping, as the employés of the city hall and county building hope, that enough taxes will be collected later to resume the high level of expenditures.

The members of the legislature from Cook county decided last Saturday that the public cannot pay the taxes now levied and they recommended the issuance of $388,000,000 in bonds.

TEACHERS DEMAND FINANCE RELIEF AT MASSMEETING TODAY

Chicago's 14,000 unpaid school teachers, backed by churches, civic organizations, and Parent-Teacher associations, will climax their crusade for immediate legislative relief with a big massmeeting in the Stadium, 1800 Madison street, tonight. In every public school today petitions are to be distributed to parents through the children urging action by the general assembly to "keep the schools open."

These petitions, along with thousands which have been signed during the last week in loop department stores, are to be collected Tuesday and forwarded to the legislature.

Gov. Emmerson, Mayor Cermak, and President Lewis E. Myers have been invited to speak at the massmeeting.

Miss Agnes Clohesy, chairman of the joint board of teachers' unions, sent a telegram to Gov. Emmerson yesterday following a meeting of the board, asking that he grant representatives of the teachers an interview. The school union leaders voted yesterday to ask amendment of a bill permitting the issue of bonds to pay teachers' salaries to include Chicago as well as suburban school districts, and indorsed house bill 39, which provides that where funds are not available for teachers' pay they shall be paid in warrants bearing 6 per cent interest.

HOLD FIVE FOR TRYING TO SEIZE CONTROL OF CLUB

Five men, reputed henchmen of Jimmy Belcastro, public enemy and "king of the bombers," were charged with disorderly conduct yesterday following their arrest on charges of attempting to seize control of the Dill Pickle club, resort of parlor pink radicals at 19 Tooker alley.

Sergt. William McCarthy and a detective squad dropped into the club Saturday night, in response to an anonymous letter charging that hoodlums were attempting to collect a "Capone defense fund" there. The five arrested were Thomas Pellegrino, 24 years old, and his brother, Anthony, 19 years old, both of 3215 Princeton avenue; Joseph Gulli, 28 years old, 5222 South Wells street; John Baleski, 29 years old, 3032 Princeton avenue, and Alphonse Baleski, 36 years old, 3029 Princeton avenue. The latter two are not related.

All have minor records, police said. They went to the club, they asserted, "to meet some girls."

Doctor Gives Blood to Aid Brother, Shot by a Bandit

Dr. Frank Sender, member of the staff of the German Deaconess hospital, gave his blood in a transfusion early this morning in an effort to save the life of his brother, Andrew F. Sender, 33 years old, who was shot in the abdomen by a bandit Saturday night. Earlier Dr. Sender had assisted in an operation on his brother. Sender, a wholesale candy jobber living at 3824 South Oak Park avenue, Berwyn, was shot when he resisted three robbers in front of 2893 Archer avenue. His 14 year old nephew, Frank Czarny, saw the shooting.

THREE TEAMSTER UNIONS AGREE TO PAY REDUCTIONS

Sign Contracts to Go in Force Today.

Members of three teamsters' unions will start work today at reduced wages as a result of new working agreements for 1932, made by their organizations with employers' groups. The furniture teamsters' union took a 10 per cent cut, and the two unions engaged in the general trucking business agreed to a reduction of $2.50 a week for their members.

Union officials agreed to a pay cut, but asked in return that the present working day of nine and a half hours be shortened. The employers rejected that proposal, and the working conditions were left unchanged. Under the new scale the men will get from $25.50 to $41.50 a week on one horse vehicles, and from $39.50 to $44 a week on vans and large trucks.

Furniture Drivers Get Cut.

The 10 per cent cut accepted by the furniture drivers' union reduces their weekly scale from $40 to $36. They are employed by furniture companies. The furniture movers have a separate union.

The union teamsters and chauffeurs are divided, according to the trades which they serve, into a score of unions, each of which as a rule makes its own wage agreements with the employers whom its members serve. Employers of the meat drivers, laundry drivers, and several other groups are reported to be seeking new wage scale agreements involving 10 cent cuts. A number of the teamsters' unions, particularly those allied with the building industry, have wage agreements which do not expire until May 1.

Negotiate with Employers.

The wage scale agreement for the general trucking business was reached between a scale committee of the employers, consisting of George W. Dixon, Howard L. Willett, John Broderick, and Charles Farquhar, and officials of Local 701 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, headed by Patrick Berrell, and Local 705 of the Chicago Teamsters' and Chauffeurs' union, headed by Michael J. Galvin.

COUNCIL TO PASS FINANCE BILL AT SESSION TODAY

The city council will meet today to pass the continuation ordinance which authorizes department heads to spend money in the period between Jan. 1 and the date that the 1932 annual appropriation bill is passed.

The ordinance provides that the expenditures shall be based on the 1931 appropriations. However, it also carries into effect the ordinance passed last July docking all city employés fourteen days' pay every six months, provides that no vacancies shall be filled, and keeps the purchase of supplies to a minimum. It is the intention, according to Mayor Cermak, to spend no more money during the period of the ordinance than would be in the budget recommendations of his advisory commission were in force.

Arrangements are being made by department heads to keep on the pay rolls all employés now working.

Condition of Rosenwald Shows Some Improvement

Some improvement was noticed yesterday in the condition of Julius Rosenwald, philanthropist and merchant, who is gravely ill in his Ravinia home. He is still in a critical condition, however, according to his attending physician, Dr. Herbert Pollack of New York. Mr. Rosenwald took light nourishment yesterday, as on previous days. The merchant is 69 years old. He has been ill since last April. He is chairman of the board of Sears, Roebuck & Co.

SURVEY REVEALS HIGHER U. S. AUTO LABOR STANDARD

Europe's Workers Live at Lesser Cost.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The cost of living is higher for the workman in a Detroit automobile factory than for a similar workman in the industrial cities of Europe, except in Stockholm, a report compiled by the international labor office discloses. Its report also shows, however, that workers in America have a higher standard of living than have their European fellows.

The labor office undertook the inquiry at the request of the Ford Motor company. The expenses were paid by the Twentieth Century Fund of New York.

The Ford officials wished to know what wages to pay in European cities, where they contemplated building factories, to give the European workman a standard of living equivalent to that enjoyed by employés in Detroit.

Costs Least in Barcelona.

Barcelona's cost of living, at the same standard as that in Detroit, was found to be the lowest of the 14 European industrial cities examined. The cost in that Spanish city was rated at 58 as compared with the basic figure of 100 for Detroit, where the average cost of living for the Ford group was figured at $1,550 a year.

On the same basis, the rate in Berlin was found to be between 83 and 90 per cent of Detroit's. In Frankfurt-am-Main, it was 85 to 93; in Copenhagen, 83 to 91; Stockholm, 99 to 104; Helsingfors, 83; Paris, 80 to 87; Marseilles, 75 to 81; Antwerp, 61 to 65; Rotterdam, 65 to 68; Manchester, 70 to 74; Cork, 85; Warsaw, 67; Istanbul, 65.

The labor office statisticians found the inquiry a long and arduous task and the results obtained were given as only approximate. The Detroit survey was made by the United States bureau of labor statistics.

100 Families Studied.

The Detroit inquiry embraced 100 families. It was found there that 47 families had an automobile, 36 a radio set, 45 a phonograph, 49 an electric washing machine, 98 an electric iron, and 19 an electric vacuum cleaner. The homes of European workmen, as a rule, had no such advantages.

The European workman's budget was found to devote a much larger percentage to food than the American expenditure. The Detroit worker's average food cost was 32.3 per cent.

One of the many factors making an accurate comparison difficult was the lack in Detroit of any compulsory social insurance of any kind, except for accident compensation.

In nearly every European city provisions to meet sickness, invalidity, old age and unemployment existed. Comparisons of taxation, therefore, and other items of expenditure such as medical expenses could not be made equitably, the report said.

Flames Cause $25,000 Loss to Loop Building

A loop fire, for which a 5-11 alarm was sounded, did damage estimated at $25,000 to the Wells-Lake building, at the southwest corner of Wells and Lake streets, early yesterday. The fire is believed to have started from an overheated boiler. It quickly spread to the roof. Street car traffic was halted for an hour in the vicinity, but elevated trains were kept running past the burning building.

We honestly feel that our prices are the "lowest in town" for these high grade coats.

JAPANESE ARMY PUSHES 'MOP-UP' WAR ON CHINESE

After Bandits from Great Wall to Chinchow.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Jan. 3.—Chinchow was occupied tonight by a full division of Japanese troops. The city's former masters, Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, deposed governor of Manchuria, and his cohorts, under command of Gen. Yung Chen, apparently have completed the evacuation of Manchuria. They are establishing new bases at Lwanchow, Changli, Pehtaiho, and Tangshan, all south of the Great Wall, and in China proper.

LIEUT. GEN. MURO.

The Japanese high command has ordered Lieut. Gen. Kenji Muro, who commands the division holding Chinchow, to resume attacks on straggling Chinese troops and "bandits" between Chinchow and the Great Wall.

Makes Ceremonial Entry.

Gen. Muro's troops made a ceremonial entry today, completing the occupation begun yesterday by Gen. Kamura's brigade. Gen. Muro himself arrived by train at 10:40 a. m., which flaunted the "rising sun" flags. The division is encamped at Chinchow, the majority occupying the former Chinese barracks east of the city.

Japanese airmen reconnoitering over the Peiping-Mukden railway between Chinchow and Shanhaikwan, the gateway to China, and the Japanese garrison stationed at the latter city reported the withdrawal of Chinese regular military units from Manchuria as apparently complete. At Shanhaikwan the Japanese said most of the fleeing Chinese troops passed there in good order although two brigades were apparently disorganized. Men of all arms mingled indiscriminately, while many soldiers were deserting, observers reported.

All reports indicate that the passage of the Chinese army through Shanhaikwan, where 500 Japanese infantrymen are stationed in accordance with the Japanese conception of the terms of the 1901 Boxer protocol providing for protection of the railway between Peiping and the sea, was accomplished without friction.

Report Roaming Bandits.

Japanese airmen, however, reported numerous bands of guerrillas or bandits still roaming the territory between Chinchow and the Great Wall. It is authoritatively reported that detachments under Gen. Muro's command will soon be dispatched to complete the mopping up of what the Japanese command still considers a bandit suppression campaign.

Gen. Muro's division includes Gen. Kamura's brigade of veterans of the Tsitsihar campaign, who moved from Mukden to Kowpangtze last week. This brigade will soon be joined by another brigade which was brought last week from the divisional base at Corea. Jen. Jiro Tamon's division, which bore the brunt of last week's operations, is resting in the Kowpangtze area.

Communiques issued today report a half dozen minor bandit suppression expeditions at various points along the South Manchurian railway, including airplane attacks on bandit gangs which are reported looting villages north of Yingkow. Bombs and machine guns were used. The bandits were routed and several were killed, it is announced here.

"White" Russians Slain in Harbin.

TOKIO, Jan. 3.—(AP)—A Rengo dispatch from Harbin today said at least twelve "White" Russians were killed in street fighting there that followed upon the beating to death of a Russian boy by a Chinese shopkeeper.

The boy was caught stealing a cake from a Chinese sweet shop, the dispatch said. Police reported the shopkeeper beat him to death in Harbin's principal thoroughfare in the Russian section. The boy's parents, infuriated, were reinforced by other Russians, the dispatch said, and attacked the shop, breaking windows, doors and display stands in an attempt to reach the shopkeeper.

Chinese police arrested several of the rioters and took them to the police station, which was attacked by a growing crowd of Russians. The police then fired on the crowd, killing at least a dozen and wounding many before the assailants were dispersed.

The American, British and Japanese consuls hurriedly met to consider the situation, the dispatch said, and requested Gen. Ting Chao, in command there, to make every effort to maintain peace and order. Police reserves patrolled the streets of the Russian quarter afterward.

Canton Government Dissolved.

HONGKONG, China, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The Canton government was dissolved today in accordance with its peace agreement with the Nanking authorities. Committees were formed to administer the provinces of Kwangtung and Kwangsi under the Nanking government. Hu Han-Min, former chief ernment.

JAPANESE BEAT U. S. CONSUL ON MUKDEN STREET

Halt Automobile Flying American Flag.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Jan. 3. — Three uniformed Japanese soldiers attacked Culver B. Chamberlain, American consul at Harbin, formerly of Kansas City, Mo., on one of Mukden's main streets early today. The incident was immediately made the subject of a strong verbal protest which American Consul General Myrl S. Myers lodged with S. Morishima, consul temporarily in charge of the Japanese consulate general at Mukden.

Chamberlain, ten years in the consular service in China, arrived at Mukden yesterday from his vacation in America en route to his new post at Harbin. He suffered abrasions to his forehead and nose, and his face was badly bruised from blows from fists of the Japanese soldiers.

U. S. Flag on Auto.

Chamberlain was riding in the Mukden consulate's automobile which was displaying an American flag and coat of arms on his way to the railway station to take a Harbin train scheduled to leave at 6 a. m. He encountered the three Japanese, who apparently were patrolling the borders of the Japanese railway concession.

They halted Chamberlain's automobile. He alighted and displayed his diplomatic passport. He also attempted to explain his status in the Chinese language, which he speaks fluently, inasmuch as one of the soldiers addressed him in the same tongue.

The Chinese-speaking soldier, however, became abusive and the trio began to beat Chamberlain, who, desiring to avoid an unpleasant incident, retreated inside the automobile. The soldiers even followed him inside the car, still striking him. He managed, however, to return to the consulate and resumed his journey to Harbin on the afternoon train.

The Japanese consul promised a thorough investigation which began immediately with the cooperation of Japanese military authorities. Up until 4 o'clock this afternoon, no explanation of the assault on the consul had been received.

New Situation Faces U. S.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—(AP)—American officials tonight were confronted by a new ramification of the Manchurian difficulties following the attack by three Japanese soldiers upon Consul Culver B. Chamberlain. Formulation of the nation's official attitude toward the affair awaited direct reports to the state department. Until these are received, the administration, which for months has watched uneasily the march of Japanese troops through Manchuria, withheld comment.

Chamberlain, whose home is in Kansas City, Mo., is one of the outstanding experts of the foreign service in the Chinese language. On his recent visit to Washington he was assigned to the Harbin consulate because of his fluency in Chinese. His entire service with the state department over 11 years has been spent in China, where he first went as a language student in August, 1920. He served in American consulates since then at Shanghai, Swatow, Yunnanfu, Tientsin, and twice at Canton.

The results of an investigation which Japanese Consul Morishima promised the American consul general at Mukden, Myrl S. Myers, he would make will probably form the basis of the report to the state department, along with Chamberlain's version of the affair. Myers described it as an "entirely unprovoked assault."

Hundreds Marooned as River Floods Glasgow

GLASGOW, Scotland, Jan. 3.—(AP)—A large part of eastern Glasgow was flooded tonight by the little River Cart, swollen by melting snow and rain. Persons returning home were unable to reach their houses, while hundreds of families were imprisoned in the tenement dwellings that abound in that part of the city. The Clyde rose to an alarming height and all bridges were closed because of the strong current.

KIDNAP VICTIMS IDENTIFY THEIR COTTAGE PRISON

View Palos Park Hideout in Company with Roche.

A bungalow in Palos Park was identified last night by two victims as the lair of a band of seven alleged kidnapers, now in custody of the state's attorney's office. The identification added another link of evidence which probably will be used in the eventual trial of the prisoners, Chief Investigator Pat Roach said.

The victims who identified the place were Dr. Max Gecht and his wife, Georgia, of 729 Diversey parkway. In company with Roche, Assistant State's Attorney C. Wayland Brooks and several detectives, they drove out to Palos Park last night and stopped at 127th street and 80th avenue. They walked into a bungalow there, owned by Gus Sanger, one of the men under arrest.

Couple Identify Rooms.

"This is the place," declared Dr. Gecht and his wife after they examined the bungalow. The physician studied one room and said it was the place where he had been held. His wife identified two other rooms, one where she had been held for several hours, and the other where she had been kept prisoner for two days, handcuffed to a bed.

"They put me in this room for a while," said Mrs. Gecht, indicating a front room. "They said it was too light, so they took me to the other room."

During their imprisonment, Dr. and Mrs. Gecht were blindfolded. They said they were able, however, to distinguish certain furnishings and other features which left no doubt in their minds as to the place where they were held. Roche and Brooks searched the bungalow for the handcuffs used on Mrs. Gecht, but did not find them. They found no object of incriminating aspect, they said.

Seven Men Still Held.

Following the identification, Roche brought the group back to the Congress hotel where the alleged abductors are in custody.

One of the men held is Attorney Ward Swalwell, a former assistant state's attorney. He is alleged by Roche to have been the go-between through whom Dr. Gecht gave up $2,000 ransom. The Gechts were kidnaped on the evening of Dec. 10 and the doctor was released to obtain the ransom while his wife was held as hostage.

At first seven other men were held with Attorney Swalwell, but one—Oscar Martin—was released yesterday. The six still held with the lawyer are Sanger, John J. Pingeree, reputed leader of the gang; William Thomas, Albert Russell, Edward Finen, and Guy Wyckoff.

The capture of the alleged kidnapers came about, it was said, because Sanger became enamored of Mrs. Gecht while she was a hostage in his home. He was arrested when he tried to keep an engagement with her, which she arranged at the request of Roche. He confessed, Roche said, and other arrests followed.

Hunts Link with Other Gangs.

Pingeree, who lived at 7456 South Shore drive, was formerly of Peoria. Roche said he had learned that Pingeree had had many telephone conversations with persons in Peoria and St. Louis. Roche said he was seeking to connect Pingeree with other kidnaping gangs in southern Illinois, Missouri and Kansas.

"There have been many persons kidnaped who paid ransom and never reported to the police or to our office," Roche said. "I expect some of those people to come in now and give us additional evidence on which to make certain the conviction of these kidnapers on several indictments instead of only one."

Among those known to Roche to have been kidnaped by gangs with which at least some of the seven prisoners were connected are James Hackett, Blue Island gambler, who paid $75,000 for his freedom; Leo Gans, 6518 Dante avenue, who was tortured but paid nothing; Michael King, owner of a roadhouse at 9601 Western avenue; William Gibbons, restaurant owner at 7418 Stony Island avenue, and Fred J. Blumer, brewer of Monroe, Wis.

The chief investigator was seeking yesterday to connect his prisoners with the kidnaping of John J. Lynch of the General News Bureau, a turf publication, whose release was said to have been brought about through Al Capone.

AVIATION NOTES

A new type transport plane capable of carrying mail and express as well as passengers at a cruising speed of more than 150 miles an hour has been developed by the Stinson Aircraft corporation. It is planned to put a fleet of the new planes into service on the Century Air Lines, operating out of Chicago, within six months. These fast planes will be operated on a frequent schedule, with the intention of achieving departures every fifteen minutes along the routes to Cleveland and to St. Louis, as soon as the traffic will support the service, according to L. B. Manning, vice president of the Cord corporation, owner of the Stinson and Century companies. The planes will be powered by improved Lycoming motors.

The fourth annual All-American air races at Miami, outstanding winter contests for American pilots which are participated in by Central and South American pilots as well, will be held on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of this week.

Cracksmen Do a Lot of Work on Safe; Get Only $4

A gang of cracksmen put in a night at considerably less than ordinary wages in opening a safe belonging to the Western Union Telegraph company in the company's branch office at 166 East Grand avenue. The 250 pound safe was found yesterday in the basement of the building. The burglars had carried it down two flights of stairs before opening it. It contained only $4, Fred White, manager of the office said.

HONOLULU OPENS BIG CRUSADE TO RID CITY OF VICE

Navy Helps Hunt Pal of Confessed Rapist.

BULLETIN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, Jan. 3.—Gov. Lawrence Judd tonight was reported to be considering calling a special session of the legislature to deal with Honolulu's crime problem. He wants to take the police department out of politics. He favors making the post of chief of police appointive.

HONOLULU, Jan. 3.—(AP)—With Lui Kaikapu, escaped prisoner who police assert admitted assaulting and robbing a young matron yesterday, safely returned to prison, Honolulu and territorial police under military supervision today started a city-wide campaign to clean up vice conditions.

Maj. Gordon C. Ross of the National Guard has been placed in charge of policing the island by Gov. Lawrence Judd. He deputized selected members of the American Legion to supplement the territorial police and local forces&

Navy Hunts Second Convict.

Navy shore patrols also were greatly augmented. The object of their immediate search was Daniel Lyman, who escaped from the territorial prison with Kaikapu.

Meanwhile Kaikapu's case was being considered by the prison board which will decide what punishment should be given him. When he escaped on a previous occasion he was flogged.

Although City Attorney James F. Gilliland was out of the city and no definite word was obtainable, authorities expressed belief Kaikapu's confession that he attacked the wife of a Honolulu business man and then robbed her home would be taken before the grand jury within a few days for action.

In a hospital today the victim was recovering from shock. Her body was covered with bruises but the cut over her eye was fast healing.

Find Stolen Automobile.

The hunt for Lyman, who authorities say is desperate and a convicted murderer, attained a wide range, although it was believed he was still hiding within the city. Police search was intensified in the Kapahului section of Honolulu, where a stolen automobile, believed to have been used by him and Kaikapu in escaping, was found.

Yesterday's was the second recent assault case here to arouse the public. Military detachments were sent out to patrol the city's streets last month after public feeling had been aroused by an assault on a young naval officer's wife.

Eugene Interrupts Bath, but Saves the Radio Set

Eugene May, 5301 Ellis avenue, took an eventful bath yesterday. While he was standing under the shower and lathering himself with soap he heard noises in the living room. Picking up his bathrobe, he went out dripping and sudsy, to find a burglar preparing to carry out his radio set. The intruder fled. May seized a pistol and followed him downstairs, firing several shots. But the burglar got away. It was cold outside and May is modest, so he had to halt his pursuit at the front door.

Bomb Shatters Windows of Auto Sales Company

A small bomb exploded and shattered the front display windows of the Eff-N-Jay Auto Sales company at 1218-20 South Ashland avenue early this morning, doing about $200 damage. Just before the blast Fred Gardner, 1547 South Keeler avenue, one of the owners of the place, which is also operated as a garage, left the store to tow in a wrecked car. His partner, Julius Greenstein, 3911 Congress street, told police he knew of no motive for the bombing.

CAPLIS SLAYING ARRESTS BARE KIDNAPING PLOT

Killing of Policeman Foils Scheme.

Investigation of the murder Dec. 21 of Policeman James J. Caplis resulted in the arrest of a man and a woman last night, and the revelation that the band of robbers who killed Caplis contemplated kidnaping several Harvey citizens.

The man seized is Ralph de Filippis, 39 years old, of 15247 Center street, Harvey, a cousin of Rocco Ferro, alias De Filippis, a fugitive in the Caplis slaying. Assistant State's Attorney Walker Butler said last night that Ralph furnished the weapons used in the shooting of Caplis, and would be charged with murder. The woman held is Mrs. Charlotte Walz, 40, a grocer of Harvey, who was to have been used in the kidnap schemes.

Prosecutor Butler and Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker declared last night that on the night before Caplis was killed in the Beach View Garden café, 804 Wilson avenue, several of the participants gathered in Ralph's home. They were the fugitive Rocco, Frank Piazzi, another fugitive, and Frank Freeman, Jack Burlison and Dorothy Evans, the latter three held for the killing. They discussed plans to kidnap Dr. Stewart E. Fraser, 15024 Vine avenue, Harvey, for $75,000 ransom.

Several other possible victims were considered, among them Wilder B. Thompson, a flour and grain man; a saloonkeeper named Jackson, and Dr. Charles B. Alexander, 43 East 155th street, all of Harvey. Mrs. Walz was to assist in the scheme, and one of the conspirators suggested, police said, she was to be killed after the Fraser abduction because she "wanted too much money." None of the proposed kidnapings developed, police said, because the gang bungled in killing Caplis.

12 YEAR OLD OHIO GIRL IS SHOT TO DEATH ON FARM

Defiance, O., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Every resource at the command of authorities of two counties tonight was bent toward solving the mysterious slaying of a 12 year old girl, found shot to death late today at a neighbor's home north of here in the country.

The child, Kathleen Carver, was found dead in the yard by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bender when they returned home from a visit to Bryan.

The child's death follows closely on the killing of 9 year old Marian McLean of Cincinnati, who was first kidnaped and criminally assaulted. Last week a small girl was abducted and assaulted at Columbus, but allowed to go free.

Hasty examination disclosed no apparent evidence of criminal attack.

2 MORE DEATHS IN AUTO MISHAPS MAKE TOLL 17

Two more automobile deaths were reported last night, increasing the motor toll for the first three days of the new year to seventeen. The victims:

Mrs. Marie Atherton, 65 years old, 3426 South Michigan avenue. Died in the county hospital of injuries suffered Saturday when she was hit by a machine at 35th street and Indiana avenue. George Milnes, 7639 Indiana avenue, was the driver.

Mrs. Lillian Smith, 33 years old, colored, 3141 South Dearborn street. Struck early yesterday at 31st street and South Park way by the machine of Roy Keene, 35, also colored, of 4838 Calumet avenue.

DEMOCRATS FIRE FIRST CAMPAIGN GUNS THIS WEEK

Heroes of Losing Battles to Man Batteries.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Meeting in Washington to fix the time and the place for holding their national convention, the Democrats will open their 1932 campaign for the presidency this week with a barrage of oratory.

EDW. N. HURLEY.

On Friday night more than 1,000 Jeffersonians will assemble at the annual Jackson day dinner, where they will listen to "keynote" addresses by all living Democratic candidates for President—James M. Cox of Ohio, 1920; John W. Davis of West Virginia, 1924, and Alfred Emmanuel Smith of New York, 1928.

Both Cox and Smith, who are reputed to be "receptive" aspirants for the nomination again this year, are at work on addresses described by their admirers as "arresting" in character. Advance advertising of the Smith speech has it that the titular head of the party is going to present his plan for ending the depression, of which a salient feature is a proposal of a 2 billion dollar government bond issue for unemployment and other relief.

Pick Convention City.

On Saturday the Democratic national committee will issue the call for the national convention after deciding where to hold it. Chicago, which captured the Republican national convention, is the leading contender for the Democratic meeting also, and Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the Chicago citizens committee, is predicting that the Democrats also will choose the inland metropolis.

As in the case of the Republicans, Mr. Hurley will tender the Democratic committee a certified check for $150,000 raised by Chicago business interests to cover the expenses of the convention. Also on hand with certified checks for the same amount will be San Francisco and Atlantic City.

In addition to Messrs. Smith and Cox the only other potential presidential candidates at the Jackson day dinner will be Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, who is expected to announce his candidacy at a Baltimore dinner on Thursday night, and John N. Garner of Texas, speaker of the house. Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, the leading contender at this writing, will not be there, nor will Newton D. Baker of Ohio, who has forged into the front rank of aspirants in the last month, or Owen D. Young of New York, the outstanding dark horse entry.

Back in 1912 when the Jackson day dinner was held here the candidates were not so coy. They were all on hand exhibiting their paces and it was on that occasion that Woodrow Wilson in the appearance and speech he made got definitely into the running.

Gov. Roosevelt is staying away in keeping with his pretension that he is so busy governing he has not thought of running for President. It is rumored, however, that he shortly will abandon the coy pose, announce his aspiration and appoint a campaign committee to begin organizing for him particularly in the direct primary states. The "stop Roosevelt" movement is judged by the politicians to have made considerable headway of late and with his candidacy slipping the friends of the governor are said to have told him it is high time to get out and fight.

For a time it looked as if Roosevelt might win the nomination almost by default. Although he is on record for repeal of prohibition, his opposition to a forthright wet plank in the platform has endeared him to the politically dry south and west, and his views on power and capital, variously described as liberal and radical, have found favor in the western preserves of the sons of the wild jackass.

Where Boom Slipped.

Chairman James A. Farley of the New York Democratic central committee, after a tour of the country, predicted that Roosevelt would have a majority on the first ballot, which he believed an assurance that the two-thirds vote required for nomination would speedily follow.

Then Al Smith swung into action and something happened to the Roosevelt boom. Smith indicated beyond a doubt that he is against the nomination of the governor and by pulling the wires here and there he turned loose a flock of favorite sons whose names will be presented to the convention by states, principally east of the Mississippi, which otherwise might have been rounded up for Roosevelt. The estimate now is that Roosevelt will not come within 100 votes of a majority on the first ballot.

All the politicians are speculating on Smith's motives. Some think he wants the nomination himself, despite his assertions the next day after his disastrous defeat in 1928 that he never would seek elective office again. Those of this persuasion think he has been tempted by the conviction prevalent among the Jeffersonians that President Hoover has fallen so low in popular esteem that any Democrat can be elected next November.

Alleged Roosevelt Plans.

In other quarters the theory is that Smoth's opposition to Roosevelt is 50 per cent intolerance of the governor's pussyfooting on prohibition and 50 per cent the reflection of the eastern community's suspicion of the governor's radical tendencies. Other objections to Roosevelt are heard. One is the argument that his crippled condition would handicap his canvas for the office. Another is that his war record in a navy department swivel chair instead of a front line trench when he was 35 years old would range the war veterans against him, particularly if Col. Theodore Roosevelt, with an active fighting record, should be named as Mr. Hoover's running mate.

It is clear that Smith could assure Roosevelt the nomination if he wished to. Whether he can prevent his nomination is not so clear.

The Baker boom began to assume importance when John Stewart Bryan, Richmond, Va., newspaper publisher, declared for him. Then former Congressman Martin Davey started out to organized Ohio for him. Next the Winston-Salem, N. C., Journal published a letter in which Mr. Baker attributed his boom to "the need of a revived liberalism and a refreshed idealism" for which he said, fight "whether carrying the banner or marching in the ranks." At once he became regarded a receptive candidate.

Also at once formidable opposition to Baker materialized because of his advocacy of the United States joining the league of nations.

'16-1' SILVER ISSUE OF BRYAN IS REVIVED BY SENATOR WHEELER

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—(AP)—The "16 to 1" silver issue on which William Jennings Bryan rode to the threshold of the White House in 1896 was revived today by Senator Wheeler as the nation faced a new Presidential election year.

The Montana Democrat announced he would introduce tomorrow a bill providing for the free coinage of silver on the basis of 16 ounces to one of gold—the identical issue for which Bryan fought.

"This legislation would do more than all suggestions heretofore combined towards reviving, encouraging, vitalizing and resuscitating business in this country and throughout the world," Wheeler said.

"Contentment, happiness and lucrative occupation would be substituted for discontentment, despair, with their inevitable resultant tragedies to follow."

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

A LESSON FROM WISCONSIN.

Gov. La Follette's radical tax bill conceived in the name of charity but admittedly designed to effect a redistribution of private wealth in Wisconsin has been killed by a vote of 17 to 14 in the state senate. A bare majority of one by conservative and independent senators who have stood stanch against the administration's socialistic program was augmented in the final balloting by the vote of a Milwaukee Socialist. His objection was not to the measure but to the fact that not enough of the cash was to be redistributed to Milwaukee.

The senate has saved Wisconsin. It has earned the gratitude of every citizen of the state and the courage of its stalwart senators is not to be dwarfed by any political backfire that they were deaf to the needs of the suffering or uncharitable in a time of great distress.

The senate has done more than defeat an unjust, ill conceived tax law. The injury to Wisconsin of the La Follette scheme would have been far reaching. It would have placed a handicap on industry within the state and an absolute bar against the entrance into the state of any enterprise that is now contemplating or might in the future contemplate investment of its funds or extension of its activities in Wisconsin.

It would have been more effective than the highest tariff bar. It would have been a warning that no business, however honorable or skillfully conducted, could exist in the state in competition with similar concerns operating in other commonwealths.

"Our problem is the redistribution of our purchasing power," wrote Gov. La Follette in his message to the emergency session of the legislature. And again in the same message he said, "The use of the taxing power is an effective instrument with which to distribute money to enable workers and farmers to trade with one another."

The redistribution of wealth always has been a popular doctrine of those concerned with spending other people's money. It is a cant phrase and means equally the dissipation of wealth or the confiscation of wealth. Its appeal is to those who hope to get something for nothing.

That at this time this doctrine was coupled with an appeal for aid for worthy persons in need in Wisconsin as they are the world over merely made it more courageous for the senators to stand by their guns. There has been no class of people who have given more generously nor labored more industriously for the needy in the present economic crisis than the people of Wisconsin. From the family man who is earning a small living each year, to the owners of large independent fortunes, they have paid and worked, and they have taken care of their poor.

Politicians who attempted to make their opportunity out of the present period of universal need do not truly represent the people. The La Follette program did not reflect the wishes nor the beliefs of the people of Wisconsin and the senate has done a great service in thwarting it. Its example will have its influence, we hope, to stiffen resistance to destructive radicalism in other states and in congress.

LOOKING AT MANCHURIA.

As a device for the suppression of bandits the bombing of towns in Manchuria by Japanese airmen is peculiar. It puts rather a strain upon the official theory that the military proceedings in that region do not constitute war. In fact, like the Cheshire cat, that theory has by this time pretty thoroughly faded out, leaving only its smile, a sardonic smile enjoyed only in Tokio.

In the first days of the Manchurian operations the theory that Japan was engaging in international police measures for the protecting of its nationals and their lawful concerns from Chinese banditry and lawlessness was plausible. It put a brake upon league action and upon the pressure of governments controlling the league. But by this stage the intentions of Japan can hardly be misunderstood by the most complaisant observer. She is taking over the control of southern Manchuria and by force of arms. She has chosen a favorable moment when the European governments, and even that of pacific America, are preoccupied with problems which prohibit the employment of any such measures as they might be disposed to take against Japan under the terms of the league covenant or the dubious implications of the Kellogg-Briand treaty. We doubt they would resort to such measures in any case, but the Japanese government has chosen a time for action which precludes serious interference.

Whether the American onlooker is inclined to view Japanese control over Manchuria as of indifference or concern to the United States, no sophistry or diplomatic euphemism is likely to blind him to the fact that the Japanese boot has kicked through the parchment safeguards against war and aggression. Japan is a signatory of the treaty which "outlaws" war as an instrument of policy. In Manchuria Japan is using war as an instrument of policy. Chinese disorder and governmental irresponsibility offer her pretext, even justification, for using force. Good may come of it, even to China in the long run. We are not disposed to prophesy, but the fact remains that one of the great nations of the world, member of the league of nations, signatory to the nine power treaty of Washington for the peaceful adjustment of differences and signatory to the Kellogg-Briand treaty outlawing war as an instrument of policy, has turned her back upon them all and taken over the control of a great and rich territory belonging to a co-member of the league and a co-signatory of the treaties which are supposed to insure all against the use of force. China protests, China demands, China resists. But the Japanese bayonet has ripped the paper bulwarks of her international defense to shreds.

The American people will not miss the lesson.

THE NEW TERMINAL PROJECT.

Amidst the general anxiety over the crisis into which the extravagance, graft and irresponsibility of our politics have plunged the city, the publication of the Chicago plan commission's project for a great terminal at Randolph street offers a refreshing change of thought. However discouraging the conditions under which the plan transpires, it is worthy of serious consideration and, we think, of adoption. When realized it will be one of the greatest improvements the city could achieve, and if means can be found for an early start upon it, work can be given both directly and indirectly to a large number of unemployed. In this latter aspect it is estimated nearly twelve million dollars will go directly to labor.

Mr. Simpson, in presenting the plan, points out that the station can be built without spending a dollar of public money or adding to taxes. On the contrary, it will eventually increase city revenues by raising property values in the districts now depressed by the railroad tracks south of the loop and thus should bring about reduction of taxes.

The general advantages to the city are undeniable. An unsightly and conspicuous section of the lake front would be transformed. A great central terminal in the most convenient location would replace the scattered terminals which are now a barrier to the southward improvement of the loop. Commodious thoroughfares would carry traffic north and south where now there is a bottle neck. Wasted property values would advance. The convenience of travelers to the city would be substantially increased. Electrification would take an immense step forward. The beauty and dignity of the city's already famous water front would be rounded out and enhanced.

Is this great improvement possible at this time? Mr. Simpson and his colleagues believe it is. Railroad management will probably not be so optimistic. But there is so much that promises advantage to every railroad concerned in eventual economies and betterments that the project should receive friendly and thorough consideration. When the present problems of the depression have been worked out and the normal vitality, courage and foresight of this country have been restored this terminal will be recognized as a great triumph of American enterprise, all the more creditable to those who conceived it and those who carried it on that the foundations were bravely laid in a period of depressed spirit and entangled powers.

FINLAND AGAINST PROHIBITION.

Finland's liquor referendum has given a decisive vote for the repeal of the prohibition law. The voters were asked what they wanted—continuance of the law, modification or repeal. The answer was repeal. The issue, it proved, was between continuance or repeal, and repeal seems to have it by a three to one vote. The diet is expected to obey, and then of all the countries which went optimistically into the noble experiment in or after the war the United States will be the only one still adhering to the mistaken public policy.

One by one the Canadian provinces, some of them peopled by the same stock which in the United States has been the backbone of prohibition, abandoned total repression. They were able to do so, as other countries have been able to do, because they had not had the opportunity of making the fatal mistake of imbedding such sumptuary legislation in the concrete of organic law. The United States remains as an example and admonition against the transfer of an enthusiasm into the most binding law the structure of the country knows.

Americans may envy now the ease with which other countries, having had enough and more than enough of prohibition experiences, correct the error and adopt such other forms of regulation as they desire. Finland's experiences almost exactly paralleled those of the United States in demoralization, loss of revenue, corruption and laxness of law, but Finland can take a sensible way out.

Editorial of the Day

ARCHITECTS AND THE COMMUNITY.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

Delbert S. Wenzlick's suggestion that new realty developments should be subject to the sanction of a board of architects, acting in the public interest, is timely and valuable. The fact that it comes from a merchant of real estate, speaking as such, and therefore carrying certain obvious, practical implications, makes it doubly forceful.

The operation of such a plan would not only cause the gradual disappearance of those little horrors that dot every American suburb, but might conceivably bring a new dignity and significance to our public architecture.

If the man who builds a small house for himself has a certain obligation to his neighbor, as Mr. Wenzlick so plainly suggests, then the group of officials who raise a public structure on public property have every obligation to the people who pay for it and who must live in its shadow. The public buildings of a city should express the community's pride, imagination and sense of permanency. They should provide a standard of beauty for those who have no other.

But this can happen only when public projects are submitted to the corrective influence of the fine architectural guidance.

WILL WE ESCAPE MENINGITIS?

A STUDY by A. W. Hedrich of the prevalence of meningitis lends support to the hope that we may not have much of the disease next spring. March is the month of maximum prevalence of the disease, and the months immediately preceding and following the one of maximum prevalence contribute toward making early spring the time of meningitis peril. However, the disease never disappears entirely. Beginning with the onset of cold weather it lays the foundation for the conditions that prevail in the spring.

It is the carriers that constitute the basis of the menace. In the midsummer about two persons in each hundred carry meningitis microbes in their throats and noses. As winter progresses this proportion mounts. There is not much danger so long as fewer than one in ten carry the microbe. But when it passes beyond this limit of prevalence danger threatens. In certain circumstances the proportion of carriers has been as high as seven out of ten. This is what is called a carrier epidemic, as contrasted with a case epidemic. Case epidemics commonly follow carrier epidemics, and they have been referred to as foam on the carrier wave.

To prevent this evolution health officers advise people against crowding, especially from February to May. Crowding in indoor places is dangerous. There is not much possibility of outdoor crowding under the weather conditions that prevail in this period. The worst crowding of all is that in sleeping quarters—lodging houses, barracks, and dormitories. The danger is at its maximum in cold, rainy weather that drives people indoors and causes them to put down the windows and turn on the heat.

For about four years there has been an unusual prevalence of meningitis. Hedrich's study indicates that we may have passed the peak. At the time his study was made epidemic conditions were very much better in the Pacific and Rocky mountain regions, and they were somewhat better in other sections of the country.

Nowhere, except in the central and south Atlantic states, did it appear that the peak had not been passed at the time the study was concluded. Furthermore, history shows that waves come about eleven years apart, or perhaps the interval is even longer. The last considerable wave was that of 1917-'18. If we repeat the history of the past we should be fairly free from the hazard of meningitis next spring. If the people will take heed of the advice to keep out of crowds, the margin of safety will be even greater.

IT MAY TAKE YEARS.

M. E. T. writes: How long would it take for a sprained ankle to become thoroughly well again? Would it take as long as two months for the swelling to disappear? Is it always painful?

REPLY.

Probably years. Many bad sprains are really fractures of small bony processes. Others are tears of ligaments or tendons. Both tears of ligaments and tendons or fractures of bony eminences heal slowly, and often heal incompletely. A milder sprain may be due to a tear in a number of muscle fibers, and this, too, may be slow in healing.

BLAME IT ON THE AIR.

V. K. writes:

1. Are dead particles of the lungs, coughed up in sputum and grayish in color, evidence of present or past activity?
2. What causes black spots in front of the eyes if the urine and eye tests were negative?

REPLY.

1. It is evidence that you live in a town where the air is dirty. You have other proof on that point; therefore, as evidence, it is wholly without value.
2. If your eyes are entirely normal, floaters are of no consequence. Everybody has them. Busy people ignore them.

POMEGRANATES.

Mrs. M. G. writes: I am interested in the pomegranate and serve it in my home in jell, punch, and fruit.

Will you please write on pomegranate juice in the diet?

REPLY.

Pomegranate meat contains about 1 per cent citric acid and 13 to 15 per cent sugar. It can be burned to produce about 460 calories. I do not know what its vitamin content is, but I can believe that it contains the vitamins usually found in fresh fruits and that it burns to an alkali ash. When one purchases pomegranate by weight he buys lots of unusable woody fiber in rind and seeds.

SAFETY ZONES.

Chicago, Dec. 29.—[Friend of the People.]—Will some one please advise me what is holding back the installation of safety zones on Western avenue south of 18th street? It is needless to tell you how hazardous it is to cross this street, especially after dark. Human lives are in constant peril, and something ought to be done about it quick.

I. B.

Western avenue south of 18th street was one of the last sections of Western avenue to be widened. A few of the heaviest loading points in the section were provided with safety zones from salvage of this year's appropriation; balance is included in the estimates for the appropriation for 1932.

CAN BE DONE.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Of three sisters one died in one of the United States leaving by will all her property, personal and real estate, to the oldest sister. There are no other survivors or heirs at law or legatees. Can the estate be settled and the transfer of the real estate located in Cook county take place legally without the sanction of the younger sister? The petition to spread the transfer and the will on the Cook county records is coming up for hearing in Probate court soon.

THE LEAGUE RECEIVES THE NEWS.

(The League of Nations in session. Enter breathless messenger.)

Messenger:
Sires, I have news sad to relate,
The Chinese in Manchuria have got the gate.

The League (chorus):
'Tis most untrue, 'tis rank nonsense!
It is the Japs must go from thence.

Messenger:
Listen, sires, to my tale of woe:
Those dorgoned Japs they wouldn't go.

The League (in horror):
What, wouldn't go? What sayeth thou?

Messenger:
I'm saying the Japs have taken Chinchow.

The League (much agitated):
But we wrote 'em a note and bid them leave,
And said how their actions made us grieve.
We told them to go, to go right away,
And, of course, nobody can us disobey.

Messenger:
I know that they can't, but darn 'em they did,
And their actions I trust you sharply will chid.

The League:
If your news is true,
Their actions they shall rue.
In a manner cold and haughty,
We shall say, 'Oh, naughty, naughty."
And if they still insist
We will slap them on the wrist.

Messenger:
Oh, horror!

The League:
Yes, this thing must stop,
If we have to call a cop.
And if the Japs still cause us pain
We'll not speak to them again.
And we'll say in language torrid
That we think they're simply horrid.

Messenger:
I've a message from them, please—

The League:
Ah, they beg us on their knees—

Messenger:
No, the truth is—well,
They say you can go to hell.

(The League of Nations falls back in a dead faint. Messenger crawls off stage sobbing. Slow curtain.)

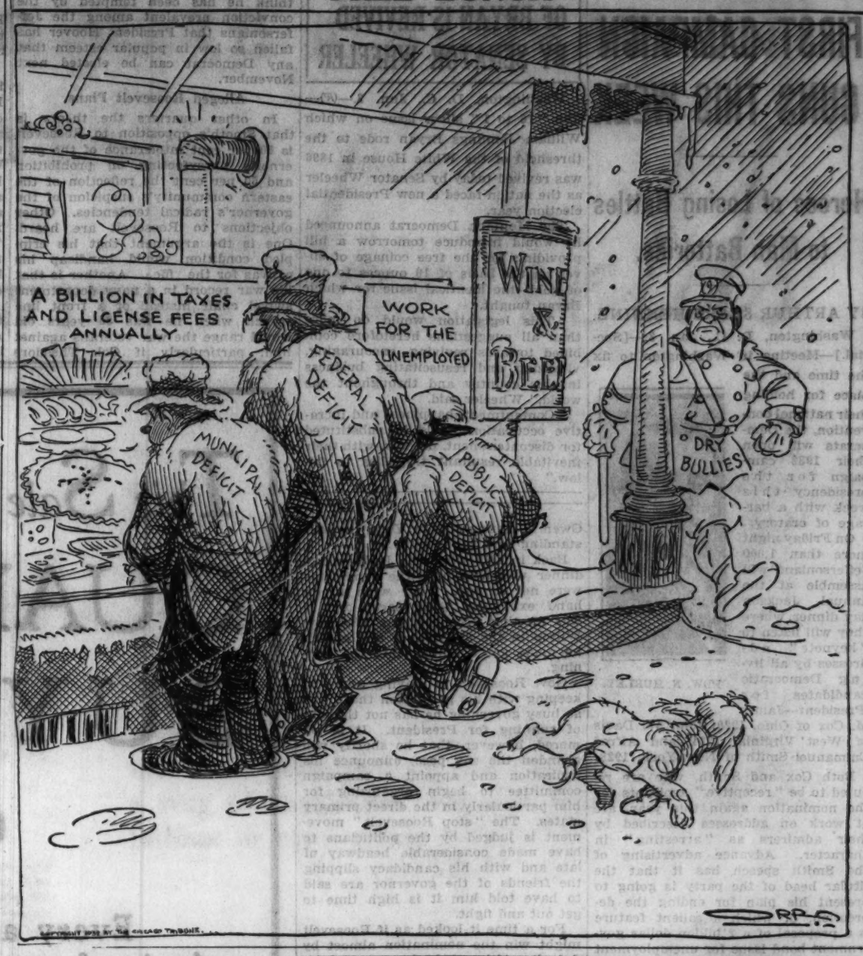
FREE LUNCH



FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

This nation has had other serious financial depressions, as the following excerpts from The Tribune files reveal. Each of these periods of hard times has been followed by periods of great prosperity.

Oct. 3.—A TRIBUNE reporter was detailed to visit Chicago factories to ascertain what they were doin. In the financial crisis. The Goss & Phillips Manufacturing company, through its president, said that if the financial stringency continues for twenty to thirty days longer the sash, door, and blind industry will be greatly damaged. The plant is keeping all its hands employed on half time. At the Garden City Manufacturing and Supply company, F. Gustorff, secretary, said the company had decided to open for work only every second day. C. T. Boal, proprietor of the Chicago Stove works said his orders had declined steadily since the beginning of the panic and that he had set to work to take in sail. The number of employés was reduced. Palmer, Fuller & Co. is continuing operation ith a reduced force and wages have been cut 10 per cent. N. S. Bouton & Co. has decided to reduce the number of its workmen today.

Detroit, Mich., March 4.—The state labor bureau gave out results of inspection of fa tories in Michigan. Of the 2,066 factories inspected, 377 comprising some of the largest and most important were idle altogether. Of those running there is shown a loss to labor of 82,367 hours a week on account of short hours. This represents 48,752 men idle, compared with full time, or more than 43 per cent of the whole number reported employed. The average reduction of wages in factories visited was 9.5 per cent and there was a loss to labor of 1,763,060 working days of ten hours each, exclusive of the cut in wages.

1914.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 4, 1916.

WASHINGTON.—Possibility of combined attacks by two foreign powers to break down the Monroe Doctrine is one of the fundamental bases of the national defense plan formed by army and navy strategists. The nation is urged to build a navy equal in strength to two big powers to back the doctrine. The experts also demand a federal army of sufficient size so that a portion of it could be used in any southern country against a foreign invader without impairing the safety of the United States itself.

CHICAGO.—Two robbers held up Miss Nell Tobin, cashier of St. Luke's hospital, and escaped with $3,495 with which employés' wages were about to be paid. Thirty or forty employés were lined up along the wall while the robbers held up the cashier.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 4, 1902.

BERLIN.—Germany sent another note to Venezuela fixing a time for President Castro to comply with the kaiser's demands in connection with the claims of Germany against Venezuela. The note does not partake of the character of an ultimatum, however.

CHICAGO.—While granting a petition of a Robert Tarrant for an injunction against various lodges of machinists, Judge Chetlain made some rulings at variance with recent decisions in federal courts. He held that workingmen may use the streets and highways for picketing as much as they please without violating the law. He said further, if an injunction were deemed necessary for the protection of property of employers from threatened violence, the men arrested for contempt were entitled to trial by jury.

PARIS.—Information from the most reliable financial sources is that the board of directors of the Panama Canal company definitely offered to sell the property and franchises of the Panama company at the price named by the United States isthmian commission, $40,000,000.

IN PRAISE OF POKER.

Neenah, Wis., Dec. 31.—At least one good feature was born in the Culbertson-Lenz battle: The good old American game of poker will still remain extant. After the surly mutterings, poor sportsmanship, and general ill-feeling displayed by the artists of contract a round of the great American game is refreshing.

No amount of scowling, lugubrious growls, or whining will rectify the errors made in poker. All blunders made rest at the door of the losing players. No partner involved, to be met with cutting rebuff on a misplay. Each individual sinks or swims alone. Hard pickings not to have an alibi, but it still remains the peer of the fifty-two tickets.

After perusing the public prints regarding the present gigantic battle of superbridge minds I am convinced that never has such poor cricket been exhibited in public games. And, although I fear even to breathe it, several of the misplays of the giants would bring a blush of shame even to a novitiate at the noble game of contract. But, of course, when it ends with an alibi by the loser the learned tomes of the players will sell like hot cakes.

RONALD B. ROGERS.

THE CAUSE OF PATERNALISM.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—THE TRIBUNE attacks paternalistic government with the attitude that it is an unmixed evil which grows by feeding upon its own growth. There must be a reason for this Frankenstein monster. Perhaps it is because the citizens of this country favor it. Over the years the voters have been well satisfied with the returns on federal taxes. There has been some graft and inefficiency, but that can be said of all business, both public and private.

Government services come about because there is a demand for them. Just now there is some opposition to paying for those aids to better living. It comes from the wealthy classes whose selfishness made this paternalism absolutely necessary. The working classes of America look forward to more government in business. They know all about the benefits of unrestricted private enterprise.

ROBERT W. SHOEMAKER.

UNSEASONABLE TOPIC.

Chicago, Dec. 22.—If the council members who are fixing up a new bathing suit code would get after the manufacturers of bathing suits there would be little trouble with semi-nude bathers. How can the public wear suits 2 inches above the knee when such suits are not for sale?

More than likely the women who advocate longer bathing suits have never been in swimming; if they had they would realize the comfort and freedom one has in the present day suits. If I had my way I'd wear only a breech cloth and a breast plate when I went in swimming.

MISS J. B.

RESOLUTIONS.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—Let us resolve, for the year 1932, to purge our politics of the grafting individuals who, seeking only their own material gain, care not one mite about the hard working laborer whose money they squander.

Let us resolve to make honesty and ability, and not merely political alliances, the determining factors in choosing our future officials.

Let us resolve to make a supreme effort to clear our constitution of the eleven year blot of prohibition; that disastrous experiment that has already cost thousands of lives and millions of dollars.

If every loyal citizen would but make and keep these resolutions, much would be accomplished toward restoring to our country its lost prosperity.

J. E. BRANDECK.

SPOILING OUR RECORD.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—Not having intruded upon the capacity of your waste basket recently, I take the liberty to make a final attempt at the close of the present year to keep it from overflowing. Thanking you for past favors and wishing you a happy and prosperous new year, I remain,

ARMIN SEITZ.

MY MARYLAND.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27.—I am sure that the missionary work done by the honored emissary of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Mr. Tom Pettey, is highly appreciated by the citizens of Maryland's eastern shore, but, nevertheless, I am interested to know if the great city of Chicago has its own seething crime wave so well in hand that it can afford to dispatch a man of the talents of Mr. Pettey to the distant settlement of Maryland to investigate the lynching of a Negro.

I do not know whether a Marylander should be enraged or amused over the action of Chicago in interfering in Maryland's affairs. Chicago—the joke of the nation; a city that has established itself without doubt as the most ruffianly, crime-ridden city in America, a city of boosing, bribe taking cops, a city of corrupt politicians and a pathetic city government—telling the world that one lynching in twenty years makes Maryland a backward state and hurts the presidential aspirations of its capable governor!

What a laugh! THOMAS CUMMINGS.

THE RUINOUS SEX.

Chicago, Dec. 29.—On every side we hear the question: "What caused this depression?" Some say prohibition; others suggest the income tax; still others cry governmental graft. While I'll admit that these are primary causes, careful consideration after investigation convinces me the actual cause is woman's rule in America. For a dozen years she has had her way in all matters, and the result is that the country has gone to the dogs without a return ticket, taking several other countries with it.

MEETING ALL THE BOATS

[Brooklyn Eagle.]

OPENING NIGHT IS KEY TO FUN AT BENEFIT SHOW

'East Lynne' Not Only Gets Old, but Funny.

Cash contributions to the Hungry School Children's fund will be received at the following Tribune offices: 1 South Dearborn street, 1101 East 63d street, and 4152 West Madison street.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Folks who went to the Cort theater last night to see the opening performance of "East Lynne," advertised as "the brilliant drama of tears and thrills that test a woman's soul," thoroughly enjoyed themselves. There were no tears, but plenty of unrestrained laughter.

The fame of Bryant's Showboat company, the same one that tied a Mississippi and Ohio river boat to the dock in Cincinnati to try its fortune in the big city, had spread during the seven weeks of "Ten Nights in a Barroom." The critics had a good time at the opening performance of "Ten Nights," and so has every one since.

Benefit Performance Thursday.

Those who attended the matinee performance of the play Thursday afternoon for the benefit of THE TRIBUNE'S Hungry School Children's fund, are going to have a good time, judging from the reception of "East Lynne" last night. You may hiss the villian, applaud the heroine, whistle, cheer, stamp your feet, drink beer, eat pretzels, converse with the actors back stage, and sing sour notes to "Under the Shade of the Old Apple Tree."

When Villain Sir Francis Levinson, fat and forty, fingering his black whiskers, declares to Heroine Lady Isabel, wife of Hero Archibald Carlyle: "If ever two persons were made to love, you and I are," the audience, one and all, may hiss to its heart's content. And when the shocked heroine says: "How dare you address me thus," every one may laugh. The actors will like it. Hissing and laughing and booing are in perfectly good form at this drama.

Musical Acts Between Acts.

The Bryant Showboat company has interpolated several "versatile musical interpretations" between acts, because, as one of the actors admitted, "The play's so heavy we have to have something to sort of relieve the tension."

So Paul Robinson, the harmonica player, quite feelingly plays "The Stars and Stripes." When he drops his hat in the midst of a high and difficult note, he stoops, picks it up, and resumes where he left off.

Billy Bryant is a favorite. He comes out between acts and tells the audience the show is terrible, but "it's 'East Lynne,' and you can't make anything else out of it. And Lady Isabel is not going to jump off of a cliff, certainly not here at the Cort at these box office prices. She's going to die on an army cot."

Youngest Actor 20 Months.

The youngest actor last night was Louis Gladden, 20 months old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gladden, 2460 Foster avenue, who was chosen from among a hundred babies.

Billy Bryant will take his Showboat company to New York at the close of his engagement here at the end of the week.

The total proceeds of Thursday's afternoon performance will go to provide lunches for 7,000 hungry school children. Line parties are being formed by many women and members of parent-teacher groups. Tickets are on sale at the box office of the Cort theater, THE TRIBUNE Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, and the lobby of Tribune Tower.

WE'RE OUT TO MAKE A SENSATION THIS YEAR WITH Marfields

The kind of stir we have in mind isn't created by lots of talk and flurry—it's made by the clothes themselves clothes like these new Marfields. Look at the hand finishing of that canton frock from the Petite Miss section, the really correct fit of that knit dress from the Sports section; look at the quantity and the kind of fur on the coats, the very obvious good quality of every button and buckle. Those things don't just happen. They mean that our buyers have inspected and rejected and demanded, and we feel that we can say with a ring of conviction that our Marfields have no fashion or price rivals.

The "Carpi Turban," a new imported straw—named for its home town. It has a soft brilliance of finish that's lovely with furs. Black, brown, navy (and we'll copy it in any of the new colors). $12.50.

American Room, Fifth Floor, North, State

Woolen visca beret—one of those appealing hats that "does something for you." Stiff little feather quill; in navy, brown, sand, white, black. $8.75.

Sport and Street Room, Fifth Floor, Middle, State

One of those dresses you will buy early and won't discard later. Canton crepe in black with blue trimming, black with white trimming or Bruyere blue with white. 14 to 20. $29.50.

Misses' Dresses, Sixth Floor, South, State

Wool chenille yarn, a new lacy knit that's a winner. One-piece surplice style; in chamois, maize, white, red, Yankee blue; sizes 14 to 42. $19.75.

Toloma—Forstmann's new diagonal weave in this coat. No wonder it's a beauty. Cuffs and collar of Persian Lamb, natural fitch, Kolinsky, Russian Caracul. Wool lining. All black. $75.

Misses' Coats, Sixth Floor, North, State

A stunning between-the-seasons coat with "that." Boucle cloth with shawl collar and cuffs of Persian Lamb, Black Fox or Silver Kit Fox, Hudson Seal. Black only. $59.50.

Women's Moderately Priced Coats, Sixth Floor, North, State

"Interesting sleeves"—that's one of the mid-season decrees. Here they are with long tucked cuffs and very full above. Araby green, Afghan blue and clay beige canton. 11, 13, 15, 17. $25.

Petite Miss Apparel, Sixth Floor, North, State

Polka dots are good. You'll love the way they are used in this little two-piece suit. Bolero jacket, plain short-sleeve blouse with navy or black with white roshanara or cantons. 33 to 44. $27.50.

BRITISH ARREST GANDHI; RUSH HIM TO PRISON

India on Brink of a New Rebellion.

ples had placed a vermilion religious caste mark on the leader's forehead, the mahatma summoned his faithful to prayer. Under the star studded sky, he inaudibly recited, with Mrs. Gandhi on one side and Miss Slade on the other, his favorite Hindu prayer, "The Perfect Believer," in which occur the lines: "The perfect believer bears no ill will or malice toward any man, he looks upon every woman as his mother, he wishes well to all living creatures and he would cut out his own tongue rather than lie."

At the end of the prayer Mrs. Gandhi rushed forward and embraced her husband, then fell to his feet and said:

"Please forgive me if I have said or done anything wrong to you at any time."

Her husband caressed her and patted her head, but maintained his vow of silence. Mrs. Gandhi was followed by other women, who sobbed and prostrated themselves before the mahatma. He raised his hands toward them as if in benediction, while the police commissioner stood silently by.

Then, as Gandhi emerged from his tent, Miss Slade, who had served him for six years, fell to his feet and kissed the dust from them, again bursting into tears.

May Deport Britain's Foe.

Accompanied by a detective and carrying two books which Prime Minister MacDonald and Sir Samuel Hoare gave him as keepsakes in London, and which he intended to read in prison, the mahatma then left his tent and descended to the street.

"Long live Mahatma Gandhi," little groups of his white capped followers shouted, as the foe of the British empire, loincloth clad and bareheaded, entered the automobile with a police surgeon at his side.

There were reports the government might eventually deport him to Burma or elsewhere.

The Nationalists declared a hartal, or day of mourning, throughout India and Burma today in protest against Mahatma Gandhi's arrest. Thousands of stores all over India were closed.

The government was expected to promulgate special ordinances throughout the country declaring the Indian congress and its activities illegal, as a prelude to wholesale arrests of men and women rebels.

Camera Catches Satirist's Wife

WELSH FIX BASIC LAW; WILL ASK DOMINION STATUS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 3.—Welsh nationalists, who are preparing to demand dominion status, met today at Aberystwith to consider a secretly prepared document known to be a draft constitution for the dominion of Wales. The draft is the work of a number of prominent London Welshmen, who have been engaged in the task for two years. The chief articles in the proposed constitution are:

Wales is to have the same constitutional status in the British commonwealth of nations as the dominion of Canada and the Irish Free State under the statute of Westminster, and a Welsh parliament with the government responsible to it.

GANDHI SENDS 2 BRITISH WATCHES TO BRITISH COPS

BOMBAY, Jan. 4.—[Monday.]—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi's last act before he was arrested was to send to the two Scotland Yard detectives who protected him in London solid gold British watches.

The watches were inscribed "With love from M. K. Gandhi" to the men whom he recently described in young India as his "trusted guides and friends who looked after my comforts with the punctilious care of loving nurses."

The gifts were purchased in Bombay by Gandhi's secretary one hour after the Nationalist congress levied the embargo on British goods. Questioned as to his inconsistency, he said, "But I promised the detectives watches while the Delhi truce was still in force and I must stick to my word."

GERMANY TO ASK REMOVAL OF BAN ON SUBMARINES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 3.—Germany will demand the right to build submarines at the disarmament conference in February, a correspondent predicted today in the Daily Telegraph. This demand will take the form of a proposal to amend clauses in the Versailles treaty forbidding German submarines.

Germans regard these clauses as unfair and illogical, pointing out that minor powers such as Poland, Latvia, and the Scandinavian states possess between them no fewer than 148 submarines.

The Germans hold it is unreasonable to deprive them of a weapon obviously considered to be an indispensable element in naval defense.

Do you know why the Camel said "Baa Bah"?

SOMEBODY showed the Camel a cheap camels' hair overcoat. There was so little camels' hair in it and so much wool that the Camel turned up his nose and said "Baa!"

Now our camels' hair coats are of soft, silky hairs that make a luxurious cloth with an unmistakable "feel." They are beautifully hand-tailored throughout. There hasn't been an atom of cheapening in any one of them. But we have lowered the price to an unheard of level.

They were $85 to $125
They are $65

Along with our camel hair coats we have a splendid selection of Cheviots and Chesterfield overcoats that were $50 to $95. Now they are $40 and $55. We would like you to see them.

BRITAIN INVENTS 1,100 ROUNDS PER MINUTE RIFLE

New Light Weight Gun Is Tested by Army.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, JAN. 3.—The British government may be all in favor of disarmament, but her nationals continue to improve upon the old methods of warfare.

The latest invention has just been demonstrated to the heads of the firm which manufactures rifles for the British army.

It is a machine rifle, from which it is claimed 1,100 rounds per minute can be fired. It is very little heavier than the ordinary service rifle, and is said to be the cheapest machine rifle yet produced.

Claim Remarkable Accuracy.

Notwithstanding its lightness and the fact that the rapidity of firing causes the barrel to become red hot, the gun is said to be remarkably accurate.

In the first of the tests just concluded four magazines of seventy-five shots each were fired in one and a half minutes. Thirty shots were fired in two seconds, giving a rate of 900 per minute.

The rifle is protected against dust and mud and can be used without oil. As it is not liable to freeze up, it is serviceable under the most extreme climatic conditions.

The rifle is the invention of Col. M. G. Farquhar, who calls it the Farquhar-Beardmore gun.

Plan Military Autogiro.

The air ministry has asked the Ciera Autogiro company for specifications of a military autogiro, with a view to ordering an experimental machine.

The autogiro or "windmill" principle has not hitherto been applied to military aircraft, and the proposed design is being kept on the "secret list." This is the usual practice with regard to new designs of aircraft used for military or naval purposes.

The autogiro is said to possess many advantages over the usual type of plane. In reconnaissance and aerial photography its uses are especially manifest, it is claimed, for the area of its rudimentary fixed wings is small and offers much less obstruction to the views of the pilot and observer than those of the ordinary aeroplane. It is also possible to ascend and descend at very steep angles, and even to land in its own length.

Plan Upward Firing Guns.

It is claimed that machine guns mounted in these machines would have a greater field of fire than in an airplane. An upward firing gun could be mounted at the "no allowance" angle, and by means of an interrupter gear it could be fired so the bullets would pass between the blades of the lifting windmill.

The autogiro can be made to do flat [unbanked] turns, and these can be made in a smaller radius than that of the average war machine. In the event of a tail chase, so common in aerial fighting, the new plane, other things being equal, would be at a great advantage.

The present disadvantage of the autogiro is that it has a lower speed and slower climbing power than the ordinary machine of the same rated power.

Thus, Great Britain is still following the advice of Oliver Cromwell, who told his followers: "Trust in God, but keep your powder dry."

GIANT BOMB FOUND IN ENTRANCE TO ST. LOUIS' NEW $5,000,000 MART

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 3.—(AP)—A bomb containing 28 sticks of dynamite and with its five foot fuse only partly burned was found early today just inside the entrance to the St. Louis Mart, 20 story building in the heart of the industrial district, recently completed at a cost of $5,000,000.

Discovery was made by two policemen walking a beat past the building, which is only 50 yards from central police headquarters.

Members of the bomb squad removed the explosive, which had been dropped in the entrance through a door of which the glass had been broken.

Police experts said that apparently inexperienced persons had lighted the fuse and that it became extinguished almost immediately.

Charles E. Richardson, president of the building corporation, said he could ascribe no motive for the bombing attempt. Only union labor was employed in the construction of the building, he said, and there had not been any difficulty between contractors and workmen.

TWO LAUNDRIES ON LIST CALLED IN SMOKE DRIVE

Two laundries and a cleaning concern were listed yesterday by Frank A. Chambers, chief city smoke inspector, among the twenty persons and business concerns that have been summoned to appear at his office today because of the emission of dense smoke from chimneys on their premises.

Those summoned are:

Liberty laundry, 2161 Lincoln avenue.
Magic Wet Wash laundry, 4458 North Western avenue.
Eagle Cleaners and Dyers, 7060 North Clark street.
Chicago and Western Indiana railroad, clamshell No. 1913 at 49th street and Stewart avenue.
Warshawsky & Co., 7118 Stony Island avenue.
Frankenstein & Co., 2136 East 75th street.
Sheridan Beach hotel, 7301 Sheridan road.
Armour Car Line shops, 816 West 47th street.
Bohnett Tire company, 3843 South Halsted street.
John B. Wolf, 2509 North Laramie avenue.
Schackmuth, Strasser & O'Brien, 421 East 48th place.
Viola Chambers, 421 East 48th place.
Chicago Curled Hair company, 2301 South Paulina street.
John W. Eckhart company, 312 North Carpenter street.
McClintic Marshall company, 7749 Dante avenue.
George C. Bour & Co., 7037 Jeffrey avenue.
Frank G. Ely, 77th street and the Illinois Central railroad.
Schultz Baking company, 40 East Garfield boulevard.
Greer College of Automotive Engineering, 2024 South Wabash avenue.
Board of Education, Avalon school, 8041 Kenwood avenue.

At the hearings Chambers determines what defect in furnace operation is responsible for the smoke nuisance and recommends remedies to correct the defects. He also warns that the city will promptly sue those who are caught violating the city's smoke abatement ordinance.

DANDRUFF
A Sure Way to End It

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and looks and feel a hundred times better.

NOSE SUFFERERS
get quick relief from colds, sinus trouble, catarrh, headache, dry nose, coughs, throat trouble, by applying Kondon's Quick Relief Jelly to each nostril three times a day. Drug stores, 30 cents and 60 cents.

These 7 tests put advertising values out in the open

1. CITY AND SUBURBAN CIRCULATION
2. COVERAGE OF PURCHASING POWER
3. HOME-DELIVERED CIRCULATION
4. TOTAL CIRCULATION
5. RETAIL ADVERTISING VOLUME
6. GENERAL ADVERTISING VOLUME
7. CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING VOLUME

SEVEN genuine tests. Easy to apply, clear-cut, conclusive, used by publishers themselves. Tests such as you have wanted; that you can rely on.

They are the most dependable measure of the value of advertising space, of advertising responsiveness. The newspaper which best meets this seven-point check list gives you the greatest value for your money.

By these fundamental tests the Chicago Tribune is supreme among Chicago newspapers.

The Tribune has 150,000 more circulation in Chicago and suburbs than any other newspaper.

And far more home-delivered circulation than all other Chicago newspapers combined.

Advertising can't put into a newspaper what the editor leaves out. But what the editor puts in pays out for advertisers. And that's why the Tribune not only reaches more readers in the city and suburbs than any other newspaper but is read by them as no other Chicago newspaper is read.

That's why the Tribune has 57% more circulation than any other Chicago newspaper in the city's 25 better residential districts. And 67% more in the rich suburban towns.

Editorials that strike fire. Comics that are prized as circulation builders by publishers in every large city in America. Interesting, concise, reliable news and features. More women writers than on the staff of any other Chicago newspaper. The most gifted, competent staff of sports and financial writers. An individual, forceful character that represents the market and its best interests.

In the entire Chicago territory there is no newspaper, no national magazine, which has the influence and the responsiveness which the Tribune commands for advertisers seeking to win sales in this key market.

Retail advertisers placed 1,790,000 more lines of advertising in 1931 in the Tribune than in any other Chicago newspaper.

Placed more advertising in the Tribune in the conviction that as it is the first newspaper in the preference of their customers it should be first on their advertising schedules.

As it is first on the lists of general advertisers who placed 1,494,000 more lines in the Tribune in 1931 than in any other Chicago newspaper.

As it is first on the lists of want ad buyers who placed 1,779,000 more lines in the Tribune than in any other Chicago newspaper.

As it should be first on your list.

A Tribune representative will be glad to go over the facts with you in your office without any obligation on your part. Ask to have him call.

HOUSE WILL GET LONDON TREATY NAVY BILL TODAY

Democrats Move to Speed Warship Building.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—A Democratic naval program designed to give the Unite States a London treaty navy by authorizing the replacement of the aged and obsolete vessels of the American fleet with powerful up to date fighting ships was announced today by Chairman Carl A. Vinson [Dem., Ga.] of the house naval affairs committee.

The Vinson program includes introduction in the house tomorrow of a bill authorizing construction of 120 aircraft carriers, cruisers, submarines and destroyers during the next ten years. The total cost of building these ships was estimated at 616 million dollars by the naval committee chairman. In all, 803,000 tons of ships would be built according to a definite annual schedule, a fixed number of ships being laid down each year. The annual warship construction cost was fixed at $61,600,000.

Provisions of Measure.

The bill calls for the construction of:

Three aircraft carriers of a total tonnage of 55,200, two of the carriers to be of 20,000 tons each and the third of about 15,200 tons.

Nine 6 inch gun cruisers of a total tonnage of 90,000. At least one of these vessels is to be a flying deck cruiser of 10,000 tons equipped to carry from thirty-six to forty-eight airplanes.

Thirteen destroyer leaders totalling 24,000 tons. These vessels, the first of their type to be built in this country, will have a tonnage not exceeding 1,850 tons and be armed with 5 inch guns.

Seventy-two destroyers of a total tonnage of 108,000. These vessels will have a displacement of 1,500 tons each.

Twenty-three submarines of 25,990 tons.

Steel, Not Paper Ships.

The Vinson bill directs the secretary of the navy to submit annually to the budget bureau estimates for the construction of all vessels to be laid down the following year, thus making the bill call for steel rather than paper ships. It is this feature which is most certain to encounter White House opposition, although President Hoover is known to be opposed to the passage of any new naval legislation this session.

Evidently anticipating a controversy with the White House and pacifists when his measure comes to a vote, Chairman Vinson emphasizes in an accompanying statement that all the vessels included in his bill can be built without in any way violating either the spirit or the letter of the Washington and London treaties or the recently negotiated one year construction truce.

Chairman Vinson asserted that his bill was meant to give the country the type of fleet it expected to have when the London treaty was ratified.

Not Political Understanding.

"In ratifying the London treaty it was the general understanding," he said, "that it was the policy of the United States to build up to the naval strength permitted by the treaty. This was not a political understanding but a public understanding. This problem is not a political question but a national problem—namely, an adequate national defense—a first class navy for a first class nation."

The Democratic bill differs from the Republican measure offered in the senate by Chairman Frederick Hale [Rep., Me.] of the senate naval committee in that it calls for construction of a definite number of warships each year until the maximum tonnage levels of the London naval limitation treaty are reached in all categories of ships. The Hale bill authorized all ships possible to build under the London treaty but did not stipulate when they were to be laid down.

No battleship replacements are carried in either of the two naval bills although it will be possible to begin capital ship replacements after Dec. 31, 1936, if no new treaty restrictions are ratified by the senate. The Hale bill, however, provides for modernizing the five best battleships in the American fleet at a cost of practically $50,000,000. If the battleship replacements, which the navy hopes to build, were added to the Vinson bill, another 200 millions would be expended before the 10 year program is up.

Shows How U. S. Navy Lags.

In commenting on his program, Chairman Vinson said it would "tremendously increase the fighting strength of the American fleet." All ships included in his program, Mr. Vinson said, are replacement ships, with the exception of two aircraft carriers.

In supporting the size of his bill, Chairman Vinson produced figures showing how much the United States has lagged in naval building behind other major powers since the Washington treaty was formulated in 1922. He also directed national attention to the decrepit condition of a majority of the warships upon which this country's safety may depend in the next world emergency.

The Vinson figures showed that all American destroyers will be obsolete within three years; that between 1929 and the end of the 10 year period covered by his bill 173,000 tons of cruisers will have been stricken from the navy lists as worthless and that 42,980 tons of submarines will be over age by 1936.

"Since the Washington conference, Feb. 6, 1922," Mr. Vinson said, "the following ships have been laid down and completed; or have been laid down or completed (certain aircraft carriers); or are building; or have been appropriated for:

"United States: 41 ships, total tonnage, 253,640.

"British empire: 130 ships, total tonnage (about) 469,363.

"Japan: 166 ships, total tonnage (about) 454,267.

"France: 180 ships, total tonnage (about) 472,321.

"Italy: 133 ships, total tonnage (about) 266,175."

After pointing out the dates when the various ships of the fleet become obsolete, Chairman Vinson goes on to emphasize his point that all ships, with the exception of two 20,000 ton aircraft carriers, are replacement vessels and not additions to the fleet.

Increases Fighting Strength.

"This replacement navy," he added, "not only will be far more efficient and effective, but also less expensive to operate and maintain. This applies both to personnel and to material. It applies both to combatant ships and to auxiliaries. It reduces the number of ships and the over-all tonnage displacement, at the same time tremendously increasing the fighting strength of our navy."

Mr. Vinson enclosed figures showing estimated annual costs by years of the ten year authorization program, as follows:

1934	54,671,000
1935	89,844,000
1936	88,470,000
1937	90,110,000
1938	89,997,000
1939	40,092,000
1940	36,208,000
1941	42,397,000
1942	45,473,000

The program also provides for carrying over to following years $31,987,000.

PHILADELPHIA'S ART MUSEUM SHUT 3 DAYS A WEEK BY DEPRESSION

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Drastic reductions in personnel and administrative expenditures, made necessary by decreased appropriations from the city council for this year, will result in the closing of the Pennsylvania Museum of Art for three days each week, it was announced today by Fiske Kimball, the museum director.

The salary reductions and dismissal of staff members and other employes will affect the museum's two related institutions, Memorial hall in Fairmont park, and the Rodin museum, the latter the gift to the city of the late Jules Mastbaum, movie chain owner and philanthropist.

U. S. SEED LOANS FOUND GOING TO RING OF CHEATS

Scandal Is Uncovered in Alabama.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—An investigation by department of justice operatives into charges of fraud in government loans to farmers in Alabama has uncovered what is described in governmental circles as an organized plan to cheat the federal treasury of many thousands of dollars.

Evidence gathered over a period of weeks is to be submitted to a federal grand jury at Dothan, Ala., on Jan. 25, according to reports here. This evidence is said to indicate that more than 500 of the 614 government seed loans investigated in one county in Alabama were tainted with fraud and misrepresentation. It is also reported that in many cases payment of government checks was made on forged signatures.

The name of a relative of a prominent member of congress has been brought into the government investigation, it is declared, and there are reports in Washington that pressure is being brought in an effort to have the investigations dropped.

U. S. Starts Suing.

At the same time it became known that the department of justice has instituted a number of civil actions both to protect the government's lien on crops on which loans were made, and to protect the borrower from garnishment. Such civil cases are said to have been instituted in connection with loans in Alabama, Georgia, and Arkansas, while similar actions are expected to be filed in other states.

The investigation of fraud has not extended beyond one part of Alabama, according to reports, although there are said to be indications that frauds occurred in other states.

The last session of congress appropriated 65 millions for drought relief work. The money was for loans for feed, seed and fertilizer and in some cases for agricultural rehabilitation. Only about 47 millions was actually loaned.

The alleged frauds in Alabama cover many phases, it is said. Forgery is said to have been resorted to, false affidavits used, prior liens concealed and loans made to irresponsible persons and to minors.

Bankers Under Scrutiny.

It is also alleged that collusion existed between the representative of a county and the local committee passing on the eligibility of borrowers. It is understood that bankers, merchants, landlords and cotton buyers are among those under investigation.

In many cases the investigation is said to show that the purpose was to divert government loans to creditors of the tenant and to defeat the purposes of the seed loan act which required that prior liens be subordinated to those created by the government seed loan. It is charged that tenants in many cases did not have the use of any of their loans, and is further alleged that government funds in some instances, were loaned on fictitious names and indorsements to government checks forged.

Report of Test of Wash Goods

(Cotton) Chicago, Dec. 28, 1931

Lab. Test No. 5268. Sub. Dept. 75

These samples are fast to laundering; shrinkage, in no case, excessive. Report cards included showing original and laundered specimens. Each sample was washed separately, one set with soap and soda ash at 160 degrees—the other set the same way but with bleach included. Where no white was included in the pattern, a piece of white cotton was sewed on to indicate whether any bleeding of color occurred. The tests were made in a "Launderometer" and are based on researches of the American Association of Textile Chemists and Colorists and the Bureau of Standards. They are intended to simulate actual power laundry practice and show the effect of three to five launderings.

Chicago, Illinois.
Gentlemen:
We washed and ironed the dresses delivered to us fifteen times and find that the colors are fast. They lost none of their original brightness nor are there any signs of wear or shrinkage. The dresses looked very beautiful after each laundering process.
In the ordinary course of people sending their washing to a laundry, the same articles come back about every second week. The fifteen washings would equal a little more than six months of actual use.
Very truly yours,

FEUDAL BARONS RISE FROM TOMBS TO COLLECT TAX

Notices Are Served on Tenants to Pay Up.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 3.—The mailed hand of the feudal landlord is sticking through the top of his forgotten grave in Great Britain, grasping at the savings of countless small cottagers and landowners with demands for "taxes" unpaid since he himself was buried.

Extortionate notices are now being served on these unsuspecting victims under the provisions of the Birkenhead property act, passed in 1922 with the one idea of clearing such land from all claims recognized by feudal law.

Under feudalism, land held by small farmers was chiefly by a tenure described as "copyhold," as opposed to freehold. The landholder paid to the lord of the manor a yearly rental, according to the amount of his private copyhold dues. It was usually a nominal sum, sometimes no more than 5 cents.

Established in Middle Ages.

The capital value of these copyhold dues, which might be considerable for a large manor if collections were spread over a number of years, was established in the middle ages. The tenant was given the right to purchase a freehold by paying off the sum fixed for his case, theoretically a compromise worked out on a just basis for both tenant and the lord of the manor.

In order to establish clear title to considerable British land, the Birkenhead act fixed a definite means by which these payments were to be made. The idea was to abolish copyhold altogether. Under the act the lord of the manor could demand payment of copyhold settlement in a lump sum if the amount came to less than $100. But if the copyhold settlement exceeded $100 the tenant had a right to extend the payments in equal amounts over 20 years.

The act also provided for compulsory enfranchisement of the land if complete title had not been established over a period which expires soon.

Send Out Demand Notices.

Lords of many manors, especially Sussex, have sent demand notices to all their copyhold tenants, calling for complete payment of the entire sum at once. They have neglected to remind their tenants that in most cases these payments can be spread over 20 years.

Among the cases cited in Sussex is that of a small shopkeeper at Lewes, who has been ordered to pay $3,000, to extinguish copyhold dues on his property. Another is that of a laborer in a village, who is paying about $1 a week on a cottage. He has been asked for $600.

An unemployed cottager at West Hoathly has received a letter asking for $150 to discharge his rights, although he is entitled to limit his payments to a little more than $7 annually. The vicar of the same town has had to find $160 on account of an old shed stored with rubbish and a strip of land four rods in area.

Tenants in a Panic.

Most of these tenants, who have never heard of the Birkenhead law or have forgotten it, are in a panic. Their fate is made harder because copyhold dues have not been collected for decades.

Another anomaly of feudal tenure which is also being wiped out is heriot. This establishes the right of the lord to take the best beast on the farm on the death of the tenant. This right has fallen into disuse in most cases. The last time it was invoked in Sussex was about 20 years ago.

Sir Richard Farrant, the tenant, died, and the lord of the manor took his two carriage horses.

Buys Right of Heriot.

But few people who know of these old laws are willing to take chances with them. Some time ago Lord Fairfax, who breeds race horses, rented a cottage at West Hoathly. He bought out the right of heriot through fear his stable might lose its best money winner, perhaps the Derby winner.

The practice of copyhold in one form or another extends throughout the country where any semblance of feudal practices survive. It applies to many of the vast ducal estates, and King George receives quaint tributes from his dukes.

One is compelled to deliver so many pairs of horseshoes to the king once a year to discharge obligations based on William the Conqueror's claim that all land belongs to the king, and must pay tribute. One Scottish noble delivers a package of snowballs to the king in midsummer in order to maintain title to his estate. Another must bear a rose to the king in the dead of winter to pay his dues.

Doesn't Want Money.

In Sussex many of the lords of the manor do not wish to collect the copyhold dues. Mrs. G. W. Ridley, lady of the manor at West Hoathly, is a member of the Labor party and a Socialist.

"I was astonished," she said, "when I learned that an unemployed carpenter was to pay me $150. I was even more astounded to hear that of this amount, only $60 came to me. The steward of the manor, although his job is a perfect sinecure, has to be 'compensated' to the extent of $30. The rest of the money goes for incidental charges."

But Mrs. Ridley, as lords of some other manors, has been told that the law must take its course.

"I have valued my manorial rights simply as a tradition," she said. "The whole thing is iniquitous."

3 SLAIN, 7 SHOT; ARGENTINA ENDS PROVINCE REVOLT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 3.—Three men were killed and seven were wounded in a clash between military forces and rebels at La Paz in Entre Rios province today, officials said here tonight. The plot against the provincial government was suppressed with the arrival of federal troops and planes.

Late reports from Paraná, capital of the province, said that the rebels, headed by Mario Kennedy, one time political boss under former President Yrigoyen, captured La Paz, but was retaken by the authorities. Kennedy is said to have fled to Uruguay.

The revolt was first disrupted when seven army airplanes, sent by the federal government, flew over La Paz. Most of the rebels, said to number about 150, are reported to have surrendered. Federal troops are patrolling the province and report that all is quiet except in La Paz.

Fly from Venezuela to Maryland for Funeral

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Dr. William S. Hoffmeister and his bride arrived here last night by airplane from Venezuela to attend the funeral of his father, Dr. Edward Hoffmeister, who died Thursday. The trip was made in less than 48 hours.

DOG TURNS ON ITS BENEFACTOR, THREE BITTEN

Stanley Bergquist, 2827 North Rockwell street, found a mongrel dog on the street a month ago and took it home. Fed and sheltered, the dog developed a proper doglike affection for its master.

But on Saturday the dog became surly. It bit Mrs. Selma Bergquist, 48 years old, mother of Stanley, and her daughters, Lillian, 16 years old, and Marjorie, 23 years old.

All were treated by a physician and the dog was killed by its owner. The Shakespeare avenue police, suspecting that the animal may have been afflicted with rabies, turned its head over to the city health department for examination.

2,500 Shoe Merchants to Open Convention Today

More than 2,500 retail shoe merchants are expected to gather at the Palmer house today to attend the 21st annual convention of the National Shoe Retailers' association. Six entire floors have been engaged for displays at the hotel, and more than 500 models will be employed. Footwear business for the new year will be largely determined at the meeting, according to James H. Stone, manager of the convention. D. F. Kelly, president and general manager of the Fair store, will address the group today on "Retailing in 1932."

BRITISH WRANGLE WITH PARIS OVER WAR DEBT 'UNION'

London Believes French Want Too Much.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 3.—Indications that a hitch has arisen in the debt negotiations between Great Britain and France preliminary to the Lausanne reparations conference was confirmed tonight when the Paris government officially denied London reports that Premier Laval will confer with Prime Minister MacDonald next Saturday.

The communique adds that if the interview takes place, it will not be until after further conversations between the treasury experts of the two nations. They are scheduled to be resumed this week. It now seems likely that the Laval-MacDonald conversations will be held up until almost the eve of the conference—possibly as the British pass through on their way to Lausanne.

It is admitted that much depends upon the visit of Philippe Berthelot, right hand man of Foreign Minister Briand, who is in London ostensibly to visit the French art exhibition there.

Seek United Front.

The object of all these conversations is quite simple. The French frankly admit they are trying to form a united European front against the United States with the object of bringing concerted pressure to bear and force the American congress to accept a revision of war debts or at least prolong the general moratorium. Until the last few days the British seemed to be lined up, and the chief French worry was how to convince the Germans it is in their interest to play Europe's game.

If the French finally succeed in forming their "moratorium bloc" the Lausanne conference will be purely perfunctory and very brief, observers believe. The conference will agree to suspend the Young plan for one, two, or three years and probably will replace it with a formula whereby Germany will be freed from conditional annuities for that period, allowing her to make unconditional annuity payments in marks, instead of foreign currencies. Of course, such action hingest upon United States agreeing to extend the moratorium of all interallied debts, it is admitted.

Official circles here believe the hitch between France and England is due to the French demand on the British government to hold out for a more radical formula.

In London to Smooth Way.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 3.—Philippe Berthelot, secretary general of the French foreign office, who is in London visiting the French art exhibition, is really here, it was learned today, to pave the way for the resumption of negotiations between the British and French treasury chiefs and for the proposed meeting between Prime Minister MacDonald and Premier Laval.

During his stay Berthelot will confer with Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary. He hopes to confer with other cabinet ministers and is particularly anxious to meet the prime minister.

In addition to the reparations conference he is expected to discuss certain aspects of the disarmament conference and will possibly explain to the British foreign secretary the policy underlying France's efforts to promote pacts of nonaggression between Poland, Rumania and Russia, and between France and Russia.

11 Year Old Boy Will Be Tried for Slaying Farmer

Fort Worth, Tex., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Bennie Hurst, 11, will go to trial here Jan. 15 on a delinquency complaint charging murder. The complaint was filed after the boy confessed killing Mack Sanchez, 60, at a farm home near Birdville Friday. The boy was released on bond of $500, made by his attorney and his parents. Bennie said Sanchez choked him about a month ago and since had threatened to do him serious injury.

BRITTEN CALLS PROPAGANDA ON DEBT AN INSULT

Says Europe Underrates U. S. Intelligence.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—"The propaganda now being promoted in England, France, and the United States for further cancellation of the debts due us by foreign governments is the most audacious contempt of American intelligence that has yet come out of the world war," Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] declared today in commenting on European press dispatches concerning debt revision.

FRED A. BRITTEN.
[Assoc. Press Photo.]

"Temporary world depression," said Mr. Britten, "is the subtle vehicle upon which French and British statesmen will propose moving the entire war debt from Europe to the shoulders of the already overworked American taxpayer.

Says Moratorium Failed.

"The moratorium recently approved by congress having failed ingloriously to affect world prosperity, it must now be presumed that saddling all war debts on simple minded but rich Uncle Sam is the only way to save Europe."

Suspended principal and interest payments due the United States in 1932 from Belgium, France, England, Italy, Poland, Rumania, and Jugo-Slavia total less than 10 per cent of their combined military expenditures the Chicago congressman pointed out.

Can't Admit Bankruptcy.

"Neither England nor France can publicly refuse to pay their bonds guaranteeing payment of money loaned them after the armistice," he went on. "That would be an acknowledgment of bankruptcy. England is more prosperous than we are and France is probably the most prosperous nation on earth at the present moment. Congress has reached the end of its benevolence and will be duped no longer. There will be no further sentimental extensions or reductions. The world war was a European institution and its effect should be settled by the European governments involved.

"The play for further American charity is nothing more nor less than unmitigated gall and the quicker European statesmen realize this the better for all concerned."

EIGHT HELD BY POLICE IN KILLING OF STORE OWNER

Eight men were being held by the Warren avenue police yesterday in the fatal shooting of Harry Fox, 39 years old, owner of a delicatessen at 114 South Wood street, on Saturday. Fox was shot when he fought a revolver battle with three men who entered his store to rob him. The suspects were arrested by Policemen John Gabinski and Owen Kenelly in a building at 16 North Hermitage avenue when word was received at the station that a hoodlum gang operated from there. All denied any connection with the shooting, but were held for witnesses.

The men held identified themselves as George Herring, 29 years old, a resident of the building; Wilbur Fanning, 24, of 2420 Maypole avenue; John Bagley, 20, of 2859 Warren avenue; Roy Carpenter, 22, of 1706 Warren avenue; Homer Cordeau, 24, of 4647 South Sawyer avenue; Roy Lupp, 21, of 316 South Mansfield avenue; Robert Pulze, 22, of 2036 West Chicago avenue, and Richard Todd, 23, of 1655 Jackson boulevard.

SPANISH GUARDS DEMAND RIGHT TO FIRE ON MOBS

Outraged Over Massacre of Their Comrades.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Jan. 3.—The Spanish republic's first constitutional government faces a situation that may become grave as the result of a gesture today by the civil guards, that redoubtable constabulary which curbs the Spanish passion so energetically.

The colonels of this constabulary, known as "benemerita," or meritorious, called on their commander in chief, Gen. San Jurgo, and told him that the killing of the civil guards by the populace had to be stopped. They said the way to stop this is to make a grim example of the town Castilblanco in the division of Estremadura, where four men were massacred when they tried to block massed laborers of the town from proceeding—so the banners indicated—to the offices of the chief magistrate.

Want to Avenge Insults.

Gen. San Jurgo went immediately to lay his colonels' demands before Minister of the Interior Caseres Quiroga. It has been learned that the general told the cabinet officer that the commanders of the guards had resolved to act from now on with the utmost energy, taking the proper measures to prevent being insulted, much less massacred in spite of the government's explicit order to desist from the ancient habit of firing into crowds at the slightest provocation.

Minister of the Interior Quiroga quickly telegraphed Premier Azana, also minister of war, who is vacationing in Andalusia. The cabinet will take up the matter on Tuesday. If the gesture of the civil guards is construed as a menace as was that of the month of May when officers in Barcelona, enraged by the hisses of a mob, threatened Catalan authority fireworks can be expected.

Thirty-five inhabitants of the remote, adobe village of Castilblanco were arrested today by authorities from Madajoz, although not a soul in the town "remembered" anything about the slaying of the guards. The only witnesses of the guards' death were mute-plucked eyes and bodies hacked by the guards' own machetes. Villagers found either with bloodstains on their clothing or in possession of the dead men's equipment were arrested as well as the magistrate, who called the guards to save his own head.

Guards Hated by Peasants.

There seems to be no explanation for the massacre other than the peasants' hatred for the sullen, hard shooting corps with their fantailed patent leather hats. Four to six of these guards are garrisoned at the outskirts of every village, aloof of its life and maintaining an awesome prestige. They represent to the passion ridden masses not only authority but authority misused for centuries.

In many villages since the revolution they forcibly prevented workers from parcelling land ahead of the agrarian reforms.

The nervous elements among the bourgeoisie have come to idolize the 43,000 civil guards and particularly their commander, San Jurgo, the man who made the revolution bloodless by turning over his corps to the republic, but whose attitude since has often been questioned.

Radicals' Foes Sympathetic.

In the protest, or menace, which ever it is, the guards will have the sympathy of the elements now striving to rouse the country against the power of the radical groups.

As evidence of the rising hatred between the moderate Republicans and the Socialists, who predominate in the Azana government and who would even like to see the guardia civile disbanded, was the riot in the village of Zalamea, also in Estremadura, where one person was killed and three were wounded in a street battle between the two elements after the Castilblanco massacre.

SERIOUSLY ILL

MRS. MARION OCHSNER.
[Moffett Photo.]

Mrs. Marion Mitchell Ochsner, widow of Dr. Albert J. Ochsner, famous Chicago surgeon, is gravely ill at her home, 2106 Sedgwick street. She has been confined to her home for a week by a cold which was followed by a heart attack. She is 74 years old.

Her son, Albert Ochsner, was summoned to her bedside from his home in Eastover, Va. Also at her bedside are her daughter, Mrs. Douglas Campbell, a dancer under her maiden name, Bertha Ochsner, and a friend, Mrs. Thatcher Hoyt.

Mrs. Ochsner is known as a patron of music and a philanthropist. She founded the Woman's Symphony orchestra and has maintained an active interest in the organization. She has been president of the National Federation of Music Clubs, the Chicago Federation of Women's Clubs, and the Chicago branch of the McDowell society, and is a member of numerous music clubs.

ATTORNEYS SEEK DISMISSAL OF NELSON TODAY

Attorneys for State Auditor Oscar Nelson this morning will present arguments before Judge Edward Shurtleff at Woodstock in an effort to convince the judge that he should dismiss the charge of misfeasance upon which Mr. Nelson has been on trial during the last two weeks.

The defense attorneys, David R. Joslyn, R. K. Welsh and Joseph Pieck, contend that the court has no jurisdiction in the case. The offense charged carries a penalty of removal from office, and the defense maintains that only the legislature may remove state officers, and that by impeachment proceedings.

H. F. Marsh of Waukegan, chairman of a committee of depositors of the Waukegan State bank, announced yesterday that 40 or 50 depositors would attend this morning's session at Woodstock. "We want to show we are back of State's Attorney Smith in this prosecution," Mr. Marsh said.

MEXICANS IGNORE CURB ON PRIESTS; CROWD CHURCHES

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 3.—(AP)—All roads led out of Mexico City today as Catholics attended church services outside the federal district, where the new law limiting the number of clergy allowed to officiate was not effective. The federal district extends only a few miles beyond the limits of Mexico City.

Archbishop Pascual Diaz is reported to have attended services at the church of Los Remedios, five miles from Mexico City. Churches in the federal district, open but priestless, also were crowded by Catholics who came to worship.

Laymen read the mass in some churches, while in others the worshipers prayed in silence.

AGED MAN ENDS STOMACH PAIN

"I used ACIDINE and found it to do all you claim," says M. A. Funk of Riverton, N. J. "I am 60 years of age and had been bothered with acid, fermentation and gas in stomach. I had tried everything without results. ACIDINE relieved me at once."

Mr. Del Lacrosse of New York says, "I had suffered for several weeks from gas and sour stomach. Took almost everything. Then I tried ACIDINE. It has ended my gas and sour stomach. Now feel fine and have a sweet stomach all the time. I always keep ACIDINE in my medicine chest and advise anyone with stomach trouble to try it."

End gas, sourness, heartburn, dizziness, sleeplessness, headache resulting from acidity. Maker guarantees ACIDINE ends your stomach trouble or money back. All druggists have ACIDINE.

RESIGNED FROM NAVAL ACADEMY KILLS HIMSELF

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 3.—(AP)—John A. Cygon, 19, whose electrical experiments in the dormitory of the United States Naval academy at Annapolis in November, 1930, led to his resignation, took his life here today.

Cygon was found dead in his bed this morning by his father, Col. Joseph R. Cygon, U. S. A., attached to the third corps area. In one hand the youth clutched a tube of a chemical used in hospitals to deaden pain. The coroner gave a verdict of suicide.

Announcing the resignation of the young man from the naval academy officers said he had established a system of remote control in his room by which he could operate the elevators, the lighting system and even the telephones.

The case, at the time, received nation-wide attention. After his resignation he was offered positions by several firms interested in his knowledge of electricity. He declined all offers, however, and announced he desired to enter West Point.

Cygon returned to school here and later it was announced he had received a conditional appointment to the military academy from the President. Last March he was named second alternate to take entrance examinations with a view toward admission July 1.

PLANE TO RUSH CASH TO BANKS IN CHARLESTON

Charleston, S. C., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Announcement was made tonight that an airplane would bring a supply of money here tomorrow from the federal reserve bank in Richmond to meet demands on banks that might result from the closing last week of the People's State bank of South Carolina.

A plane yesterday brought $500,000 to the South Carolina National here from the Charlotte, N. C., branch of the Federal Reserve bank of Richmond. The amount to be flown tomorrow from Richmond was not announced.

half yearly sale of HANAN SHOES

A Sale that is really a Sale
HANAN & SON offer, in their half-yearly sale, fine shoes for men and women at the lowest possible prices for shoes of this quality.
For months the public has been bombarded by fictitious "sales," offering merchandise said to be greatly reduced in price. In many cases this merchandise has never been sold at the "regular" or "former" prices quoted. Instead it has been specially made to sell profitably at "sale" prices.
Hanan Shoes are built to a standard—not to a price. That standard has been set by four generations of Hanans.
Hanan has sold these shoes at prices which were an honest equivalent of the materials and the craftsmanship put into them. Now they are offered, during this sale, at prices considerably below their real value.
This sale, then, is really a sale. Its values are the greatest Hanan has ever been able to offer the public.

This Is British; Presents Modern "Slice of Life"

With Heroine Who Thinks She's All Mind.

"Mr. and Mrs. Pennington," by Francis Brett Young. [Harper's.] Published today.

THIS novel by the author of "Love Is Enough," "Redlakes" and "My Brother Jonathan" is the January choice of the Book-of-the-Month club.

England is its locale, and the characters are of the nice, unimaginative bourgeois class, the class that buys on the installment plan, that lives in the suburbs, and smugly but not unhappily passes the day in work and in small pleasures. Susan, a bright and lovely girl, at the beginning of the story has once despised. The rest of the book outlines their lives almost from day to day.

FRANCIS BRETT YOUNG.

This is a long novel written in the English tradition. There are no innovations either in technique or in subject matter. And within the definite limitations of this self-imposed artistic conventionalism this novel is extremely successful. Nevertheless, despite the value of this picture of English society, the book appears dated.

The term, long out of fashion, "a slice of life," can best be applied to this book. "Mr. and Mrs. Pennington" is a thoroughly realistic crosssection of English life. And as a picture of background and environment the reader lends his credence to it. The long detailed descriptions of the daily activities of Susan and her husband, of their friends in their own class, and of their harmful contact with the near-rich and with the near-respectable, hanging on to the fringes of their own class, are done with understanding. The author is never bitter nor cynical nor contemptuous of this class which he pictures so well; his approach rather is one of gentle pity. Therefore, the reader sees a just picture of the English bourgeoisie.

The same careful, intelligent approach is made in the conception of character. Susan's character, as well as her husband's, is unfolded gradually, and mostly unfolded through the stress of circumstances. The author ties up the characterization and the action in a completely convincing manner. Action never seems to be arbitrarily introduced for the sake of the plot's progress, nor does it only artificially supplement the characterization. What these people say and do seems to be consistent and natural developments of their intellectual and emotional potentialities as implied by the author.

There is one character in the novel that tries the reader's patience. This is Buskin, the old fashioned villain. He is around sixty and desires the hand of the young and beautiful Susan. When he is refused he takes his revenge on Susan's uncle, whom he ruins financially. Later, when Susan repels his advances again, he decides to break up her home. He is painted as so villainous that the author's analysis of him resolves into a caricature.

Very soon after Buskin's introduction into the story the reader can only feel amusement when he appears from time to time, carrying on his machinations. If the author had consistently made the other characters serve only as symbols and conventions to express his purposes, Buskin would not seem so incongruous. But no matter how, on the surface, the other characters become types, they are, nevertheless, always very real people, human, interesting and credible.

Capt. Small, who at first occupies such a large space in the book, is later dismissed rather summarily. The reader is led to believe that he will have some definite relationship to the structure of the novel. He is an interesting and a well drawn character, it is true, but he does not fit into the architecture of the story, and his characterization becomes finally an artistic irrelevancy.

The novel is well plotted and usually consistently carried out. There are very few structural weaknesses. The author takes over half the book to set the background and to introduce the characters. Therefore, when the dramatic action that is crowded into the last third of the book appears, the reader is prepared for it, and feels it to be the logical development. The reader might feel that the last part of the book is a bit hurried and too full of events but he at least is convinced that the drama is justified by the previous characterization.

There is a gentle and unobtrusive irony in the novel that is completely captivating. The author implies that there will be other situations of the same genre throughout the lives of Susan and her husband. His implication comes not from cynicism but from an understanding of the people with whom he deals. Both people are chastened for the time being. But through the sureness of his characterizations and the brilliance of his understanding of environment, it is obvious that Susan and Dick, living in this background, will always be much the same as they are at the time of the author's scrutiny. This attitude on the part of the author gives the book a sophistication and a thoughtfulness, no matter how lightly it reveals itself, that make it more than a merely interesting, conventional novel.

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams.

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

I had always supposed that a boxer who carried his best wallop in his right hand led with his left and others whose strength was in their left hand led with the right. Of late I have noticed many boxers stepping into the ring with both hands hanging at their sides—not leading at all. Being a bridge player, I had always supposed that this was because they did not know what to lead.

This problem of leading perplexes more bridge players than any other and is one of the most important features of the play. Take yesterday's play-a-problem:

NORTH
♠—A,9,6,5,2
♥—8
♦—K,Q,8

WEST	EAST
♠—K,10,8,4	♠—Q,J,3
♥—5,10,9,6,5	♥—7,3
♦—6,4	♦—5,3,2
♣—10,7	♣—A,Q,J,8,2

SOUTH (Dealer)
♠—7
♥—K,Q,J,4,2
♦—A,5,10,9,7
♣—K,6

South dealt and bid a heart. West passed. North now took out with a bid of one spade. East passing, South rebid his hearts, bidding two hearts, having sufficient strength for the bid and at the same time showing his five card suit. West passed and North took out with a bid of two spades. East passed. South, now despairing of finding support for his hearts, showed his diamonds by a bid of three. West passed, and North supported the diamonds, bidding four. East passed and South, stretching things a bit, bid five diamonds.

South's bid was not as much of a flag flyer as it might seem at a casual glance. He figured that he had one losing trick in spades—one in hearts, one in clubs, and none in diamonds, since he expected that North had the ♦ K-Q. Further South thought that if North did not have the ♦ K-Q he must have some compensating outside strength which probably would be the ♣ A. To justify this reasoning of South's you will find that if West makes any but the one direct lead North and South can easily take in their game.

Let us put ourselves in West's position and see what card we would lead. In the first place, leading from a suit headed by either the A or K when the other honor is missing is a poor, blind opening. If we should lead from the heart suit we must lead the ace, as, except for the A-K combinations, one never underleads an ace against a trump declaration.

Some advanced players will occasionally lead a low card from a short suit headed by the A just because the opponent does not expect it. However, unless you regard yourself as an expert, never lead away from an ace against a trump declaration (except, of course, with the A-K combination).

The club and diamond suits only remain to be considered. A blind lead of the club doubleton should not be made without reasonable assurance that the partner can take in that suit. We may suppose that partner holds strength in clubs, but we have no right to presume that our partner is able to take both top tricks. However, the bidding has shown us a five card heart suit in South's hand and a five card spade suit in North's. It has also shown us that neither North nor South hold more than two cards, respectively, in their partner's spade or heart suit. This makes us believe that South's will need to do a considerable amount of ruffing. The one way we can hope to hurt this plan is to lead a trump.

West's proper opening is the ♦ 6. When he gains entry again with the ♥ A he should make a second lead of trumps. Now South must lose two heart tricks and a club trick. Not only are these two trump leads proper and obvious, but they are the only possible method of defeating the contract. North and South are down one if the proper lead is made; if not, they have their five diamonds.

PLAY-A-PROBLEM: SOLITAIRE OR PARTNERS

Play this hand tonight at your bridge game. Keep a record of the bid and play in the spaces provided. Numbers in the bidding squares are for successive rounds. Check your results with tomorrow's answer.

To play "Solitaire": Record the bids you think each hand would make in the bidding squares. After the final declaration has been made start the play, leading from the hand at declarer's left. As you play each card cross it off of the diagram and record it in the proper square, as S. 3, H. K, etc. In the last column indicate the hand which won the round and lead from that hand on the next round.

Good morning!

"Ladies of the Big House" can hardly be rated as entertainment. It is a pitiful pictorial dissertation on prison life as lived by women—and some men—and calls attention to the fact that frameups can work, that law can err, and that innocents can suffer thereby even unto the supreme penalty.

The story was written by Ernest Booth, a resident of San Quentin, and the author takes the gloomiest possible outlook in his tale of newlyweds who, several hours after their marriage, find themselves arrested for the murder of an officer who has been killed by the mighty tough egg who learns that the girl he covets belongs to another.

"I'll get 'em!" snarls Kid Athens.

He does. His rival, the bridegroom, is condemned to hang. The bride is sentenced to life imprisonment. You go to the "big house" with the unhappy pair and learn about prison through their experiences which terminate—as the picture shall show you.

There's something a bit amateurish about the yarn, but its telling is sincere and all of the acting is intelligent and believable. Little Sylvia Sidney's sufferings will wring your hearts, and if her blond screen husband with his perfect [natural, I'm sure] marcel doesn't do likewise, it will be because you don't care for the type and not because of any flaw in Gene Raymond's impersonation. Direction is clean cut and there's a convincingly depressing atmosphere about the whole that makes you want to be very, very good, and say a prayer that you'll be lucky enough to escape those snares laid by the ungodly for the upright.

See you tomorrow!

Smedley D. Butler's Daughter to Marry Officer of Marines

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Smedley Darlington Butler of Newtown Square have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ethel Peters Butler, to Lieut. John Wehle of the marine corps. Lieut. Wehle is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Wehle of Norwalk, Conn., and is stationed at the Brooklyn Navy yard.

Miss Butler, who studied at Darlington seminary in Westchester and at Miss Ferris' school in Paris, was introduced to society several years ago in this city.

No date has been set for the wedding.

ENGAGED

DOROTHY V. BUECHELE.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph F. Buechele of 2029 Jarvis avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy V. Buechele, to Gordon F. Lietzow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Lietzow of 5510 Sheridan road. Miss Buechele is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta and Mr. Lietzow of Delta Tau Delta. Both are attending Northwestern university.

London Opens Historic Show of French Art

Includes Examples from 12th to 20th Centuries.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 3.—Masterpieces of French art from the twelfth to the twentieth centuries now fill the Royal academy galleries in Burlington house which will open to the public tomorrow.

The exhibition will continue for two months. The works shown include paintings, sculptures, manuscripts, tapestries and other art treasures gathered from private and public collections in Europe and America.

The king lent a number of pictures from Buckingham palace, while the Louvre in Paris and the French cathedrals, churches and provincial museums were notably generous.

French art hardly ever before has been so admirably represented in a single exhibition, and this one is a worthy successor to the magnificent collections of Flemish, Dutch, Italian and Persian art seen previously in Burlington house.

The long separated parts of the 15th century "Triptych of Aix" have been reunited for the second time in recent years. The central part still belongs to the church of the Madaleine at Aix-en-Provence; the right hand panel representing Jeremiah, belongs to the National museum at Brussels; the lower part of the left panel, representing Isaiah, is owned by Sir Herbert Cook, and the upper section of that panel belongs to the Ripks museum of Amsterdam.

The first assemblage of these parts was effected several years ago at the Louvre. This "Annunciation" was painted at Aix in the time of Rene of Anjou, duke of Bar and Lorraine, king og Sicily and Naples in the fifteenth century.

Objets d'art on display include rare reliquaries, church vessels and vestments. Among them are a ninth century reliquary from the conquest, a twelfth century chalice, and a sixteenth century reliquary of St. Ursula from the Rheims cathedral.

Philippe de Champagne's "Richelieu," lent by the king, and Ingres' "Red Uniformed Bonaparte" probably never have been seen to better advantage.

Interest is almost certain to center in an unprecedentedly fine assembly of the work of such great artists of the last century as Manet, Renoir, Monet, Cezanne, Gauguin, and Degas. This affords an unusual opportunity for them to be studied in relationship to one another.

THE STAGE

"CHAUVE-SOURIS."

A musical entertainment in Russian and English, with Nikita Balieff as master of ceremonies and impresario; given at the Selwyn theater Jan. 3, 1932.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

THE moon face of Nikita Balieff, the merry, three-chinned mandarin of Russian entertainment, is beaming across the footlights in Chicago once more, and the magic phrase, "Chauve-Souris," is again in active use in the dialect of playgoers. A new version of the bland and balmy little musical frolic from Moscow—the romantic Moscow of the old régime—and other European capitals had a happy première at the Selwyn theater last night.

This "Chauve-Souris" show is, in general outline, an old story. Its tours have been so frequent that it has become a part of the folklore of the American theater. Its famous "March of the Wooden Soldiers" is now one of our nursery rhymes. Nevertheless, its return this season, after an absence of three years, has certain elements of novelty.

For one thing, it speaks English occasionally, and I believe that not even a conscientious objector to opera in English will complain about this innovation. The Russians may be a charming people, when in their right economic and political minds, but their language is not a joy forever to the uncomprehending ear.

For another thing, the core of this new program is one hour of coherent, story-telling melodrama—a fantasy to music, spoken—praise to Allah!—in English by English actors. This piece is "The Queen of Spades," a staging of a tale by Pushkin with a score by A. Archangelsky, and it gives George Hayes, who was the Hamlet of last year's Stratford-upon-Avon tour, an opportunity for fireworks in some of the more spectacular emotions.

"The Queen of Spades" has plot enough to make the libretto of a full-length opera, and it tells a grand old-school yarn about the horrors of gambling and the Russian soul's capacity for remorse. Sir Henry Irving would have loved it as a show-piece to alternate with "The Bells," and Mr. Hayes acts the central rôle in a fine romantic fever, going mad at the end like a Dostoyevsky hero. The piece contains the devil's formula for sure-thing gambling at faro: Bet on the three of hearts, the seven of diamonds, and the ace of clubs.

The piece is staged, more elaborately than "Chauve-Souris" custom, in seven scenes. Marie Ault, as an old countess called "The Queen of Spades," who had flirted with Cagliostro in her youth, and Helen Kingstead, as an ingénue, also figure importantly in its cast.

The rest of the program is typical "Chauve-Souris," in Balieff's best manner. The richness of Russian singing, the vigor of Russian dancing, and the quaintness of Russian humor are illustrated in thirteen numbers. Some of them are fresh additions to the company's repertory; others, such as "Katinka" and "A Night at Yard," are standard items. Voices of operatic distinction are brilliantly used by Mme. Vetchor and Mme. Cortis; and the lively Komisarjevsky is a keen soubrette.

A special matinée performance of "The House Beautiful" will be given at the Harris theater tomorrow afternoon as a benefit for the Actors' Fund of America.

1931 Weddings Skid to Lowest Mark Since '18

Dan Cupid Bows to an Economic Trend.

Weddings skidded dizzily in Cook county during 1931, plunging to the lowest mark since the war year of 1918 when much of the marriageable manhood was concentrated in training camps and in France. The number of marriage licenses issued by County Clerk Sweitzer slipped to 32,064. This is 14 per cent lower than the 1930 total and 25 per cent less than 1929.

Enough licenses were issued, however, to hold a wedding for every 122 persons in the county. And if they had been held at regular intervals there were enough to have had one every 16 minutes throughout the 365 days of the year.

Three thousand of the licenses which were taken out have never been returned to the county clerk's office. This means, veteran attaches say, that probably 1,500 of them never were used. The others may be on the way to the office or they may have been kept by their users or by ministers, judges, or justices of the peace who have neglected to mail them in.

No marriage is legally recorded until the original license issued at the clerk's office has been completely filled out by the marriage officer and returned. Many couples in Cook county, according to Mr. Sweitzer, are legally married but if the necessity ever arose they would be unable to prove it. Some others, he said, probably have been saving the marriage license in the belief that in itself it constituted the marriage ceremony.

Oftentimes, he said, heads of families have discovered that they had not been legally married when they have sought out their marriage records. The license which they had been preserving so carefully is only the state's permit for the wedding, they learned.

"But such cases are easily remedied," Mr. Sweitzer said. "A marriage license is good forever. All they have to do is to visit a minister or judge."

When the last 1931 marriage license was issued by Chief Clerk Sidney Summerfield on New Year's eve the record books showed that 1,332,892 had been supplied by the office since November, 1871, when the first license was issued.

But the first license, according to the clerk's files, was issued as a half number, evidently in a desire to suppress knowledge of its existence. It was issued to John G. Blain and Alice R. Miller on Nov. 28, 1871. J. G. Glindele was the county clerk who countenanced this mild deception.

The economic depression is, of course, blamed for the decline in marriage.

"People are simply afraid of what the near future holds for them," Mr. Sweitzer said. "They hesitate to take any drastic steps. Only the youngsters and the very oldsters are marrying now—those too young to be bothered by the depression or those who are able to weather it out. There is a great scarcity of the usual couples whose ages range from 25 to 35 years."

A tabulation of the wedding licenses issued during the last twenty years follows:

1913	35,061	1923	43,119
1914	33,897	1924	42,299
1915	31,509	1925	40,877
1916	34,235	1926	42,323
1917	36,935	1927	40,688
1918	28,850	1928	40,570
1919	37,583	1929	43,066
1920	42,503	1930	37,151
1921	38,190	1931	32,084

The peak year for all time in the county was 1923, although the population at present is several hundred thousand more than at that time.

Physicians to Honor Dr. Chevalier Jackson at Meeting Today

The Chicago Laryngological and Otological society will hold its annual meeting today at the LaSalle hotel. Members of the Chicago Tuberculosis society and the Chicago Tuberculosis institute, under the auspices of the Chicago Medical society will join in honoring Dr. Chevalier Jackson of Philadelphia, noted bronchoscope specialist, at the meeting.

Dr. Jackson was awarded the Bok $10,000 prize in 1926 for his invention and work with the bronchoscope, an instrument for the removal of obstructions from the bronchial tubes, lungs and stomach. Use of the instrument, it is estimated, has saved 2,000 lives.

Following a fellowship gathering and dinner at the LaSalle hotel, a program will be held in the grand ballroom. Dr. Howard Ballenger will preside. The principal speakers will be Dr. John Harger, Dr. Frank Billings, Dr. Ethan Allen Gray, Dr. Joseph C. Beck, Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the American Medical association journal, and Dr. Edward H. Cary of Dallas, Tex.

Green Pastures Concert Aids Bennett College

Bennett College for Women, Greensboro, N. C., will be the recipient of the proceeds of the concert given yesterday at the Chicago temple by Richard B. Harrison and members of "The Green Pastures" company. The concert was presented under the auspices of the patrons and trustees of the college, which was converted from a c educational school into a college for women by t'e Woman's Home Missionary society and the board of education of the Methodist Episcopal church in 1926. In 1930 the general education board of New York City made a conditional gift of $250,000 for a new science hall, and the proceeds of yesterday's performance will go toward meeting the conditions of that gift.

Women Need More Exercise, Says Circus Rider Turned Dancer

Hempstead, L. I., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Mrs. Josephine De Mott Robinson, star horsewoman of Barnum & Bailey's circus forty years ago, finds herself more in tune with the athletic younger generation of today than she did with her own contemporaries. She considers the current adolescents healthier than their parents, though lacking in grace.

Dressed in rompers and a checkered bandanna, Mrs. Robinson is still a daughter of the big top, as she conducts her dancing school here. Her home is in Queens Village, Queens, and she intends to continue her work until her muscles no longer respond to her will.

"The number of years I have lived does not matter," said Mrs. Robinson as she demonstrated her resistance to time by a cartwheel and somersault. "My early training in circus life and my devotion to regular exercise have kept me healthier and more graceful than most of the young girls who come to my gymnasium to develop poise and grace."

Since her retirement from the circus she has devoted her time to demonstrating to women the benefits of systematic exercise.

Opera Attendance Sets Record at Change in Years

The Civic Opera established an attendance record for five performances from last Thursday evening until last evening as it sped 1931 on its way and welcomed 1932. More than 17,200 persons attended the last performance of 1931 and the first four of 1932. On New Year's eve "Mignon" was presented as a farewell to the old year, and to a capacity house. On the evening of New Year's day a special performance of "The Bartered Bride" for the public schools was given, and again every seat was sold. Saturday afternoon the bill was "Cavalleria Rusticana," and the house was filled almost to capacity. On Saturday evening "Die Meistersinger" packed the two balconies and there were not many seats unsold on the main floor. Last evening another special performance was given for the schools, the bill being "Martha," and again the house was sold out. The Opera house seats 3,517.

Bay State Schools Try Talkies During This Week

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Experiments with the use of talking films in education will begin in the junior high schools of Lynn, Quincy, and Revere this week. Tests to discover the effectiveness of teaching science with the supplementary aid of films will continue over a period of six weeks.

Six of the eight films were produced by the University Film foundation and the tests were devised by the Harvard graduate school of education, working with a grant of $25,000 from the Carnegie foundation for the advancement of teaching, given "for determining the value of mechanical aids in education."

Three hundred students will be instructed with films and text books.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

Typhoid Fever Rate of Death Lowest Ever

Illness and death from typhoid fever during 1931 hit the lowest level in the history of Chicago, President Bundesen of the board of health announced yesterday. There were only 13 deaths and 97 cases of the disease during the year. The mortality rate of .37 per 100,000 population is not only the lowest in Chicago history, but probably the lowest ever attained in any large city in the world, Dr. Bundesen said.

There still are employés in the health department who were in service in 1891, when there were nearly 20,000 cases and 2,000 deaths from typhoid fever. Had the same death rate applied during the last year, the mortality in Chicago would have been 6,010.

In 1930 Chicago had 124 cases of typhoid fever and 20 deaths, a low record up to that time. The American Medical association and health authorities in general consider the typhoid fever death rate a fair measure of the general health protection of a community, Dr. Bundesen said.

Chicago also attained another new low mortality record in 1931, that for infant deaths. They were 140 less than in 1930, in spite of economic conditions which it was feared would increase the death rate.

The general death rate for the year remained at the 1930 figure, 10.41 per 1,000 population. That is a satisfactory condition in view of the depression, Dr. Bundeser. said. Generally continued periods of financial stress, he said, have been reflected by a higher death rate among infants and children, and from tuberculosis, while the death rates from degenerative diseases, such as those of the heart, kidneys and arteries, and of older age groups generally, are lowered, due to restrictions in diet.

Heart Association Starts 8th Yearly Fund Campaign

The eighth annual campaig of the Chicago Heart association opens today. Funds derived from the campaign will be used to protect growing children from heart disease and to aid chronic sufferers.

The goal this year is only $15,000, Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britton, executive director of the association, announced. It is hoped to raise this sum by the sale of valentine heart stamps. Any amount from a penny to a dollar will buy a stamp.

Dr. Robert B. Preble, president of the Heart association, said that the need for assistance is more urgent during the depression because heart disease increases among people who lack the more substantial comforts. The depression, he said, "threatens Chicago with a new generation of weaklings—victims of heart disease."

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Hoover attended the morning service at the Friends meeting house today. Their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoover Jr. left last evening with their two children, Peggy Ann and Herbert Hoover III., for California. Mr. and Mrs. Hoover Jr., spent New Year day in New York and returned here to join their two children for the return journey west.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eskridge Saltzman and Mr. Chauncey L. Belknap returned to New York this evening after spending the holidays with the secretary of commerce and Mrs. Lamont, parents of Mrs. Saltzman and Mrs. Belknap. Mrs. Belknap is remaining in Washington for a longer visit.

NEW YORK PASTOR DEFENDS BIBLE FROM MODERN REVISIONISTS

"There are those who say the Bible is antiquated literature. Let the great words of the Old and New Testament go, and see in what poor rags you can dress the world when they are gone." So said Dr. Paul Scherer, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Holy Trinity, New York, in his first address before the Chicago Sunday Evening clubs in Orchestra hall last night.

"A man doesn't put up a cross for collateral when what he says is guesswork. All through the story of Christ there is sweat on God's forehead and under the skin the rippling of muscles that ache. A hundred years ago in legal documents they signed men who couldn't write their names. A cross, then John Smith, his mark. God signed himself so once. Two beams of wood, an inscription in Hebrew, Latin and Greek, then God, his mark.

"True we are busy amending the commandments. We kill easily, that's the fifth accounted for. The sixth has been amended by psychologists, the seventh and eighth have been turned over for revision to corporation lawyers, with a request for a few footnotes on the ninth and tenth."

Daily Relaxation Is Valuable Remedy for the Thin and Anemic

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"I suggest," writes Ila H., "that you emphasize more often the period of relaxation during the day to others like myself—thin and anemic looking. It was not until I studied speech work at the university that the necessity of daily relaxation was revealed to me.

"I have noticed the recommendation in your column, since the need of it was drawn to my attention. And I hope you have found your readers receptive on that point. I have always been hypersensitive in the mornings, but about noon began to feel fagged out, at times.

"Now, I bring my lunch to the office usually, drink a half pint of cream around 11 o'clock, and from 1 to 2 daily snatch a nap. It has done marvels for my disposition in the afternoons and evenings on dates. And it has improved my health and looks most appreciably."

Thanks, Miss Ila, for the reminder! I am particularly glad to have you refer to the rest periods in connection with speech. Immediately fatigue is felt the voice registers weakness. And, as some big authority on speech culture said awhile ago, what American voices need is rest. They sound worn to the edge with constant pressure of fagged nerves.

The rest period is recommended for another thing beneficial to a woman: poise. It's catching up time. Time to get one's self together, to recover the energies that are scattered here, there, and all over the place.

For the thin and anemic, of course, rest periods during the day and a full quota of sleep at night is the best thing you can offer. The trouble with most of the type is that they are so high strung they won't lie down during the day, and it's hard work getting them to bed at night. They say they can't sleep.

It doesn't matter if they can't sleep—at first. They can just lie down and gather their wits and quiet them. That's the important phase in the introductory training. Just lie quietly, not straining to court sleep or nap. The trick is to unwind every tightened muscle and nerve by complete relaxation. Sleep will automatically follow.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

(Registered U. S. Patent Office.)

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

This good looking sports dress is given a double breasted effect through the crossing of the upper part of the bodice. It favors the light top idea, and finishes the lower edge in a scalloped outline. The bottom of the skirt yoke is similarly finished. Brown woolen with green, black with Persian red, and Spanish tile with brown are chic suggestions.

The pattern, 2526, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years and 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 2¾ yards of 39 inch material with 1 yard of 35 inch contrasting.

She Must Grace Home as Well as Night Club to Win 'Harold's' Love

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Here's an idea advanced in a communication from "Harold"! I recommend it to male eyes—and intelligence:

"Harold" says: "I'm looking for the kind of girl a man is glad to come home to . . . Not just the kind he wants to be seen out with!"

Broadly speaking, there is a difference, though a good many girls manage to fill both wants. Practical—and decorative! There's no question, however, but a number of our marriages have gone the way of Reno just because young men lacked "Harold's" intelligence. They put more store by the girl they wanted to be seen out with than by the qualities that draw men home.

Naturally, you men want to be proud of your young lady on parade. Don't we all ask that of our escort? But the trouble is that married folk don't enter on a lifetime parade. They have to stay at home, once in a while. Once in quite a few whiles, after a time. And none, it appears from countless reports made me, appear so eager to stay at home after a while than said male mate.

So, Harold's idea of choosing a girl who can decorate a home rather than a night club is an inspiration. An idea to be pondered over seriously!

The trouble with most of us humans, both sexes included, is that we map out a perfect program of domestic comfort. But we don't use our heads about the partner necessary to this ideal arrangement. We go ridiculously far afield to find said partner. Instead of the nice, comfortable, fireside sort of being, we pick one who, in no wise, conforms to the picture. Which would be all right, maybe, if we were willing to start by said choice. If we didn't try to mold it into the fireside frame. But there we are—hammering away at trying to fit the wrong girl into the right picture. Or, the wrong man, for that matter.

Anyway, Harold's suggestion offers more than the germ of an idea to you young men thinking about shopping around for a good matrimonial bargain.

Food Talk.

One of my readers wants to know what a torte is. A torte is really nothing more than a cake, but it is a rather special cake, the sort one bakes for company. It is rich, and its frosting is thick and elaborate; its top is more often than not decorated with all sorts of wreaths and rosettes from the icing tube.

Vienna is the city where the torte is found at its best. There, in the famous Sacher's or Demel's, are most sumptuous tortes topped with whipped cream, powdered with grated almonds, and filled with smooth mocha frosting.

Tortes are generally baked in layer tins and put together with a filling, then glazed and decorated in some way to make them appeal as much to the eye as to the appetite.

They come after the meal, as dessert, or, as the Viennese dearly love them, around teatime, with a glass of coffee. This Viennese coffee is served with whipped cream, and after that, plus a slice of Linzer torte, one feels that life really is worth living, after all.

Here in America many cooks are a little awed by the term torte, while as a matter of fact they have been making them right along, and calling them cake. Look through your recipes for cake and you're almost sure to find one that measures up to the qualifications for a torte.

When you serve it, though, do not make it an accompaniment for, say, ice cream. A torte is an elaborate cake, with a filling and a frosting that take time. It is also rich. For these reasons it should be allowed the dignity of appearing all alone for dessert.

DATE TORTE.

1½ cups sugar.
1 teaspoonful baking powder.
6 rolled crackers.
1 pound dates.
½ pound walnut meats.

Separate the eggs. Beat the yolks until thick and lemon colored. Add the sugar and beat well again. Mix the crackers, baking powder, dates, and nuts together. Add the yolks and sugar. Then fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Bake in a spring form slowly for one hour. Torte will shrink decidedly from the pan when done. When ready to serve, whip one pint of cream stiffly, add 1 tablespoon of powdered sugar and spread over the torte.

Rump Roast, Horseradish Sauce.

A rump roast will weigh around 3½-4 pounds. Sear and roast it in the usual way, allowing about 30 minutes per pound.

For the horseradish sauce, combine ¼ cup applesauce with ½ cup grated horseradish. Add ½ teaspoon of wet mustard, ½ teaspoon sugar and salt and pepper. Blend well. Combine ½ cup whipped cream and ¼ cup mayonnaise and mix with the first combination.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Acknowledge Your Fault.

"Dear Miss Blake: I have broken up with my boy friend. It was my fault as well as his. How can I show him that I want to patch up our friendship? ANXIOUS."

Call him up and acknowledge your share of the blame.

Small Children and Command to Hurry Don't Go Together

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"Hurry!"

How many times a day do you say it to the children? Or if not the actual word, dramatize it by your actions or demands on the children?

Hurry! Hurry, let's get on to the next thing. For children it's rather a dreadful word. In the first place, they actually can't, if they're little children, hurry. It is most times a physical impossibility. They haven't the coördination, the muscular skills, the sense of time, to speed up operations. They don't know how—and they know they don't. So, they either calmly don't try—or they show some resistance to trying, or they do try, and get upset at their failure to gain speed.

Hurry is a dreadful word for all children, but especially little ones. Besides being unable to comply, they can't get the idea. A young child lives in the present; it is the important time for him. He lives each moment fully, lost to a sense of time. "Hurry" conveys little meaning to him.

There's nothing gained by saying hurry, hurry, hurry to a child. It does neither you nor him any good. Instead of hurrying you've got to manage so there's time for you both to make the grade. Any mother who has tried to hurry a child through putting away his blocks so his dinner won't get cold, knows this. Any woman who has tried to get herself and the children dressed in too little time to catch a train, knows it.

Hurry and small children don't click.

Mrs. Vincent Astor Seeks $300,000 for Musicians

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Mrs. Vincent Astor will head a $300,000 campaign for the benefit of needy musicians, it was announced today by Walter Damrosch, general chairman of the newly organized musicians' emergency aid. The drive, which starts next week, will provide direct relief or create jobs for the 3,000 able musicians who are said to be in acute distress.

LAST YEAR'S WIFE

BY ALICE M. WILLIAMSON

Married a year and still the happiest couple in Hollywood! All the other movie stars were frankly envious of Lorne and Dick Farrow. Then they took a belated European honeymoon and the unscrupulous Duchess of Crowninshield changed the course of their marriage—and of their lives. Read this gripping story of life and love in Hollywood—

IN THE TRIBUNE EVERY DAY!

LAST YEAR'S WIFE

By ALICE M. WILLIAMSON

INSTALLMENT I.

HOLLYWOOD'S FAREWELL.

It was a wonderful party. It had to be, for Hollywood to exclaim about it! Besides, it was being given by the Grand Old Man—in other words, the head boss of the studio, and his beautiful young wife—as a sendoff for Lorne Carlton and Dick Farrow (Mr. and Mrs. Richard Farrow in private life for the last twelve months or so), a goodby party before the two sailed for Europe.

Such a party couldn't happen anywhere else. It was at Santa Monica, in a house and garden close by the sea, and they had a private moon on the terrace overhanging the beach, just in case God's moon should wear a veil that night. All the most gorgeous stars of the screen were on view, and scintillating. Not one had refused the informally written invitation "to bid farewell to Lorne and Dick," not even those who had the most pressing previous engagements. Invitations were for half past seven, so the guests began streaming in as early as half past nine, praiseworthily prompt for Hollywood. And the beauteous girls and talented males who are paid thousands for merely breathing into the "mike" entertained the other guests and themselves by doing all their best dances, songs, and imitations of each other for the fun of the thing. New York, London, and Paris could not have staged such a show for a million dollars, but at Hollywood nothing was easier. Still, every one kept on saying, over and over again, "Isn't it the loveliest party ever?"

They insisted, though the party was given for Lorne and Dick, that the two must help out with the entertaining. Lorne was ordered to sing "Sweet Alice, Ben Bolt," in the thrilling contraito which she hadn't known she possessed till the talkies arrived, and in which she had just made her big hit in the revived production of "Trilby." Dick was teased until he consented to mimic that famous New York actor, his father, Dennis Farrow, and to do his own "Scene in a Spanish Bull Ring," with himself as the bull, the toreador, and the audience. The pair were furiously applauded, and Lorne's silver tulle frock, worn for the first time, was a thing of shreds but no patches after three hundred affectionate farewells from friends who would mostly be at the station to wave handkerchiefs tomorrow.

It was four o'clock when Lorne and Dick tore themselves away "because they had so much to do at home before getting off," and they left the party in full swing, warranted not to break up until a six o'clock breakfast on the top of supper. O, well, a Lorne Carlton and a Dick Farrow don't sail for a belated European honeymoon every day of the year, even at Hollywood!

Dick was driving his own car, a new imported sports model which he and Lorne preferred to the most luxurious limousine. They both loved the soft, salt breeze in their faces, and now that the party was over Lorne did not mind what that same breeze might do to her hair. She sat sunk down very low, her shoulder against Dick, and he, a "one armed driver," enlacing her waist.

They said to each other how nice it was that they had managed to get away early, only four o'clock! And how wonderful it had all been, and how ki- .. every one was. Then they were silent for a few miles, until Dick asked:

"Tired, darling?"

"That's the last thing I'd be. I'm just thinking, that's all," answered Lorne. "Thinking about a million things."

"What about the well known penny?" inquired Dick. "You know, you'll have to get used to calculating in pennies and pounds when we get to England, so you might as well begin now. Are your million thoughts worth a big, round, British penny?"

"They are worth all the pennies in England and francs in France," said Lorne, "because most of them were about you. O, Dick, I was proud of you tonight! I never saw any one make such a hit as you did, doing your father, and the bull ring, and Noel Coward, and Beatrice Lillie. I was so proud I almost burst. Every living soul, man and woman, was crazy about you."

"So they were about you, only more so," Dick shot back. "You looked an absolute dream there in the two moonlights on the terrace, in your silver cloud dress, with all those dangly crystal effects. Ethereal! That's the word! I bet you were darned glad it was too cool for any one to care about swimming tonight. You'd have grudged getting out of that swell frock into a one-piece."

"Well, I would have," Lorne laughed, "but the way I've been mauled and manhandled there isn't much more left of this than a one-piece now, and, O, dear, it cost such a lot! I wish I'd worn something old and we'd bought that heavenly Sheraton card table we saw at Bentley's."

"I don't," said Dick. "I wouldn't have let Lorne Carlton show herself at that party in something that had been seen before—no, not for any money! You owed it to yourself and me to be the best dressed girl there, just as you're the best looking whatever you have on."

"Thank you, angel. But do you really think I'm as good looking as all that?" Lorne's voice sounded so anxious that Dick laughed.

"Think? I know," he vowed. "And can't we afford a few frocks for your friends to ten, and a Sheraton table for our house, too, if we want to? The answer is in the affirmative. But, say, honestly, darling, I feel we've been wise to let up on buying Hollywood and Los Angeles antiques. For what we know we may get a new slant on life over on the other side and want everything different from what we have now."

"O!" Lorne gave a sharp little cry. "Don't say that!"

"Why not," Dick argued, in a matter of fact way. "We're a bit provincial, you and I. Our whole point of view may change once we're over there."

Lorne couldn't discuss the subject. She felt suddenly very cold. Silly of her, of course, but there it was! The soft, scented breeze had become for her a biting wind. She shivered, and Dick felt the slight shuddering of her firm flesh against his arm.

"What's the matter, sweet?" he asked.

"Nothing. Nothing at all," the girl said. "Just a mouse running over my grave. You know the feeling."

"I don't," said Dick. "Haven't got a grave. Neither have you. Was the poor baby upset because its taste in antiques was—not criticized—heavens, no! But questioned?"

"Silly!" laughed Lorne. But she was not laughing inside. "I expect you're right about our changing lots of our ideas—over there, especially right about yourself. I think you like changes better than I do."

"That from a girl who changes her dresses three times a day when she's not in the studio, and calls a hat old when she's had it a week!" Dick defended himself by implication. "Now, as to my being changeable, that's not so hot——."

"I didn't say you were changeable," Lorne cut him short, "you're the loyalest thing, particularly to some of your old neckties that I simply can't stand. And talking of neckties reminds me of packing. There's a heap to do yet. Only think, it's today we go! Not tomorrow—today! How—sort of irrevocable shutting up the house will seem! Will it be alive and waiting to welcome us when we come back—the dear, precious house?"

"Alive and kicking," Dick cheered her up. "We'll bring it presents."

"If we bring it back ourselves, just as we are now, I think the house will be satisfied," said Lorne.

Dick's talk had struck a small sore spot in her heart, a spot that had been hurt once or twice before in the same inadvertent way. Or, no, of course, the spot wasn't sore, only stupidly sensitive. "This is to be a woman!" the girl snapped at herself.

"Everything different over there . . ." "Everything different from what we have . . ." "A new slant on life . . ." "Our whole point of view may change . . ." It was himself Dick was speaking for . . . What perfectly ghastly thoughts came into your head!

Could it be that, after this one divine year together, divine for her in all its moments, Dick was growing tired—bored with this marriage stuff? No. Lorne knew well that he wasn't. Any woman would know about her own man. Love would tell. Dick couldn't look at her as he did, with that hot, devouring look of a lover in his deep set eyes. He couldn't hold her tight, suddenly and crushingly tight, as he so often seized and held her, if he were the least bit tired of being married, or if he even felt married.

Society Less Busy at Start of New Year

THE new 1932 engagement pads are not so filled with entries as the old 1931 ones were for the last few weeks of the year, and every one is breathing a sigh of relief that the holidays are over, for no matter what a grand time one had during those hectic days, they were hectic and tiring, and every one is glad to catch up on sleep and rest a bit. The young people are starting back to school and their older sisters and mothers—in most cases older brothers and fathers have to stick close to business these days—are beginning to plan to get away, south, west, or abroad. The only large social affair on today's calendar is the Arts club reception at which Mrs. Potter Palmer and Mrs. Joseph Adams will receive. The tea, from 4 to 7, opens exhibitions of paintings by Pablo Picasso and Charles Dufresne.

Janet Fairbank Going Abroad; Others Prefer Arizona Now.

Miss Janet Fairbank is one of the young women who is leaving, but not to rest, for she is going back to Germany to continue her musical studies. She and her mother, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, leave today for New York, and Miss Fairbank will sail at midnight tomorrow. The Joseph T. Bowens of Lake Forest will depart the middle of this week for their ranch at Castle Hot Springs in Arizona, to spend the balance of the winter there. Mrs. Seymour Wheeler, also of Lake Forest, already is at Castle Hot Springs, having gone there last week. She will be joined later by her daughters, Eleanor, a debutante of this season, and Christabel, who came out two years ago. Castle Hot Springs is one of the most popular winter resorts in the southwest, especially with Chicagoans, and we often have wondered if the extreme inaccessibility of the place helps its popularity. Twenty miles of almost unbelievably bad road must be traversed in order to reach it, whether one goes by train or motor, but the carefree life, the gorgeous climate, and the beauty of the desert and mountains after one gets there more than repay you for the hard trip.

A recent letter from our Arizona correspondent brings news of some of the Chicagoans who already are wintering there or who will be there later. The Phoenix Association of Northwestern university gave a dinner at the Phoenix Country club recently for President and Mrs. Walter Dill Scott and Dean Gilmore, who spent the holidays at the San Marcos hotel at Chandler, another resort that is a favorite with Chicagoans. Chandler is only about twenty miles from Phoenix and it is especially popular with some of the older people, for whom a good golf course is the main attraction at any resort.

Our correspondent also tells us of the charming tea dance given Saturday at the Westward Ho hotel in Phoenix by Mrs. Robert Bartlett of Lake Forest, who, with her daughter, Beverly, is spending the winter at the Biltmore, just out of Phoenix. The party was for another daughter, Audrey, who joined her family for the holidays from the Bishop school at La Jolla, Cal. Mr. Bartlett and their son, Robert, went on from Chicago for the holidays, also. The William Wrigleys, who will be in their house on the Biltmore estates for the rest of the winter, entertained quite a large house party for Christmas and New Year's, among their guests being their son, Philip, and his wife and children, who are returning to Chicago early this week.

Jarvis Hunt Phoenix Home Scene of Many House Parties.

Jarvis Hunt, who has one of the loveliest of the many new houses in Arcadia, the most fashionable of Phoenix's suburbs, has house guests almost constantly. Mr. Hunt's sister, Mrs. William E. Patterson of Bar Harbor, Me., will join her brother shortly to spend the rest of the winter with him. Mrs. William F. Burrows and Miss Louisa Burrows of Lake Forest, and Mr. and Mrs. John C. Pitcher [Marjorie Burrows] of 220 East Walton place, are occupying the Delos H. Cooke bungalow in Arcadia for the winter. The Cooke grounds are among the loveliest in Arcadia and the cactus garden is famous in that part of the country where cactus gardens abound.

The Burridge D. Butlers of Hinsdale have opened their winter place in Arcadia, and so have the Walter H. Baldwins of Highland Park, who recently returned from a trip to Germany. Mr. and Mrs. Horace Newhall of Winnetka also are at their Arcadia residence for the winter months, and Mrs. George G. Floyd of Riverside opened her Arcadia place Dec. 1. Among the Chicagoans recently at the Biltmore were Mr. and Mrs. Silas H. Strawn, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Hopkins and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Alling.

Jane Vaughan Is Engaged to Eugene Mears Lennon.

Mrs. A. R. Vaughan of 3100 Sheridan road announces the engagement of her daughter, Jane, to Eugene Mears Lennon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Lennon of Joliet. Miss Vaughan is a graduate of the Convent of the Sacred Heart in Lake Forest and of the University of Chicago. She is a niece of Mrs. Edward A. Cudahy and a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James M. Reddy, long identified with the social and civic life of Chicago. Her fiancé is a graduate of Northwestern and for three generations his family has played an important part in the development of Joliet.

Miss Lura Schreiner left Saturday to spend a month in Virginia with her uncle and aunt, the John Jacob Schreiners, formerly of Chicago.

The Edward M. Samuels of Lake Forest have moved from 797 Sheridan road to 13 College circle.

Mrs. Robert H. McElwee of Lake Forest has left to spend the rest of the winter in Pasadena.

Morris Wolf Amazes with His Ability as Pianist in Concert

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Morris Wolf, a young Chicago pianist of whom it is merely conservative to say that probably quite a bit will be heard from him in the future, appeared in a recital at the Playhouse yesterday afternoon. His years are reported to be 12; his talent would be an astonishing one in a person who could claim quite a number more.

It is not only that he has developed an uncommonly dexterous and accurate pair of hands, though he began his program with the Chopin Sonata in B flat minor, closed it with the Liszt Tarantella, and played half a dozen Chopin Etudes, the same composer's Polonaise in F sharp minor, and other works by Scarlatti, Scriabine, Ravel, and Pick-Mangiagalli in between. It is that with a technic that makes piano playing sound easy, he is also in the possession of a pronounced sense of beauty, one so marked that his occasional erraticisms of rhythm may be for the present regarded as errors that he will some day outgrow. For his talent is an entirely definite one.

Another Chicagoan, Frida Savini, soprano, appeared next door at the Studebaker during the same period of the afternoon. Miss Savini has recently returned after not only study but a series of operatic and concert appearances in Europe. Her program was well selected, being comparatively unfamiliar and positively agreeable, and she displayed a good voice with which to sing it, being even, of excellent quality, and well controlled. She is easy in the four customary languages of song recital, Italian, German, French, and English, pronouncing well and creating her musical effects deftly and certainly.

Over on the other side of the loop at the Civic theater, Erika Thimey presented a program of dance numbers according to the principles of Mary Wigman, of whose art Miss Thimey is an exponent. The Wigman theory, as nearly as can be understood, is that the dance should be an abstraction, finding its own statement in itself and not in either its pictorial or story telling values. As it works out, it would seem to be mainly a series of technical details of the dance, put together with no particular logic or development, all of which is said, not in reproach but in a desire at explanation.

Miss Thimey is excellent in her muscular control and executes both figures and poses expertly. One is inclined to wish, however, that pictorial logic in one respect had more influence. For while bare feet are quite in keeping with dance abstractions or fantastic episodes, they are less so in representations of more or less real life. One needs only to compare the exoticisms of the two Scriabin pieces with Levitan's "Cradle Song" yesterday to get the contrast.

Paris Creates Many Chic New Accessories

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—In the wan last months of winter fashions Paris is bringing out new and exciting accessories to make your old clothes seem fresh. Schiaparelli, who has a genius for scarfs, and who made the famous necklace scarf of last spring, has created a new one that is going to add more pages to fashion history. It is the pigtail scarf shown in the sketch today. This scarf is made of crêpe satin in three colors and is simple as a-b-c, but has the grand chic for all of that.

The two long bands of twelve-inch wide crêpe satin are all that is required to make a scarf like this. One band is made half of one shade and half of another, while the other band is made of one shade. These bands are sewed together at the back of the neck, brought around the shoulders and braided down the front, as shown. They can also be worn unbraided. The scarf shown is in dark red, pale pink and ivory white satin.

The evening gloves at the top of our sketch are a second Schiaparelli accessory. They are made of real gold thread, knotted into filet net, and have a braided band of gold at the top. These gloves make the hands look exquisitely white.

At the bottom of our sketch are shown Perugia's new all-jeweled evening sandals. They are made of rhinestones, which cover the heels, border the soles and make the thongs that go between the big and second toe and circle the ankles. New chiffon hose with toes made exactly like the fingers in a glove make it possible to wear these slippers with stockings.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. D. G. McCurdy of 947 Ridge court, Evanston, announces the engagement of his daughter, Lucy, to John Waite Cogswell, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Cogswell of Winnetka. Miss McCurdy attended Northwestern university and is a member of Delta Gamma. Mr. Cogswell is a Dartmouth graduate and a member of Zeta Psi. He is connected with the New York Telephone company in Brooklyn, N. Y. The wedding will take place next fall.

Mrs. Charles A. Peacock of 1443 Birchwood avenue announces the engagement of her daughter, Mary Margaret, to Sylvester A. Lyman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas T. Lyman of 1021 Greenwood boulevard, Evanston. Miss Peacock is a graduate of Northwestern and is a member of Chi Omega sorority. Mr. Lyman, also a Northwestern graduate, is a member of Beta Gamma Sigma.

Gen. and Mrs. Frank Stoddard Dickson of 7737 North Marshfield avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Scott, to Neil Edwin Lambur, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Lambur.

Annual Reception for Tribune Employes Draws Over 2,000

Merrymaking resounded throughout Tribune Tower yesterday. Before the mighty presses began pounding away, rolling out today's issue of THE TRIBUNE, more than 2,400 employés gathered to wish every one else a happy new year and to greet old friends at the annual reception given by this newspaper for its workers.

Fir and balsam and pine trees filled the corners of the lobby and potted plants and palms gave it a holiday air. Here the visitors, who streamed in from 2 to 4:30, were greeted by Col. R. R. McCormick, publisher, and Mrs. McCormick, E. S. Beck, managing editor, and Mrs. Beck, W. E. Mcfarlane, business manager, and Mrs. Mcfarlane.

The guests were directed by ushers through the lobby to the mailing room, which had been decorated with bows of greenery. Upon entering, roses were distributed to the women, and cigars to the men. Then the visitors were conducted to the long tables, where sandwiches, coffee, cake and ice cream were served.

On the second floor the circulation department had been converted into a ballroom in holiday decorations, and here the guests made merry all afternoon to the music of two orchestras led by Tweet Hogan and Jack Roberts.

Elsewhere in the Tower smaller receptions were held by department officials in various departments.

At twilight the last of the printers and pressmen, cartoonists, the men who write the ads and the men who write the news, the men who drive the trucks and all the rest who had mingled in the jollity of the annual party were gone, and industry ruled again. Typewriters got busy, so did presses and the very mailing rooms where the party had held sway, and today's TRIBUNE was in the formation.

Polish Film Actress Now Faces Return to Old Home

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Janina Smolinska, Polish film actress, must return to her native land by Jan. 6 or face deportation, immigration authorities said today.

Only intervention of the secretary of labor, to whom her attorney said he would appeal, will stay action on the deportation order, authorities said.

The Bride's Boat

By Coralie Stanton and Heath Hosken

INSTALLMENT XLIII.

THE ANSWER TO EVERYTHING.

In the morning Theo was gone. He had evidently gone straight from Kit's room, packing his things, left the money for his bill in the office, and walked off to the station to wait for the 2:30 a. m. train to Nairobi. He left a letter for Kit.

"Dear Kit: I was too much of a coward to tell you. Not that I'm worth a thought, but you are so kind. Kit, I wouldn't be any good in married life. I want you to let me off. It's been growing on me. I should be a nuisance and worry the life out of you. I'm made for the wilds. Civilization would make a criminal of me. The wilds are my only chance of going straight. I'm no hand at writing, as you know, but you'll understand. You understand everything.

"I don't like to ask you to still be my friend, but I have an idea you will. I'll let you hear from me, if you care to. I shall stay with these people until they boot me.

"Yours in everlasting gratitude,

THEO.

P. S. I told Crowhurst last night that you'd given me the sack. Stick to that, and make me more grateful still."

. . . . . .

The third day after Kit read Theo's letter was Sunday. She had said nothing. She was too confused. She just told Capt. Blair that Theo had gone on to Nairobi to get the stores.

On the Sunday she had a note from Mrs. Dunbar, asking her to go to tea. When she arrived, wondering what she could say to her kind friend, she was shown into Mrs. Dunbar's sanctum, a peaceful, little room, overlooking the gardens.

Crowhurst was its only occupant.

"Mrs. Dunbar had to go with the D. C. to visit the native hospital," he said. "She won't be long." He came to her side and took her hands. "That's not altogether true! I knew she was going and asked her if I could see you alone. Haven't we got something to say to each other?"

She trembled, as her eyes met his.

"Theo told you what wasn't true. I didn't—"

"I knew it. I didn't believe for a moment that you had given him up. He has neaps of good in him. I knew that, too. And he is right. Kit, my beloved, he is right!"

"I don't know—I can't think."

"Do you love me? Don't think about your loyalty, your wonderful helpfulness, your divine pity! You wanted to make everything right for him. But if you love me, then he was right!"

"O!" The tremendous moment found her off her guard. She looked at him helplessly and he caught her in his arms.

"You love me! You—most wonderful in all the world—you love me!"

There was no need to answer. Everything answered for her, the sob in her throat, the pallor of her face, the soul that looked out of her eyes.

She felt in that embrace, wild as a tempest, and gentle as a summer dawn, that, indeed, she died and was born again.

This was the answer to everything.

When he released her, it was the man who was trembling.

"You love me—like that!" He gave a little laugh, low and broken, infinitely triumphant and infinitely humble. "How can I believe it? You love me! O, what can I do? You make me afraid."

The shadow of a shadow was in his eyes. But it was a new, a strengthening and cleansing fear.

Kit knew with that understanding of hers that had so often come in flashes. Now she knew it as a whole. And she put out her arms to him, the strong man of many fears, and drew his head to her breast.

"My dear, my dear," she whispered, "you will never be afraid—I will never let you be afraid—with me."

BLACKHAWKS AND RANGERS BATTLE TO 1-1 TIE

BIG TEN TEAMS LAUNCH TITLE RACE TONIGHT

Northwestern Faces Wisconsin.

Games Tonight

Wisconsin at Northwestern.
Ohio State at Illinois.
Indiana at Purdue.
Iowa at Drake.
Chicago at Marquette.
Centenary at Loyola.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Six Western conference basketball teams tonight begin their search for the 1932 championship. Among the six is Northwestern, last year's title holder, which will meet Wisconsin at Patten gymnasium.

Purdue, which tied for second place last year, far behind the Wildcats, entertains the Indiana five at Lafayette. Ohio State will meet Illinois at Champaign in the other Big Ten game.

Three of the other four conference universities have practice games tonight. Iowa plays in the Drake fieldhouse, South Dakota faces Minnesota at Minneapolis, and Chicago travels to Milwaukee to play Marquette. Michigan, which played Syracuse at Syracuse Saturday night, losing 33 to 30, is not scheduled.

All Ten Play Saturday.

All ten of the conference teams swing into title play next Saturday night, and by that time a favorite probably will be established. For instance, if Northwestern defeats Wisconsin tonight and then can get by Indiana next Saturday night, the Wildcats probably will be headed for a place near the top of the final standings.

Northwestern has won four practice games and lost two, both to Notre Dame. Wisconsin has won three preliminary games and lost one, to Marquette. The Wildcats should, with their superior height, whip the Badgers. The consensus is, however, that Northwestern is not as effective a team as a year ago.

In reality, Northwestern has only two regulars from the 1931 championship five. Riel and Marshall were graduated, and an ankle injury has kept Capt. McCarnes out of the preliminary games most of the time. The loss of McCarnes and Bob Lockhart's inability to regain the form he displayed in 1930, following last year's injury, may be the difference between victory and defeat several times this season.

Notre Dame Improved.

But the only basis for assertion of Northwestern's decline is double defeat by Notre Dame. As a matter of fact, Notre Dame this season is a much improved team over a year ago and even last year Northwestern had a difficult time to win the second game of the series, 20 to 17, where this year Northwestern lost, 22 to 21.

The important factor is Northwestern's schedule, which undoubtedly is harder this year than in 1931. Concerning personnel, Saul Farber and Elmer Johnson have played excellently. Were McCarnes to equal expectations, or if one of the substitutes comes through, Northwestern could place a top notch five on the floor. Team strength always will be lacking when this starting five is broken up.

Wisconsin has organized a capable five which is bolstered with likely substitutes. Tonight the Badgers will start Rewey, a sophomore, and Capt. Steen at forwards, Oakes at center and Nelson and Poser at guards. The quintet is fast, and while the shooting from far out is mediocre, speed carries the attack under the goal for short attempts.

Purdue Choice to Win.

The Boilermakers do not anticipate trouble in defeating Indiana. Purdue has a veteran first team and boasts of reserve material such as no other Big Ten school has. Johnny Wooden and Harry Kellar, co-captains, are the mainstays of the offense. Charlie Stewart, center; Ray Eddy, forward, and Ralph Parmenter, back guard, complete the first five. Purdue is undefeated this year, while Indiana has lost to Pittsburgh and De Pauw.

Just what will happen at Illinois tonight no one knows. Ohio State apparently has a better five than a year ago. But Illinois holds the key to the result of tonight's game. If the Illini begin this conference campaign as they finished 1931, when they won seven consecutive games, including a victory over Northwestern, the odds are that Illinois will whip Ohio. But if Illinois does not hit its stride, it's any one's ball game.

Loyola Plays Centenary.

Loyola plays its fourth intersectional game of the season tonight when it meets Centenary college of Shreveport, La., at the Loyola gym.

Tonight's game will be Loyola's last at home until Jan. 23. The Ramblers leave Chicago Friday morning for a four day trip to play Western State teachers of Kalamazoo, Mich.; John Carroll university of Cleveland, O., and the City College of Detroit, Mich.

Centenary will start an all-veteran team. It is practically the same team which took a 24 to 19 defeat here last year.

Northwestern-Wisconsin lineup:

NORTHWESTERN.		WISCONSIN.
Reiff	L. F.	Rewey
Johnson	R. F.	Steen (C.)
McCarnes (C.)	C.	Oakes
Smith	L. G.	Nelson
Farber	R. G.	Poser

Referee—Nick Kearns [DePaul]. Umpire—Austin Malony [Notre Dame].

ARMOUR SHOOTS RECORD 285 TO WIN MIAMI OPEN

Detroit Star Collects an $800 Prize.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Tommy Armour of Detroit, British open champion, held his first eighteen hole advantage through the Miami open golf tournament to win the season inaugural today with a 285. His score was low for any Miami open since the tournament started and was 9 strokes better than his nearest competitor, John Kinder, Caldwell, N. J.

Tommy set a course record over Miami Springs links with a 68 the first day, counted a 71 for the second eighteen holes, and coasted through to victory today with rounds of 75 and 71 for the last half of the seventy-two hole event.

Winner Collects $800.

He won $800 first money and $25 for low score for the first eighteen holes.

Mike Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., was third with 295, one stroke behind Kinder, while Willie MacFarlane, Tuckahoe, N. Y., Joe Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., and Ed Williams, Cleveland, tied in next place with 297s. Joe Turnesa was defending champion. The money table:

Tommy Armour, Detroit	68 71 75 71—285	$800
John Kinder, Caldwell, N. J.	76 71 74 73—294	500
Mike Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y.	78 73 71 73—295	300
Willie MacFarlane, Tuckahoe, N. Y.	76 73 75 73—297	75
Joe Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y.	74 75 75 73—297	75
Ed Williams, Cleveland	75 72 77 73—297	75
Willie Klein, East Williston, L. I.	75 74 78 72—299	50
Bill Mehlhorn, New York	73 73 76 77—299	50
Al Nelson, Yardsley, Pa.	79 74 74 73—300	25
Jock Hutchison, Chicago	76 74 73 77—300	25
Henri Ciuci, Mill River, Conn.	71 76 76 77—300	25
J. Watson, South Bend, Ind.	75 74 78 74—301	12.50
Ralph Kingsrud, Fargo, N. D.	73 77 73 78—301	12.50

Other Low Score Winners.

Others to take $25 prizes for low 18 hole scores besides Armour were Sol Di Buono, New Rochelle, N. Y., with a 70 for the second round; Mike Turnesa, with a 71 for the third, and Roy Horan, Orlando, Fla., with a 69 for the fourth.

TIE AT SANTA MONICA

Santa Monica, Cal., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Two best ball scores, 65, took an early lead in the second qualifying round of the Santa Monica amateur-professional golf tournament here today, in the face of a stiff wind.

Laddie Hellman, Los Angeles amateur, and Ed Gayer, Los Angeles professional, shot 34—31, six under par.

Early Derryhill, Oklahoma amateur, and Ky Lasson, Long Beach professional, were the other leading team, with similar cards for the nine holes. Other scores:

D. Nittinger, Culver City, and John Jack, Keene, N. H., 35—33—68.
C. M. Kellogg, San Gabriel, Cal., and Frank Rodia, Seattle, 34—35—69.
V. Arganbright, Santa Monica, and Ben Hogan, Fort Worth, Tex., 35—34—69.

Thirty-two low teams and ties, coupled with the 32 best cards of yesterday, qualify for the final round tomorrow.

PERRY DEFEATS BOROTRA TO WIN FRENCH NET TITLE

PARIS, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Frederick J. Perry, British tennis ace, swept aside the veteran Frenchman, Jean Borotra, to win the single finals in the annual Christmas cup finals at the Sporting Club De Paris today. The scores were 3-6, 7-5, 6-1, 6-3.

Perry teamed up with Christian Boussus of France yesterday to win the doubles final from Marcel Bernard and Paul Feret of France, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3.

His victory over Borotra in singles further emphasized the decline in the French veteran's game. Borotra, virtually unbeatable indoors in the past, has had a virtual strangle hold on the Christmas cup singles trophy for some years. He defeated Big Bill Tilden for the title in 1930.

Tales of Tattersall's

[This is the first of a series of articles about old time fights and fighters at the historic Tattersall's on South Dearborn street.]

BY FRENCH LANE.

Stray planks from the walls and roof of notorious Tattersall's, once the battleground for world famous boxing warriors, still stand in the 1600 block on South Dearborn street.

But no longer is this Chicago landmark the gathering place for sports, rips, and roues as it was 30 odd years ago. For the Tattersall's, which once flourished and became so widely known, is now just a weather beaten skeleton, the uncovered home of a junk pile—the desolate graveyard of things that used to be.

These surviving planks, no doubt, hug closely to their unsightly, unpainted sides the memories of the brawls, the thrills, the fakes, and the jovial times which happened there in those days so long ago.

Few Recall Junk Heap's Glory in Olden Days.

Only a few of the men about town who remember when Fitzsimmons, McCoy, Sharkey, Ryan, Dixon, McGovern, Griffo, Root, Yanger, Forbes, Gans, and others marched by in review, give the junk heap more than a fleeting glance today. Maybe in passing they will remark to the oldest son:

"Well, isn't that a hell of a monument to old Tattersall?"

However, lights still blink out at the ghost of Tattersall's from the old fashioned City hotel on State street. It is less than a stone's throw from where the ring once stood, on whose canvas covered floor the mighty men of fisticuffs once battled. This ancient inn is the only building in the neighborhood to share in the memories of Tattersall's.

There, three decades ago, in its dingy lobby and in its taproom gathered the cattlemen from the central states and from the western plains, their bank rolls bulging, to await the fights. They were the forerunners of the big army of happy-go-lucky, out-to-see-the-town fellows who later on came to be known as "butter and egg" men.

Its Old Friends Won't Speak Ill of Departed.

Maybe the conglomerate deposit of litter which has replaced Tattersall's is a fitting tombstone for it, for on occasions there were strange events at Tattersall's that shocked the sport world and eventually caused the extermination of boxing in Chicago and in many other parts of the country.

Strange to say the true sportsmen of that period, their memories still keen despite an ache or a limp here an there, when approached as to their recollections of the old arena, assume the attitude of refraining from speaking ill of the departed.

Our own Ed Sheridan, at that time sports editor of THE TRIBUNE and still in the midst of activities in the editorial rooms, remembers vividly of sending his boxing expert, the widely known George Siler, there to report and referee most of the fights, but is politely reticent as to the leading lights among the Tattersall's boxing promoters.

Jim McAndrews, ex-congressman and building commissioner under Mayor Harrison when Tattersall's was thriving, is another whose memory functions poorly when asked to recall the names of those who patterned the policies of Tattersall's.

Lou Houseman Promoter of Ryan-McCoy Match.

"The crowds were frequently so large that I had to ask for a few hundred extra policemen to maintain order and to prevent possible riots or panics," he said. "I am not positive as to the identity of the man who was at the helm, but I think he was a race horse fellow from down in Gary."

A search through the dusty pages of the history of boxing in Chicago reveals that the late Lou Houseman, then sports editor of the Inter Ocean, was the moving spirit of Tattersall's which stood in a wild and woolly part of Chicago on the fringe of the levee.

His out in the open backer was Harry Franks. The silent backers were Social Smith and Harry Parry, Chicago gamblers who owned a string of race tracks. The story of Tattersall's reveals that Mr. Houseman frequently submitted expense accounts for match making which startled his partners.

Anyway, it was Houseman who

CATHOLIC FIVES OF INDIANA OUT OF LOYOLA MEET

Jasper Only Exception to New State Rule.

Officials of the Indiana Catholic High School Athletic association last night announced no member school, with the exception of Jasper academy, Jasper, Ind., will be permitted to compete in the national Catholic interscholastic basketball tournament at Loyola university in March.

This ruling follows the fight waged by various high school associations to curtail the heavy schedules played annually. The Indiana Catholic group recently limited the schools in its association to eighteen games a season. Public schools in Indiana play twenty game schedules.

Eliminates Star Teams.

The action by the Indiana Catholic association, which has 13 members, rules out of the Loyola tournament several schools which have competed heretofore. Among the teams which annually have played for the national title are Central Catholic, Fort Wayne, Ind.; St. Simon's, Washington, Ind., and Cathedral, Indianapolis.

Jasper, one of the strongest quintets in the United States, which lost to De La Salle, Minneapolis, Minn., in the finals of the national tournament last year, was given permission to compete in the Loyola meet, but no reason for the exception was announced.

Hold State Meet Feb. 26-27.

The officials of the Hoosier association also announced that the annual Indiana state Catholic tournament, won by St. Simon's of Washington last year, will be held at Indianapolis on Feb. 26 and 27.

KEARNS REFUSES TO SIGN WALKER TO GARDEN PACT

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—A demand that Jack Kearns sign Mickey Walker to a contract obligating Walker to defend the crown for Madison Square Garden exclusively if he wins it from Max Schmeling in their proposed Miami bout on Feb. 25 or 26 came today as a barrier to a quick signing of the proposed Florida fight.

While it is expected Kearns will capitulate, he nevertheless was insistent today that he would hold aloof from future obligations by contract. Jimmy Johnston, boxing director at the Garden, was equally insistent that Kearns must sign the contract or forfeit his chances of getting the crack at the title.

Kearns is to see Johnston tomorrow and it is expected the barrier will be safely hurdled and that the signing will be solemnized Wednesday.

BUTTON, BUTTON, WHO'S GOT THE BUTTON?

Silver Skates Beat Weather 15 Years to 0

For fifteen years the Silver Skates Derbies sponsored by THE TRIBUNE have been held without postponement. That record probably will be maintained this season when the starter calls the first heat in the preliminary races in the 16th derbies. While Chicago has experienced its mildest weather this season, there is little doubt there will be ice and plenty of it by Jan. 23.

Last year 4,829 boys and girls entered the Silver Skates races. These derbies not only are the oldest sports promotion sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, but they also are the largest.

Seven Age Classifications.

The appeal of Silker Skates is universal. Seven age classifications provide for all to compete if they desire. These age classifications are:

Men's senior—18 years old and over.
Boys' intermediate—16 to 17 years of age.
Boys' junior—14 to 15 years.
Boys' juvenile—12 to 13 years.
Boys' midget—Under 12 years.
Girls' senior—16 years and over.
Girls' junior—Under 16 years.

Preliminary races in those classes are necessary because of numbers entered will be held at Garfield park Saturday, Jan. 23. The other preliminary and semi-final races, as well as the seven championship races, will be staged Sunday afternoon, Jan. 24, at the same park.

Entries Close Jan. 17.

Entries will be accepted until midnight Jan. 17. Because of the large number of contestants, no entries can be received after that date. Of course, post entries are prohibited.

The Silver Skates derbies are sanctioned by the Illinois Western Skating association. All contestants 16 years of age and over must be registered with the association. Registration can be made with Harry Berz, 3714 Polk street, or at the park on the day of the meet. Those under 16 years old do not need to register.

Individual entry may be made on the blank which is printed daily in THE TRIBUNE. Team entries may be made by the captain, coach, or authorized officials and may be grouped. However, it is important that the age classification be specified. Send all entries to Wilfrid Smith, sports department, Chicago Tribune.

Allen and Camp Score Victories in N. Y. Cue Meet

New York, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Benny Allen of Kansas City and Marcel Camp of Detroit were victors in the New York state pocket billiard championship today. Allen defeated Joseph Proscita of Gloversville, N. Y., 125 to 23, in 12 innings, and Camp disposed of George Kelly of Philadelphia, 125 to 61, in 13 innings.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Those wonderful Rangers from New York must be pretty happy about the 1 to 1 overtime tie with which they emerged from a great hockey contest with the Blackhawks at the Chicago Stadium last night.

Mind you, these same Rangers have been making a monkey out of the National league, what with no defeats in their last ten games and only two setbacks all year. It takes an inspired team to cope with such gluttonous fellows, and the Hawks were just that last night.

It Was Just Grand.

It was a remarkable game which, of course, delighted the 13,000 customers who turned out to see what currently is being called a sort of miracle team. Only six penalties were called in the four periods—five against the Rangers, and three of the five against Ching Johnson.

The Rangers were the first to score—Butch Keeling did it on a pass from Johnson in 8:20 of the second period.

The count was tied up in 5:25 of the third period in a complex maneuver which evoked the loudest applause constant bugs have heard at a Chicago hockey game in lo these many nights. Johnny Gottselig, who, incidentally, played like a devil man all evening, took the puck down, passed it to Couture, who passed it back to Johnny. Johnny kept it moving with an adroit pass to Ripley and Vic slammed it where it counted.

Mr. Roach Was Superb.

The Hawks, as they reflected the evening's doings, did not look upon a tie with the rampant Rangers as one of those moral victories. They had every right to consider it a tough break.

The fact that Goalie Roach made 43 stops to 28 by Goalie Gardiner tells something of the way the Hawks carried the works to the enemy. But, boy, while you're passing the bouquet to the Hawks, please break off a few blossoms for that Mr. Roach. Did that fellow tend goal? We're asking you!

No more terrific hockey ever was witnessed in Chicago than the scoreless first period, with the stuff getting hotter as each minute passed.

The Blackhawks perhaps outskated the visitors, but it remained for the league leaders to put on the real scares—three of 'em, all in the last five minutes of the opening period.

Goalie Roach was obliged to make 16 stops to half as many by Goalie Gardiner, but those three last ones by Chuck were something to sing about.

Chuck Picks Up.

The first big shock was when Dillon busted through right to Chuck's toes, but somehow the rubber didn't go in the cage. Before calm could be restored F. Boucher and Bill Cook got through and they two pounded Chuck's skate points with their sticks. Again the puck stayed out of captivity.

The last of the three big scares was when Somers raced back of the Hawk cage but failed in what seemed a sure score producer—one of those semi-circular swishes that so frequently succeed.

The Hawks fought just as valiantly throughout the second heat as they did in the first—BUT—

Well it seems that this famous fellow named Ching Johnson took the puck in his own defensive zone and skated like everything down the left strip until he had crossed the Hawks' blue line. Then he checked his rush long enough for Keeling to skate in front of the net. A nice pass. Zowie! The Hawks were trailing 1 to 0.

Hawks' Attack Fails

Immediately after the aforementioned depressing event, March, Adams and Cook put on a courageous foray. However, Mr. Roach was ready for 'em. Ripley was the next to threaten a tie. He got through the Ranger defense, but he juggled the puck just as he was about to do great things.

The Blackhawks opened up the third period with an attack which carried the puck to the New York goal where March passed to Cook, whose shot

ST. GEORGE HIGH HEAVIES DEFEAT LOYOLA, 38-22

Lights Give Academy an Even Break, 16-14.

St. George High school and Loyola academy basketball teams divided a pair of games last night in the north section of the Chicago Catholic High School League at Evanston. The St. George heavyweights scored their first league victory, a 38 to 22 triumph over Loyola, while the Loyola lights won from St. George in the last three minutes of the game, 16 to 14.

Losing at the end of the first half, 9 to 8, Loyola lights rallied to tie the score in the last period, 14 to 14. Then Bill Durham sank the winning basket in the closing minutes. It was Loyola lights' second league victory and they now are tied for sectional lead with De Paul.

In the heavyweight game, St. George led, 21 to 11, at half time. Burns and Busscher starred for St. George, the former collecting four baskets and two free throws, and Busscher sinking four baskets. Lineups:

Blackhawks and Rangers Play 1-1 Tie

landed on the back of the prostrate goalie and unluckily rolled out in front instead of into the goal.

After some more very fast hockey, Gottselig took the puck in midice, passed to Ripley directly in front of the New York goal, and this time Ripley's shot was good for the tying goal. Immediately after this the same Hawk line pressed the attack, keeping the fans in an uproar and missing a goal three times in quick succession by inches.

Overtime Necessary.

Lowrey took the puck down ice, passed to Ingram, whose shot was stopped by Roach. Gainor and Somers were only stopped when Gardiner made a great save.

Lowrey and Thompson both gave Roach a chance to make great stops of their shots. Ching Johnson then drew a penalty and the Hawks pressed hard for the remainder of the period, but were unable to score and the game went into overtime.

When the overtime period started Johnson was still in the penalty box for a short time. Play was, however slowing up until Johnson again drew a penalty, after which the Hawks attacked the Ranger goal with five men. They were unable to score, however, before Johnson returned to the game.

With both teams at full strength, play again became cautious and slower. The game ended without further scoring.

DETROIT HALTS LEADING TORONTO HOCKEY TEAM, 3-2

New Players Help in Overtime Victory.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 3.—(AP)—The Detroit Falcons defeated Toronto's league leading Maple Leafs, 3 to 2, here tonight in an overtime National league hockey match that was a wild, uproarious scramble from start to finish.

The Falcons, bolstered by two newcomers, Happy Emms and Frank Carson from the New York Americans, set the pace for the first two periods, with Ebbie Goodfellow, Detroit scoring ace, handling the play. Goodfellow passed to Alex Smith for the first goal midway in the first period and scored on Larry Aurie's pass in the second.

Charley Conacher, big wingman, scored both Toronto goals in the third period. The game went into overtime and when King Clancy, Toronto defense star, drew a charging penalty, Johnny Sorrell, Detroit wingman, took a pass from Carson Cooper to score the winning goal for Detroit.

Although the game was one of the fastest ever played here, only four penalties were called. Lineup:

TORONTO [2].	DETROIT [3].
Chabot	Goal Connell
Levinsky	R. D. Noble
Day	L. D. Young
Darragh	C. Goodfellow
Gracie	L. W. Kilrea

Scoring—Sorrell [Cooper], 3:06.
Penalty—Clancy.

BRUINS, AMERICANS TIE

New York, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins and New York Americans played the first scoreless tie of the National Hockey league season tonight, winding up with a burst of hard, even play after Boston had made a farce out of the first period.

The Bruins, somewhat peeved at what they termed the drab defensive play of the Americans when they met a couple of weeks ago at Boston, set out to give the New Yorkers a taste of their own medicine and in the first period they "golfed" the puck down the ice no less than 40 times while making no pretense of a serious attack.

When the game opened up the American defense, backed by Roy Worters, who played one of his best games in the net, turned back every thrust. The Bruins had a big edge in the play.

George Owen, Bruin defense man, was given a major penalty in the first period when he accidentally cut Joe Lamb with his stick.

Lineup:

AMERICANS [0].	BOSTON [0].
Worters	Goal Thompson
Dutton	R. D. Shore
Ayres	L. D. Hitchman
Burch	C. Welland
Lamb	R. W. Clapper
Convey	L. W. Cook

Spares: Americans—Brydge, Shields, Himes, Filmore, Sheppard, McInenly, Kilrea, Jeremiah, McVeigh; Boston—Barry, Toshey, Owen, Galbraith, Chapman, Foster, Burke.

FIRST PERIOD.
Scoring—None.
Penalties—Burke, Ayres, Owen [major].

SECOND PERIOD.
Scoring—None.
Penalty—Filmore.

THIRD PERIOD.
Scoring—None.
Penalties—Burke, Brydge, Galbraith, Convey, Shore.

SHAMROCKS PLAY MAJORS TONIGHT; HOME TOMORROW

After tonight's game with the Buffalo Majors at Buffalo, the Shamrocks will have only 12 more contests left to play on the road. Eighteen games are yet to be played at home, the first of which will be tomorrow night at the Chicago Stadium against the Kansas City Pla-Mors. This will be another battle for the leadership of the American Hockey league.

Buffalo is said to be dissatisfied with the management of the club, and a change is planned. Eddie Oatman, a major player last year, is the manager.

CARDINAL AND O'CONNELL WIN OVERTIME GAMES

K. C. Fives Play 2 and 3 Extra Periods.

A three overtime period game between O'Connell and Columbus in the north division and a two extra period battle between Hughes and Cardinal in the central section featured yesterday's Knights of Columbus Basketball league games.

Cardinal defeated Hughes, 36 to 31, at St. Agnes gym, both teams cutting loose in the second extra period, which began with the score 25 to 25. At the end of the regulation game the tally was 23 to 23. The Carraro brothers, with 21 of the Cardinal points, showed the way in scoring.

A flurry of baskets in the third extra period won for O'Connell, 33 to 27, at the Rainbo Fronton. The regular time ended with the score 22 to 22. Each team made a basket in the first overtime and followed with a basket apiece in the second, which wound up 26 to 26. In the third extra five minute session Leonard started with a free throw, and Mangan and Gable followed with baskets to sew up the game.

made the match for the first fight which was to command country wide interest in Chicago's Tattersall's. This match brought together Kid McCoy and Tommy Ryan for the third time on May 29, 1900.

Every boxing follower in America had been shocked at the outcome of McCoy's first meeting with Ryan, which had taken place in the east.

McCoy, who now languishes in California's San Quentin prison, had been one of Ryan's sparring partners for quite a period. Finally he disappeared from Ryan's camp and was mysteriously missing for many months. At a time when he was almost forgotten along came a promoter who offered Ryan a match with a battler whose name was Kid McCoy.

McCoy Stuns Boxing World with Knockout.

"So the mug who used to be a punching bag for me wants a fight, eh?" Ryan asked. "Well, bring him on."

Thus Ryan took the match and straightway forgot to train for it.

The flabby, easily hit McCoy whom Ryan knew came into the ring on March 2, 1896, a lean, raw boned, hard punching combatant who knocked out Ryan in the fifteenth round, stunning everybody who followed the ups and downs of fighters.

They fought a second time the following year in Syracuse, but the police stopped the bout in the fifth round with the honors about even.

Boxing fans were not convinced that McCoy could whip Ryan again. What would happen if McCoy was asked to fight a perfectly trained Tommy Ryan? The question was debated everywhere. Furious arguments were the result.

Then Houseman, who had just helped put Tattersall's into motion as a center of pugilism, got the idea that this third imbroglio, which was bound to take place, should be presented at Tattersall's.

Our historian tells us that Houseman dug deep into the arena's scant bank roll for expense money before he set out to sign McCoy and Ryan. As he rolled along east toward their respective camps he envisioned the fight which he was confident would make Tattersall's known and talked about from one end of the nation to the other.

The making of the match and the fight that followed is a story in itself.

[The second tale of Tattersall's will appear in tomorrow's Tribune.]

MATCHMAKER

Lou Houseman, who, as matchmaker for Tattersall's, arranged many famous fights 30 years ago.

Levinsky to Begin Training for Paulino

King Levinsky begins strenuous training today for his ten round bout on Jan. 15 against Paulino Uzcudun at the Chicago Stadium.

The King hasn't made up his mind just how he will work for the Battering Basque. There was some thought of teaching the King a few boxing tricks, but that was abandoned when the King did everything wrong.

What worries his handlers most is the question of making the King shorten his punches and develop an attack for close-in fighting. Unless he has some sort of a defense for inside work and also some offense, Paulino will tear his midsection to pieces in close.

Jackie Fields, former welterweight champion, will start training at the Arcade gymnasium today for his title fight with Lou Brouillard, present 147 pound champion, at the Stadium on Jan. 28. Brouillard arrives ten days before the match.

Harry Dublinsky, Chicago welterweight, leaves for Niles, Mich., today where he boxes Pee Wee Jarrell tomorrow. The match will be Dublinsky's first since losing a decision to Kid Kaplan.

The supporting card for the Jack Roper-Al Friedman ten round windup Friday at the Rainbo Fronton includes Billy Gladstone and Jackie Davis in the six round semi-final. Other matches are Sammy Levine vs. Babe Kellar, Pat McLaughlin vs. Marion Matuszak, and Benny Goldblatt vs. Joey Freeman.

Sixteen Chicago amateurs will appear on the all star boxing card at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight. Ralph Lubansky will meet Johnny Duggan at 140 pounds.

Battalino Risks Title This Week Against Feldman

New York, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The busiest of ring champions, Christopher [Bat] Battalino of Hartford, Conn., will defend his featherweight championship at Madison Square Garden Friday night against a rising young New Yorker, Lew Feldman.

Particular interest attaches to Battalino's title defense because the featherweight king scaled 135½ pounds when he knocked out Al Singer in two rounds recently. He must scale nine and a half pounds less than that to get in at the featherweight limit of 126 pounds.

While Feldman has been coming along fast in a comparatively brief career he hardly rates with Battalino unless the champion finds the task of making weight too irksome. The match is at 15 rounds, the regular championship route.

There is a decided lull in activity in other boxing centers this week. The far west, however, offers a bantamweight duel at 10 rounds between Panama Al Brown and Speedy Dado of the Philippines, at Los Angeles tomorrow night. Bouts include:

MONDAY.
At Los Angeles—Al Brown vs. Speedy Dado, 10.
At New York—Walter Cobb vs. Salvatore Ruzzirello, 10; Ben Jeby vs. Battling Tracey, 8.
At Louisville—Clyde Hull vs. Young Firpo, 10, and Bill Grigsby vs. De Witt Young 8.

TUESDAY.
At Indianapolis—Jack Redman vs. Matt Adgie, 10.
At West Palm Beach, Fla.—K. O. Johnny Roberts vs. Muggs Kerr, 10; Jess McMurtry vs. Gene Westergard; Cowboy Tex Mills vs. Danny Mahoney, and Trenton Vaughn vs. Roy Hamilton, each 8.

WEDNESDAY.
At Tacoma, Wash.—Les Bain vs. Leslie [Wildcat] Carter, 6.

THURSDAY.
At Philadelphia—Tony Falco vs. Ernie Caesar, 8.

FRIDAY.
At New York—Christopher [Bat] Battalino vs. Lew Feldman, 15 [title]; Johnny Pena vs. Freddie Miller; Dave Shade vs. Joey Lagrey, and Bob Olin vs. Adolph Heuser, each 8.
At Cleveland—Jack December vs. Tug Phillips, 6.
At Columbus, O.—Steve Demeter vs. Jack O'Donnell, 10; Lou Bloom vs. Al Gahn, 10.
At Detroit — Maxie Straub vs. Ray Miller, 10.

SPARTA DEFEATS MILWAUKEE CLUB IN SOCCER GAME

Sparta advanced to the second round of the national soccer cup competition by defeating the Deutscher club of Milwaukee, Wisconsin champion, 3 to 0, at Sparta field yesterday.

The Bohemians, through a penalty goal by Mrnka, had a 1 to 0 lead at half time and then boosted the total in the second period when Wagovsik and Adams counted.

The Bricklayers won from the Olympias, 2 to 0, and the Norwegian-Americans held the Maccabees to a 4 to 4 tie in exhibition games. Lineup:

MICHIGAN BEGINS TO WORRY OVER SMELT PLETHORA

BY BOB BECKER.

While most states are bothered by the fact that they haven't enough fish to fill streams and lakes, the new year finds Michigan worrying about one species that is too numerous. The common Atlantic smelt is the species which is giving Michigan authorities trouble because this stranger to the waters of Lake Michigan has increased its numbers so rapidly that now it is filling the nets of the commercial fishermen and thus becoming a nuisance.

Illinois fishermen who want an early spring trip to see a lot of fish and at the same time witness one of the most spectacular fish runs of the year, will find it worth while to go to the west coast of Michigan when the smelt are running. The fish come out of the big lake and ascend numerous small streams to spawn.

Thousands Watch Parade.

Thousands of people gather on the banks of the stream and so abundant are the smelt that the spectators have been able to dip a mess of fish out of the creek with a net. Recently the smelt have been running up Lake Charlevoix to Boyne City and there have been spring runs at Petoskey and other places. Along the shore of Lake Michigan dock and ice fishermen also harvest the smelt crop while each spring records new streams being invaded by the fish.

The curious thing about this smelt increase and the trouble it is causing the commercial fisherman is that the species was brought into Lake Michigan by authorities in order to feed landlocked salmon.

Eaten by Game Fish.

Then some one conceived the idea that the smelt would provide just the right kind of meals for the big game fish, so this stranger from the Atlantic coast was turned loose in Lake Michigan.

Now we find that the salmon never has done much in Michigan waters while the smelt is slowly running away with the show. Last summer thousands of the little ones weighing about 20 to the pound clogged the gill nets of commercial fishermen and had to be thrown away.

DAIRY FARMERS HOLD MEETINGS TO PLAN NEW YEAR

Expect Price Discussions at Gatherings.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Seventeen district meetings of dairy farmers within a radius of 150 miles of Chicago are scheduled between tomorrow and Jan. 16 at which, it is expected, that some 21,000 producers will outline plans of maintaining quality milk production for a population of more than four million persons during 1932.

The first gathering, at Palatine High school tomorrow evening, is expected to sound the keynote of the attitude dairymen will assume over the reduction in milk prices Jan. 1 from 13 to 12 cents per quart. The farmers have shouldered three-fourths of the reduction and will be paid slightly more than one-third of the price paid by consumers.

Milk Bill $160,000 Daily.

Chicago itself is expected to consume at least 750 million quarts of milk in 1932, according to officials of the Pure Milk association, the organization of dairy farmers supplying Chicago and 65 nearby markets. Chicago's milk bill is in excess of $160,000 daily, of which the farmers receive about $62,300.

It is estimated that 85 per cent of the $22,739,500 paid farmers annually for the city's milk is returned by them to the city's merchants and manufacturers in purchases of equipment, clothing, and supplies. These figures are for the city proper. The adjoining 65 markets, extending to Freeport, Beloit, and Kankakee, if included would increase the totals 20 per cent.

Advantages of Small Farms.

The advantages of the small farm as compared to the large or corporation type in such economic times as these are being championed by farmers in Chicagoland. A recent survey by the University of Illinois showed the average size of farms to be 140 acres. Owner and tenant operated farms were almost equal in numbers.

On such farms the family can all be profitably employed to reduce overhead costs, the farmers report. By producing poultry products, vegetables, fruits, and honey, a sideline income is made possible, in addition to making the family close to self sufficiency. Most dairymen also raise hogs, from which the winter meat supply is obtained as well as a cash outlet for skim milk or surplus products.

Few farmers in the association's membership now attempt to farm without horses, it is found. Consuming the farm's own products, repair and fuel costs are reduced or eliminated. The university survey also shows the ratio of pasture acres to total acres on these farms to be 1 to 4.1.

The average dairyman is keeping 25 cows, of which 18 to 19 are being milked. Eighty-five per cent of the dairies use silos for winter feeding and one-fifth of them operate mechanical milking equipment.

A St. Louis National Bank, $1,250,000 Deposits, Shuts

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 4 [Monday].—(AP)—The Vandeventer National bank of St. Louis, with capital stock of $250,000 and deposits of $1,250,000, was ordered closed by its board of directors early today and an assistant national bank examiner was asked to take charge. There had been a slow run on the bank for several weeks, the director said. W. C. Johnson is president of the institution.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The Window Shopper

BARONET SAILS, BUT HIS HEART IS IN WATERLOO

Reluctant at Leaving Elevator Job.

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Sir Reginald Beatty Wolseley was a third class passenger as the White Star liner Baltic sailed for England. He left with Lady Wolseley, who at last has persuaded him to leave his elevator at the Blackhawk building in Waterloo, Ia., and take his place among England's nobility.

Sir Reginald was not a very happy traveler, nor was he very enthusiastic at going back to his native land after thirty-seven years of precarious living in this country. Chaperoned by his wife, Sir Reginald seemed uncomfortable during an interview with reporters, but he tried to be pleasant.

For the interview Lady Wolseley led her husband from the third class quarters to the first class boat deck. His coat was buttoned up around his neck to keep every one ignorant that he wore no vest. Sir Reginald sits down whenever possible, his fallen arches making standing a hardship. To this physical disability he lays his failure to make more of himself in this country.

Ambitions Defer to Feet.

"I might have been a go-getter," he said, "but my poor feet wouldn't stand any rushing about in outside work."

Sir Reginald has been a baronet for nine years. Not until 1930, however, did he reveal to his friends that he was a baronet. The title became public knowledge after Lady Wolseley, then Miss Marion Elizabeth Baker, arrived in Waterloo and told him that she had promised his mother on her deathbed that she would marry and care for her son and bring him back to England.

They were married on May 25, 1930, and Lady Wolseley returned home the next day. She understood that he would follow her, but he was too much attached to his elevator to leave. Instead he obtained a divorce last October on grounds of "extreme cruelty."

Goes Back After Him.

The publicity was detrimental to Lady Wolseley, who is a religious worker. She found many pulpits closed to her because of her divorce. Last month she made a second trip to Iowa and the differences between the couple were patched up. Their plans are indefinite. They may live in a small cottage in Devonshire, a gift to Lady Wolseley from a relative. Sir Reginald may obtain a position as a librarian.

Sir Reginald shook his silvery head and doubted whether a librarian's work would be as interesting as running an elevator.

"This business of running an elevator is a fine occupation," he said, "and it paid well, too. I earned my $20 a week, and in fourteen years I didn't save a cent. You see, I always did like a good living, so I spent it all."

Lady Wolseley dropped her seriousness for a moment, saying:

"Pshaw, you or no other Wolseley ever could save. You Wolseleys always have been a reckless lot, and you know it."

Lady Wolseley broke into the interview to read a statement Sir Reginald had signed, and which he agreed contained his sentiments. It read:

"I wish to say that, because of the great distance that my wife and I were apart so soon after our marriage, I quite misunderstood her. Now that we have come to a better understanding of each other, I take back all those things I may have said or done. I am sorry it caused her so much trouble and I hope to atone for it, and believe that we shall be very happy together."

As the Baltic backed into midstream Sir Reginald freed himself from the restraining hand of Lady Wolseley and shouted:

"Please tell my friends in Waterloo I might be back."

ASKS LAW TO GUARD WINDSHIELD WIPERS FROM BILL PEDDLERS

An ordinance prohibiting persons from inserting bills, folders or pamphlets between the windshield and the windshield wiper of automobiles will be sought at the meeting of the city council today by Ald. John Toman [23d].

It has been the practice of bill peddlers, according to Ald. Toman, to lift the wiper away from the windshield before inserting the bill or folder, thus often damaging the wiper. The practice has been noted especially, he said, by motorists parking near the loop and in the vicinity of shopping centers.

"The ordinance is necessary as a traffic safety measure," the alderman explained. "If the wiper is bent it sweeps the air instead of cleaning the windshield. Or it may be sufficiently damaged so that it does not work at all. In either case the damage is not noticed by the motorist until the wiper's operation is necessary to drive safely."

Charles A. Barton, Official of Seng Company, Dead

Charles A. Barton, 55 years old, secretary-treasurer of the Seng company, manufacturers of furniture hardware, died yesterday in his home, 1216 Chestnut street, Wilmette, following several months illness. He was a captain in the ordnance corps during the world war, serving at the Rock Island arsenal, and held the commission of major in the army reserve corps. His widow, Mrs. Rose Seng Barton, and three children, Mrs. Rosamond Kullman, and Suzanne and Gregory C. Barton, survive. Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow in St. Francis Xavier Roman Catholic church, in Wilmette, followed by burial in Calvary cemetery.

Mrs. Middleton, Widow of Pullman Official, Dead

Mrs. Cornelia Scribner Middleton, 70 years old, died yesterday in the home of her sister, Miss Mary C. Scribner, 5717 Harper avenue. Mrs. Middleton was the widow of Harvey Middleton, for many years general manager of the Pullman car works. She had been an invalid in recent years, but formerly was active in the affairs of the Church of the Redeemer, 1420 East 56th street. Funeral services will be held at 5 o'clock today in the home of Miss Scribner, after which the body will be taken to New Albany, Ind., Mrs. Middleton's birthplace, for burial.

PLAN TO HURRY CUPID BY STATE AIDED DOWRIES

N.Y. Would Encourage Early Marriage.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The lawmakers of this state are considering taking on the roles of cupids in order to do something about the bachelor situation in both male and female circles. A "dowry bill," it was learned today, will be introduced into the legislature when that body convenes next month and its aim will be to get young people married at a biologically suitable age.

The measure to assist and encourage marriage at an early age is being sponsored by Capt. Julius Hochfelder of Brooklyn, and will be introduced by Assemblyman Maurice Z. Bungard. The bill provides for an insurance policy to be taken out by the parents of a child on its first birthday and made payable to the child on its 21st birthday. The state would pay a share of the dividends and the sum of money would be for the specific purpose of entering into a matrimonial alliance.

Not Compulsory Arrangement.

The projected bill, according to its sponsors, would not be a compulsory measure, but would merely provide an aid to far sighted parents in promoting the marriage of their offspring at a point in their lives when marriage is often contemplated but not always carried out because of economic reasons.

The economic depression, the maintenance of higher standards of living and the comforts of small bachelor apartments in a city where both men and women are permitted to lead as individual lives as they please, has knocked the bottom out of the marriage market and thereby sent the birth rate skidding down a sharp decline. There were only about 52,000 marriages in New York City last year, a decline of approximately 10 per cent over 1930.

Dr. Shirley W. Wynne, commissioner of health, reveals that this city's birth rate now stands at 16.31 a thousand of population. In 1915 it was 27.04, and has been declining steadily since that date.

Birth Rate Goes Down.

A number of factors, including the spread of birth control information, have been found to be responsible for the shortage in New York's baby crop. The tendency of both young men and young women of this city to shift for themselves and steer clear of the entanglements of matrimony, however, is believed to be the outstanding reason for the low birth rate.

Friends Learn of Death of Dr. James E. Reynolds

Friends learned yesterday of the death in San Diego, Cal., of Dr. James E. Reynolds, 71 years old, who formerly lived in Melrose Park and practiced medicine in Chicago and its suburbs for more than forty years. Dr. Reynolds retired in 1928 and moved to California. Dr. Reynolds had served on the staff of several Chicago hospitals as a surgeon.

SOVIET COUNCIL TO REORGANIZE; SPEED INDUSTRY

MOSCOW, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Rumors of an impending reorganization of the supreme economic council, controlling body of soviet industry, into three separate branches to push forward the five year plan were current here today. The council probably would be split into at least three commissariats in the near future, it was understood.

The reorganization would be in line with the recently inaugurated policy of decentralizing those branches of the soviet economy which, by rapid growth in the carrying out of the five year plan, have become unwieldy. (This is the fourth year of the five year plan and soviet Russia has been urged by its leaders to complete the plan this year.)

HOLD MEMORIAL EXERCISES FOR MRS. TREADWELL

Memorial services for Mrs. Harriette Taylor Treadwell, for many years a principal in the Chicago public schools, were held yesterday in Abraham Lincoln center, 700 Oakwood boulevard. Mrs. Treadwell died on Dec. 12. She is survived by a son, Charles H. Treadwell, a teacher at Tilden Technical High school.

Among those who paid tribute to the late educator were William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools; Mrs. W. S. Hefferen, a school trustee; Mrs. Henry H. Hilton of the Chicago Woman's club, and others who represented many women's civic groups.

Charles H. Waters, Veteran of Fire Department, Dead

Charles H. Waters, 69 years old, 5509 Lincoln avenue, a retired veteran of 35 years' service in the fire department, died suddenly of a heart attack in his home yesterday. At one time he was chief engineer on the fire boat Yosemite. He is survived by his widow, Mayme; a daughter, Mrs. John Morrison, and two sons, Earl M. and Charles H. Jr. Funeral services will be held at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning from the home to St. Hilary's church. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery.

High Taxes Cut Drinking of Beer in Germany 22 Pct.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 3.—Hard times and excessive beer taxes in Germany proved almost as effective as prohibition. Beer consumption in the fatherland dropped 22 per cent, compared to the previous year. Only 925,000,000 gallons of beer were consumed in Germany in the year ending Sept. 30, 1931, as against 1,181,000,000 gallons consumed in the year before.

J. W. LEES, RETIRED STEEL OFFICIAL, TAKEN BY DEATH

John W. Lees, retired vice president of the Inland Steel company, died yesterday in his home, 3443 Fir street, Indiana Harbor, after an illness of ten months.

Mr. Lees, who was 68 years old, was vice president in charge of operations for his company in Indiana Harbor until he retired from active management ten years ago. He came to the Chicago region from the east twenty-nine years ago and installed the plant at Indiana Harbor. He was a member of the Chicago and South Shore clubs.

Surviving Mr. Lees are his widow and one daughter. Funeral services will be held at McGuan's chapel in Indiana Harbor at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow.

EASTERN ROADS TO PUSH THEIR MERGER PLAN

Assail Proposal for Five Systems.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 3.—The eastern railroad consolidation movement will get under way again on Wednesday, as public hearings on the four party plan for this area will start before the interstate commerce commission.

The plan of the commission for the east called for five systems, but about 80 per cent of the mileage involved received like allocation in each plan. Claude R. Porter of the commission will conduct the hearing, reporting with recommendations to the full commission, which in turn will make the decision.

No applications for individual consolidations will be made at this hearing. The heads of the four eastern trunk lines submitted the plan to the commission with a view to having that body pass upon the public interest involved in a four system plan. Should the commission find in favor of this principle, the railroads would then be in a position to submit detailed plans for acquisition of different lines.

What Roads Will Show.

The railroads will endeavor to show that to divide the railroads between the Mississippi and the Atlantic into five systems would leave some of them strong and some of them weak instead of providing a group of financially strong and well balanced systems capable of providing the maximum public service. It is contended for the four party plan that it preserves existing routes and channels of trade and provides for full competition. All the four proposed systems would have equal access to Atlantic and Great Lakes ports.

The four systems would be based, respectively, on the New York Central, Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, and Chesapeake and Ohio. The B. & O. has already merged the major mileage in its enlarged system. Most of the properties to be merged in the C. & O. system are already under the control of the Van Sweringen interests.

In respect to mileage, capital structure, earning capacity and traffic resources, the four systems are designed to be as nearly balanced as possible. It is contended for the systems as proposed that they would have the maximum of strength. Proponents of railroad consolidation assert that if the principle had been put into effect ten years ago the railroads would be weathering the current depression more favorably than is the case now.

Receive Aid from Pool.

Under the increase in rates to take effect nationally tomorrow, weaker railroads will receive aid from a pool to be accumulated through working of the higher tariffs on the stronger roads. Had these weaker lines been consolidated earlier in the decade, as provided in the transportation act of 1920, they would be sharing the earning power of the stronger lines.

If the result of next week's hearing is to cause the commission to amend its plan to call for four systems instead of five, the next procedures would be the filing of actual consolidation, unification or acquisitions of control petitions. In each of the instances named, the railroads making the applications would be required to show that their proposals were in the public interest and that the terms and conditions were just and reasonable.

The four party plan would change the railroad map little. Its proposed effect is economy. While there have been sundry objections raised to certain allocations in the four party plan, notably against the allocation of the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville to the Baltimore and Ohio, the chief objections have been raised by the Delaware and Hudson and by the New England governors with the exception of Rhode Island's. The D. & H. resents subdivision among the larger lines as proposed in the plan.

Bond Market Takes on Tone of Firmness

New York, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Although no unusual records were established, the bond market during the last week took on a quiet firmness that encouraged some dealers to hope for a continued recovery in major securities.

There was more than the usual selling to establish income tax losses, but it was absorbed steadily. United States government issues took the lead in an upward swing Thursday and it was reported that important bank buying was taking place in this list.

Start Upward Swing.

The rails, long depressed, started an upward swing with the low priced carriers attracting most attention. Announcement that the roads had arranged for payment of their interest charges and belief that the executives and union leaders would arrive at a satisfactory adjustment of the wage reduction question led to greater activity among the transportation loans.

While there was a sagging in a majority of the domestic liens at the short session Saturday, at the same time there was noted an underlying strength that gave much encouragement to dealers.

Can Use Book Value.

One of the reasons given for the better feeling in the market was the announcement by the controller of the currency that he would permit banks to use book value instead of market value for bonds in making up their year-end reports.

In the foreign list Japanese bonds continued to move downward, although they steadied at the week-end. German obligations, which have recently shown strength, lost much of their gains Saturday under heavy selling. Argentine loans advanced several points and British 5½s closed with a slight advance.

STEADY GAIN IN DEPOSITS NOTED BY SEARS BANK

A steady growth in deposits has marked the first six months of the existence of the Sears-Community State bank located in the Sears-Roebuck building at Arthington street and Homan avenue, according to bank officials.

Since the call of June 30, 1931, the deposits of the institution have grown from $1,120,000 to $1,955,000 as of December 31, 1931. Between the June 30 and the Sept 29 calls the increase amounted to $631,000, while the last quarter of 1931 saw another increase of $204,000 in deposits. The total increase in the last six months has been $835,000.

Ralph Budd Becomes Head of Burlington Road Today

Ralph Budd will assume the presidency of the Burlington railroad system Monday. He comes from St. Paul, where he was president of the Great Northern railroad, and succeeds F. E. Williamson on the Burlington, the latter becoming president of the New York Central. Mr. Budd was born in Waterloo, Ia., in 1879 and was graduated from the engineering department in Highland Park college, Des Moines, Ia. He was chief engineer of the Panama Canal railroad from 1906 to 1909.

YEAR END MELON OF DIVIDENDS IS NEARLY BILLION

Only About Ten Pct. Below Last Year.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 3.—Investors this week began to reap their year-end harvest of dividends and interest. Although reduced by cuts and omissions by many important corporations, the total, nevertheless, will reach the tidy sum of approximately $1,000,000,000 That is about 10 per cent less than was paid over the last year-end.

Interest payments due Jan. 1 but actually paid Jan. 2 account for the bulk of the disbursements. They are estimated at approximately $595,000,000, or only a few millions less than the estimated total of $600,000,000 paid out to investors a year ago.

The negligible decrease in the total is accounted for by reduced payments by the United States treasury as a result of various refunding operations.

Fare Less Fortunately.

Stockholders of corporations, on the other hand, have fared less fortunately. By reason of the fact that about 2,650 dividends have been either cut or omitted in the last twelve months the amount of year-end payments on shares has been sharply curtailed.

It estimated that they will be about 10 per cent less next month than they were a year ago. The amount is somewhat in excess of $400,000,000, compared with more than $500,000,000 in January of this year.

The same ratio of decrease in dividend payments may be applied to the full year as for the year end. It is calculated that the amount paid to shareholders in dividends during the year now drawing to a close was approximately $4,500,000,000. Payments in 1930 are estimated to have been about $5,000,000,000.

Fairly Constant.

Interest payments to holders of government and corporation bonds, on the other hand, have been a fairly constant factor owing to comparatively few defaults, with the result that the sum total for 1931 is estimated at approximately the same amount as the previous year, which would bring the aggregate to approximately $4,500,000,000. It accordingly appears that investors in stocks and bonds last year received a grand total in dividends and interest of about $9,000,000,000 in spite of the depression in business.

The widespread decline in corporation earnings resulted in a general movement to reduce dividend obligations which embraced nearly all of the better known companies whose stocks are listed on the New York Stock exchange.

Few Escape Ax.

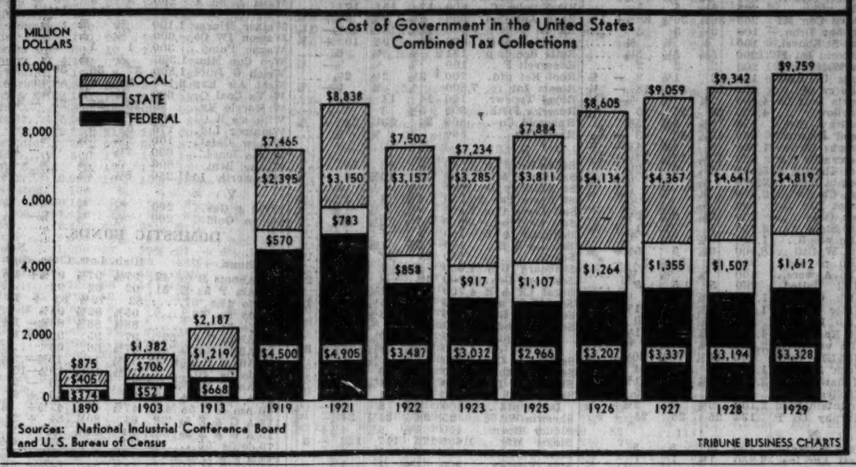
Few corporations escaped the dividend ax, but two instances stand out conspicuously among the exceptions. Those are the American Telephone and Telegraph company and the Standard Oil company of New Jersey.

Each of those corporations last year paid larger sums in the aggregate to investors in their shares than ever before. The American Telephone and Telegraph company made the remarkable disbursement of more than $162,000,000, which compared with $139,228,073 paid the previous year, a gain of nearly $23,000,000.

The next dividend on shares of the American Telephone and Telegraph company will be payable Jan. 15. It will be the largest quarterly disbursement in the aggregate that the company has ever made to its stockholders. The amount will be approximately $41,850,000. It will go to the largest number of stockholders in the history of the company, exceeding 600,000.

The Standard Oil company of New Jersey also established a high record for dividends in 1931, its aggregate distribution for the period having been approximately in excess of $51,000,000, compared with slightly less than that sum in 1930.

Tax collections approximate ten billions annually—local governments get twice as much as in 1919



AVERAGE OF 240 STOCKS 78 PCT. BELOW 1929 PEAK

Many Lows Recorded in December.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 3.—The level of stock prices at the end of December was virtually at the bottom for the current reaction. Although an upturn occurred following the bear market low established Dec. 17, prices fell off again after a three day rally and, except for a slight upswing in the last few trading days, would have duplicated the previous low mark.

As it was, many leading stocks made new lows near the month end. Trading volume was greater than in the previous month.

Decline in Values.

Based on the fluctuations in prices of 245 stocks listed on the New York Stock exchange, comprising twenty of the most important groups, values depreciated $2,447,200,200, or 18 per cent, in December, compared with a loss of $1,784,140,768, or 15 per cent, in November. In December, 1930, the depreciation was $2,322,152,795, equal to 10 per cent. Prices of stocks on the average are now at the lowest level since 1922, according to most of the accepted market indices.

Every group participated in the decline, with special pressure being centered on the so-called blue chips of other days.

Down 78% from Peak.

Stock values on the New York Stock exchange based on a compilation of 240 issues in the year 1931 were $13,531,625,106 less than at the end of 1930, or 55 per cent. They have shrunk $40,381,580,576, or 78 per cent, since the end of September, 1929, the last full month of rising prices.

Some of the major groups show the following losses for 1931: Oils, 57 per cent; public utilities, 49 per cent; railroads, 69 per cent; steels, 80 per cent; motors, 38 per cent, and amusements 77 per cent from the closing prices of the previous year. The losses from the end of September, 1929, to Dec. 31, 1931, in percentages were: Oils, 78; public utilities, 76; railroads, 82; steels, 89; motors, 71, and amusements, 86 per cent.

ANNUAL EXHIBIT OPENS TODAY AT FURNITURE MART

The national furniture style show opens this morning at the American Furniture mart, 666 Lake Shore drive. New products made in the country's leading furniture factories will be shown to retail dealers gathered in Chicago for the event.

For the first time in several years prices will be guaranteed against decline if a movement sponsored by the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers is successful. Placards to be placed in the exhibition spaces and stating that the furnishings shown will not be sold at a lower figure than the price quoted, for a period of from three to six months, have been furnished to exhibitors.

"The movement to guarantee prices against declines, to assure dealers that they can safely buy during the coming season, has gone over successfully," Dr. A. P. Haake, managing director of the nation association, said. "It is clear that a majority of the industry will come to market individually pledged to guarantee their own prices. The buyers themselves want stabilized prices and relief from further reductions."

At the same time Roscoe Rau, managing director of the National Retail Furniture association, announced that wholesale and retail prices of furniture are now 20 per cent below the level of 1917, and 65 per cent under the 1920 figures.

Endicott-Johnson Shoe Profits in Sharp Upturn

Endicott Johnson corporation, shoe manufacturer, reports net profits of $2,580,565 for the eleven months ended Nov. 28, 1931, against $765,267 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1930.

ELECTRIC INDUSTRY DURING '31 IMPROVES OLDER INVENTIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 3.—The electrical manufacturing industry continued throughout 1931 the extensive research and development work which have characterized its operations for many years, with the result that many new devices and improvements to older inventions came to light despite the depression.

Facilities for research work by the General Electric company were increased by the construction of laboratory apparatus of higher powers and greater refinement, according to John Liston, chief technical writer of the company, and the field investigations of lightning, among other developments, were aided by new instruments.

Outstanding among developments in the turbo-generator field was the building of a 213,000 horsepower tandem-compound unit for the Brooklyn Edison company, the single generator of this machine being more than 50 per cent larger in capacity than any previous generator of corresponding speed.

The 147,000 horsepower vertical-compound unit for the Ford River Rouge station was placed in successful operation; this is not only the largest high pressure turbine but also the largest generating unit of any type so far constructed for an industrial power plant.

Two new mercury-vapor power plant equipments were under construction in 1931, each of which will have a rating of 27,000 horsepower, or more than double the previous maximum.

PROPHETS GROW MORE CAUTIOUS IN PREDICTIONS

Are Conservatively Hopeful for '32.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 3.—As there was reason to except, the new year prophecies which have been hazarded were this time extremely cautious.

That practically all should be conservatively hopeful was also to have been anticipated, not so much because the habit of the season predisposes to consideration of the brighter side of things as because nobody likes to be publicly known as predicting evil.

The fact that the economists are not as squeamish as the business men may explain the gloomy character of several contingent prophecies set forth to last week's economic convention at Washington. It has to be confessed that the record of similar economists in prediction, at the top of the "boom" in 1929, has somewhat prejudiced the public attitude towards prophecy from just that source. But that does not prove them wrong.

Many of the writers who have lately

HILL, JOINER & CO., INC.

NEW YORK CHICAGO 112 West Adams Street BOSTON

About face—forward march!

Let's about face . . . Forget the gloomy past—except to profit from our experience . . . and march forward in 1932 towards better things. Let's make the best use of time, position, money and opportunity.

That is our message for the New Year.

And our services are always available to forward-looking people—now or later. We are better equipped with men, money and method—and more understanding of the problems which confront the people of this community. It has always been our pleasure and will ever continue to be a privilege to have a part in the programs and ambitions of Chicago citizens . . . whether in the extension of personal loans, which we make from $50 to $5,000 . . . or safeguarding personal savings of any amount.

PROPHETS GROW MORE CAUTIOUS IN PREDICTIONS

Conservatively Hopeful for This Year.

endeavored to solve the mystery of the existing economic reaction have expressed opinion that it means a great impending change in the financial and economic organism. One of them suggests that the "cracks and fissures" appearing in the economic structure may indicate the breaking up of one era and the starting point of another.

The idea is plausible; not less so when students of financial history are aware that precisely the same thing may be said in retrospect, and in the light of subsequent events, regarding the longer aftermath of every previous period of the kind.

The "new era" talk of 1928 and 1929 serves nowadays mostly as a target for reminiscent ridicule; but that does not alter the perfectly well known economic fact that the character of economic history and the working of economic machinery has never been exactly the same, after a great panic and a period of profound depression, as it was before the crash.

Moves on Different Lines.

Our own financial history, after the prolonged depression following 1893, moved on very different lines from those which had previously been pursued. So did our economic history after 1873 and its immediate sequel. If there were no other evidence of this, the fact would be sufficient that in the aftermath of 1893 the United States became for the first time the granary of the outside world, and that it made its first appearance as a creditor nation after 1893.

Even the character of the markets, the attitude of financiers, the methods of banking and of industrial development, were changed on emerging from those crises. That they changed invariably for the better is a matter of established history.

The certainty, in the light of human experience, that the sequel to the hard times of 1931 and 1930 will be the same is perhaps just now the most cheerful consideration in the outlook. It does not answer the question, which is at present the main source of popular concern, "What will happen to prices and business and company profits and investment values during 1932?"

Two Trends of Opinion.

The two trends of underlying opinion on that matter are visible enough—one, that the economic strain and disastrous deflation of 1931 indicated accumulating forces which will be vastly more destructive during 1932, and will occasion general breakdown; the other, that compulsory reaction, readjustment, retrenchment and liquidation have been so thorough as to indicate the eventual completion of the process. In the nature of things, the correctness of neither position is acceptable of proof.

When that is so, however, it is the usual habit of calm reasoners to base their own view on the previous course of human experience. It is also conceivable that the earth will shortly be reduced to cinders by a collision in the solar system. But the man who adjusted his own business affairs to the prospect of the astronomical convulsion would be quickly removed from any place of financial responsibility.

Cites Different Phases.

Neither catastrophe has happened in the experience of the past, and the record of events shows pretty clearly why. The story of our preceding periods of economic hardship and depression has not varied, unless in the emphasis placed for the moment, by special influences of the day, on one or another phase of them. In each, the crash of financial panic has been followed by uncertain and always underestimated reaction; then by a season of acute and bewildering distress, in which timid souls abandon all hopes of the future; next by a pause of seeming exhaustion, bringing little sign of positive recovery but no renewal of spectacular collapse, and finally, not long afterward, by return of hope and confidence and the unexpectedly speedy dawn of a happier day.

OUTPUT OF STEEL GAINS SLIGHTLY AFTER HOLIDAYS

Demand for Copper Drops; Prices Steady.

New York, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Reflecting moderately improved buying and reopening of some plants following the Christmas holidays, steel operations expanded slightly in the past week, bringing the estimated rate of production up to 22 per cent of capacity.

The trade is hopeful that further improvement will develop from the automotive trade as well as railroads when the advance in freight rates becomes effective Jan. 4. Structural awards gained quite sharply. The price outlook is still said to be unsettled, and although efforts to bring about a steadier basis for the first quarter are reported, metal is still being sold at concessions. Pig iron has been barely steady, although slightly larger shipments were made.

Demand Tapers Off.

Copper remained quiet, with domestic consumers still out of the market and foreign demand tapering off sharply when the London market turned easier. In the absence of demand, however, sellers are not pressing the market, and prices hold steady at 7¼c for electrolytic delivered in the Connecticut valley.

Domestic tin prices have eased under the regular import parity owing to moderate dealer selling pressure, but there has been no improvement in demand with consumers remaining out of the market.

Buying Restricted.

Lead was quiet and steady, although prior to the New Year's day holiday there were said to be indications of a slightly improved demand. Generally, however, buying was restricted to carload lots for prompt shipment.

No change occurred in the zinc market, which was still dull. Smelters were not inclined to make concessions in order to attract business, but buyers showed little or no buying interest.

Antimony eased slightly under pressure of small prompt lots, but there was little indication of improved buying interest.

AUTO INDUSTRY IN HEALTHY CONDITION, ERSKINE ASSERTS

"The automobile industry enters 1932 in a healthy condition, physically and mentally," A. R. Erskine, president of the Studebaker corporation, stated yesterday. "Plant facilities are shipshape and new products of surpassing merit are launched upon the market. Never in its long, glorious history has the industry functioned so brilliantly, efficiently and economically in expressing itself to motor car buyers in particular and to the transportation world in general. The cars exhibited at the New York and Chicago National Automobile shows will themselves demonstrate these achievements and create new buying urge in the markets.

"Many of the existing cars, numbering six millions practically worn out, must be replaced in 1932 through sheer necessity, if normal transportation requirements are to be met. Over 20 million passenger cars and three million commercial cars now operate in America, moving people and goods back and forth, mostly bent on business. Only motor cars can do this work because horses are gone from our streets and roads.

"Is the United States a 20 million car country, or are we a 15 million car country, as some economists suggest? O ut of the six million cars and trucks over seven years old and now in use, how many must be replaced in 1932 because of obsolescence? How many people who own them will be able to buy new cars? Consideration of these questions interests the automobile industry. The outcome will determine the degree and extent of its operations in 1932, and inevitably bear directly upon the business prosperity of the country as a whole."

Commonwealth Customers Pay LESS for LOANS

$2.93 is the average Monthly Cost of a $225 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

COMMONWEALTH'S rate on amounts above $100 is substantially lower than the lawful rate usually charged.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

THERE ARE NO fees or deductions. You may take 25 months or pay all or part sooner. Interest at the Reduced Rate is charged only while you keep the money.

Also Salary and Auto Loans.
